Marcia Erickson enters pageant

(This is the last in a series of articles about candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title. The Official Miss America Preliminary Scholarship Pageant will be held Saturday, July 10, at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.)

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

When Marcia Erickson presents her talent number in the Miss Thief River Falls scholarship pageant Saturday evening, being in competition won't be a new experience for her. She has played in piano contests in a number of areas.

Twenty-year-old Marcia is the daughter of Carroll and Sue Erickson of Thief River Falls, a 1991 graduate of Lincoln high school and has completed her second year at Bethel College in St. Paul, majoring in elementary education and minoring in music. She is five feet eight inches tall, has blonde hair and hazel eyes. As noted above, her talent number will be a piano solo.

Among her previous contests were a second place finish in Scott's Music Store's fifth annual piano competition, second place in the Ann Lamb piano competition at Bemidji State University and winner of the Minnesota Music Teachers Association all-state piano contest which qualified her to perform at Northrup auditorium at the University of Minnesota for the MMTA state convention. She was a first place talent winner at the Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant in St Paul.

In addition to taking piano lessons for nearly 12 years, she played the oboe for five years, sang in the high school choir for two years and the college choir for one year. A high school cheerleader for three years she won an athletic participation award for that activity and received a special piano accompanist award at Lincoln.

A member of First Baptist church in Thief River Falls where her father is pastor, she was president of the youth group there while in high school. Her mother is a sales representative and her sister Debbie, 27, is a former Miss Thief River Falls and Miss Minnesota finalist. Marcia will wear the same dress while performing her talent number that Debbie wore at the Miss Minnesota pageant.

A clerk at the J. C. Penney department store, Marcia has also been an assistant at Lake Bronson Bible Camp, worked at Unicover Corporation in Cheyenne, WY and at the post office at Bethel College in St. Paul.

Her hobbies include music, gardening, aerobic exercise and spending time with friends and family.

Among her new experiences in 1992 was participation in "Frontier Days" in Cheyenne, WY.

Marcia said she would use any scholarship money she might receive through the pageant toward earning her degree in elementary education. She said her ambition for the future is to become successful in her career and "give something back to those who have been generous to me."

School board and city council discuss issues

Members of the Thief River Falls city council and School District 564 board held a joint meeting to discuss a number of items of common interest.

Items on the agenda included uses for the elementary schools and the district service center which will be abandoned with the construction of the new elementary school; the need to develop more cooperation between the school district community education department and the city park and recreation department; and the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

School district officials are still waiting to hear a report from a developer who examined Knox and Northrop elementary schools. School Superintendent Bob Duncan said they are still waiting to hear whether anything can be done with the buildings. A number of issues need to be resolved before the school district pushes beyond the first step in unloading the buildings. Duncan said the board was not sure what the needs of the community are, except for sports.

For its part, the city is in the process of compiling the results of a survey, explained Mayor Robert Reeve. The city is also aware that it is in need of housing.

Other factors will also play into the final decision regarding the two aging school buildings. Such issues as how much demolition will cost if the board decides to demolish the building, who will maintain the buildings if they stay up, and whether it is possible to leave the gyms standing and remove the rest.

Maryel Anderson of the school board stated that it was clear to the school board that there aren't enough gyms in the community.

Dale Wennberg of the city council noted that there was a definite need for a park on the northwest side of the community. The town also needs six or eight tennis courts, but the needs of the community also include a track. The community cannot host any track meets because the track that the community does have doesn't meet requirements. A swimming pool is also very much on the needs list, said Mayor Reeve.

As far as the District Service Center goes, the school district is still waiting for an appraisal before putting it on the market. If the price was right, Duncan said, the school district could get out of there in a year and in the process build a new garage and bus maintenance building.

Parks and recreation was another topic discussed by the group. Duncan suggested that the school district and community do more to cooperate in this area. Duncan explained that from the start, the Community Education department has had recreation activities in its program. It is, however, being forced to look more and more at such programs as Early Childhood Family Education and other educational programs and less and less at recreation or extra-curricular activities. Duncan suggested that it might be an opportune time to look at jointly hiring one person to handle all recreation programs.

Dale Wennberg, council member

Speaking Of . . .

Sharon LaCoursiere

. . . People are Wonderful Here

I have no doubt why I live in a small town. Recently something happened that made me realize just why I am glad to be living where I do, and I am proud, too.

A couple of weeks ago, people in the area were asked to have their blood tested to see if they could be a bone marrow transplant for a little girl named Julia. Julia is two and one-half years old and has leukemia. Finding a matching bone marrow transplant would be her best chance for survival.

The hurried call for potential donor volunteers went out through the local newspaper and radio stations and in a short time an unbelievable amount of people turned up to be tested. There were two hundred fifty-nine people who showed up at the testing site.

A response like this just goes to show you what kind of people live here.

I'm sure most of the people who came to be tested that day had other things to do than have their blood drawn. In fact, I bet one or two of them would much rather have been doing anything else than having someone poking around in their arms for blood samples that day.

But they came to help. They dropped what they were doing and gave of their time and themselves to see if they could help a little girl who has leukemia.

Many of them probably didn't know the little girl or her family at all. That didn't matter to them. Because she lives here and because she needed them, they came.

Many of them probably came because they felt bad for Julia and her family. No doubt they thought how difficult it must be for the family to fight such a terrible disease in such a little girl. No doubt they thought of their own healthy children and how lucky they are.

But it didn't matter why they came. It only mattered that 259 of them did come.

Not only did they come to have their blood tested, but they paid for it. Each person was to pay a $45 fee. If someone could not afford the fee, it was paid, somehow, so that no potential donor was turned away, but, nonetheless, I'm sure many people paid the fee themselves.

That is what kind of people live around here. Those are the compassionate, concerned, empathetic, kind-hearted people who live around here. And I am very proud to live here with people like that. Now, let's all say lots of prayers for Julia!

Dear Readers,
With the passing of a child, there is a great need to establish a meaning for the loss. Most parents, even those who have drifted far from faith, seek and usually find their ultimate answers in their religion. The previously overpowering goals fade and the next world offers renewed promise of eternal hope.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

19th annual fall conference on aging slated for August 25

"Celebration of Seniority" is the theme of the 19th annual fall conference on aging scheduled for August 25 at the University of Minnesota, Crookston.

Northwest Regional Development Commission Area Agency on Aging sponsors the conference each year to provide information that enhances the ability for seniors to remain independent for as long as possible.

Registration for the day-long conference begins at 8 a.m. and the day features refreshments, a keynote address, workshop sessions addressing 14 topics of concern to seniors, noon meal of stuffed chicken breast on long grain wild rice, and a luncheon speaker.

Displays with information about services and resources available to seniors in the seven northwestern counties of Minnesota and door prizes will be provided by the various agencies participating in a resource fair.

"Efforts will be made to accommodate special needs such as low hearing or vision. Preregistration materials will include places to indicate those needs," said Faith Rud, director of the NWRDC Area Agency on Aging and conference coordinator.

At present, more than 22 per cent of the population in the Area Agency on Aging is 60 and older, Rud said.

The event is provided with Title III-B funds from the federal older Americans Act through the Minnesota Board on Aging and supported locally by the NWRDC tax levy, registration fees, and in-kind space and services provided by UMC.

Dear Readers,
With the passing of a child, there is a great need to establish a meaning for the loss. Most parents, even those who have drifted far from faith, seek and usually find their ultimate answers in their religion. The previously overpowering goals fade and the next world offers renewed promise of eternal hope.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

19th annual fall conference on aging slated for August 25

"Celebration of Seniority" is the theme of the 19th annual fall conference on aging scheduled for August 25 at the University of Minnesota, Crookston.

Northwest Regional Development Commission Area Agency on Aging sponsors the conference each year to provide information that enhances the ability for seniors to remain independent for as long as possible.

Registration for the day-long conference begins at 8 a.m. and the day features refreshments, a keynote address, workshop sessions addressing 14 topics of concern to seniors, noon meal of stuffed chicken breast on long grain wild rice, and a luncheon speaker.

Displays with information about services and resources available to seniors in the seven northwestern counties of Minnesota and door prizes will be provided by the various agencies participating in a resource fair.

"Efforts will be made to accommodate special needs such as low hearing or vision. Preregistration materials will include places to indicate those needs," said Faith Rud, director of the NWRDC Area Agency on Aging and conference coordinator.

At present, more than 22 per cent of the population in the Area Agency on Aging is 60 and older, Rud said.

The event is provided with Title III-B funds from the federal older Americans Act through the Minnesota Board on Aging and supported locally by the NWRDC tax levy, registration fees, and in-kind space and services provided by UMC.

For further information contact Rud at 525 Brooks Avenue South, Thief River Falls, 1-800-450-2637 or 681-2637.

IMPRESSIONS

Beth Johnson

This past weekend was the time when we celebrate the birthday of our nation. Back in 1776, on July 4th, the united colonies decided to adopt the Declaration of Independence. This Declaration was not actually officially signed then, but it was adopted. By August 2 of 1776 it was signed as well as preserved on parchment. This document, so integral to our history as a nation can now be seen in our Capital in the National Archives.

Have you read this Declaration of Independence recently? If you haven't, find a copy and spend a few moments reading it. I found some interesting things in it as I read it once again this year.

This declaration of our nations' independence was given to the English rulers. Our nation was declaring its independence from British rule. This happened many years before the waging of our Civil War. It is this that is interesting— our founding fathers stated in this declaration of independence that "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." Interesting, isn't it, that in spite of the freedom this declared and the equality it deemed as self-evident, it wasn't until the days of the Civil War that we began as a nation to not own slaves—people, created equally by the Creator?

Another interesting part of this declaration was how carefully these founding fathers dealt with the possibility of any cause being just reason to revolt. They insert this phrase: "Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes...". Our founding fathers knew they wanted independence, but they also knew the value of established ways. Looking back over the history of our nation, we as a people, have wisely listened to this wisdom. In times of distress for our nation, even in times when the people revolted, we have heard the wisdom of our founding fathers and have not stopped to toppling our government. We have insisted on it being made better, but we have not toppled it.

The Declaration of Independence has quite a lengthy list of wrongdoings which were done against the colonies by the "present King of Great Britain." One of them is interesting in light of our established nation. The colonies accused: "He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners, refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands." In our nation today, we are seeing people trying to immigrate either by stealth or through proper channels. In our nation today, we are now faced with the problem of overpopulation in some of our cities. In our nation today, we are faced with the terrible decisions to not accept every person trying to reach our land. How simpler it was in the days of our early independence when to populate our land was deemed necessary.

Another phrase used in the Declaration is interesting because of the beginning statement that "all men are created equal." A phrase comes near the end of the indictments which states "the merciless Indian Savages." Freedom for our country was a fledging freedom. This freedom did not as yet truly believe that all men are created equal. Our nation had to suffer growing pains as she learned about freedom for all.

The ending of the Declaration is humbling. In our modern day when the thought of Divine Providence leading our nation is not often considered, perhaps we should heed our founding fathers wisdom as they state: "And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor." Do we pledge our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor to one another in this modern world? Do we rely on divine Providence for protection? Perhaps even as the founding fathers had much to learn about equality, we have much to learn about sacredness and divine Providence.

Our founding fathers could not envision our country as it is today. We have gained the rights of freedom for all of our people. They simply led us to the freedom path. But, along the way of finding this freedom, we have forgotten our sacredness. This could lead us to also forget our freedom. We need to once more rely on divine Providence for our protection—not only from the rest of the world, but also from ourselves.

Samuelson receives award

40 years of teaching in Dawson, MN, where he taught chemistry and biology. In 1956 he received his Master of Arts degree from the University of Northern Colorado. He taught high school in Thief River Falls from 1955 to 1965. In 1965 he became a teaching professor at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls. While in this position he achieved his Ph.D. from North Dakota State University in 1976. Dr. Samuelson's doctoral thesis "Biology of Sunflower Midge in the Red River Valley" remains the authority on this subject.

Dr. Samuelson retired from Northland Community College in 1992. During his illustrious career, Dr. Samuelson has participated in a multitude of organizations and community activities. In addition, he has actively worked in organizing the last five Class of 1943 reunions and served as chairman of the NWSA White House Restoration Committee.

In 1956, Dr. Samuelson married Idella Medchill of Plummer. They raised three children who have graced them with four grandchildren.

Dr. Samuelson's father, Richard, attended NWSA from 1912 to 1914, and all his brothers and several uncles attended the school, as well.

Dr. Samuelson made this comment about the NWSA, "I feel that NWSA gave me a very good education. As a teacher, I have had thousands of students over the 40 years. Each and everyone of them has been the recipient of the experiences and values that molded me during my formative years at NWSA. The influence of the NWSA has gone far beyond its campus. Each of us students carry with us things from the past that we use to continually shape the future. I think that the Northwest School of Agriculture has had a terrific impact upon the world."

The award reads, "Charles R. Samuelson '43, we honor you as a Top Aggie. You have enriched many lives through your compassion, dedication and loyalty to your career, family, community and the Northwest School. We commend you for the inspiration you give to us all. Our best wishes for the future! NWSA Alumni Association June 26, 1993."

Other award recipients included Leonard Hapka, Clayton M. Isaacson, and John R. Thompson.

School board, city air issues

Larry Belmont, school board members, asked but who is going to own that person?

Mayor Reeve noted that Superintendent Duncan had already suggested a joint powers agreement.

Duncan noted that what they need is someone with a recreation degree to pull all the recreation programs together.

Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center probably won't get a new floor this year. The Parks and Recreation department has been looking a solution to a leak in the floor of the arena that has caused problems for the ice programs in the past couple of years. Twice the board has recommended replacement of the floor and it will present its third recommendation to the council in the near future. That recommendation will be to replace the entire floor. Wennberg said that park and recreation board has no money and no time to replace the floor this year. He said they just got too late of a start this year and don't have the money or time.

Roughly 85 per cent of the bids on the school project have been let, said Duncan. They have let 47 divisions and they are slightly under budget so far, he added. On July 6 the board will hold a special meeting to award bids. They hope to start improvements at Lincoln high school in August and at Franklin in October.

Mayor Reeve noted that the group may have noticed that the city has reactivated the depot preservation committee. He questioned what the opinions of the group in the room had of the depot.

Almost all agreed that it would be a crime to see it knocked down. Most noted that it was a unique building and wondered in view of the high cost of demolition and asbestos removal whether Soo Line would be willing to release the building for a small cost. Parking was also one consideration discussed. Some suggested moving the train engine parked on the west side of the building. Some in the group noted that someone had offered to purchase it at one time.

Wennberg noted that he was in favor of keeping the building as long as the city did not end up putting any money into it.

Those in attendance, which included most members of both groups, said the meeting was helpful and encouraged future meetings to discuss items of common concern.

Peterson glad Administration extends EEP

The Clinton Administration has extended the Export Enhancement Program to Mexican purchases, reported Congressman Collin Peterson.

"I'm glad we were able to convince the Administration that we need the EEP extension to salvage our wheat and feed grains market," said Peterson. "The decision also sends the Canadian government a message that we want to see some significant changes in its trade policy."

Peterson and 14 other Members of Congress recently sent a letter to President Clinton asking him to extend the EEP to Mexico and other traditional U.S. markets.

Peterson, who is a founder of the Congressional Anti-NAFTA Caucus, said that the EEP is "crucial in warding off an economic catastrophe brewing for the American wheat and grain industries."

Farmers asked to certify all program acres

All Pennington county farmers are asked to certify their 1993 crop plantings, land uses, acreage conservation reserve and other program acreage with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office in Thief River Falls.

Final certification date in Pennington county is July 15, according to Karen Fredrickson, acting director of the county office.

Certification is the procedure by which farmers report their program acreage to establish their eligibility to receive the benefits of price support, deficiency payments and other farm program benefits. Acreage reports are required for all participating farms.

Growers not participating in the 1993 programs would report their acreage to establish planting history, ensure future benefits and protect crop acreage bases.

After certification, ASCS will again select farms at random to verify that acreage reports are accurate. Aerial photographs are available for farmers to help identify their fields.

Crops may be certified at any time between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. "We encourage farmers to certify as soon as possible after planting and not wait until the deadline date to report their acres," Fredrickson said.

Pesticide users recycle 6,514 containers in Marshall county

Marshall County pesticide users recycled 6,514 plastic pesticide containers during collections June 22 to 24.

According to Ray Thompson, extension educator, the number of containers was up 1,495 from 5,019 in 1992.

Only eight containers were refused acceptance due to pesticide residue in the jug. Most participants triple rinsed the containers.

The plastic containers were loaded into semi-trailers and transported to Fargo where they are ground up into fine chips. The chips are used in the production of new plastic pesticide containers.

Triple rinsed pesticide containers can also be deposited in approved landfills, but burning the jugs is illegal in Minnesota.

Assisting with the collection were Thompson, Gary Durand, county agricultural inspector; Bill Kroll, summer spray truck operator; Heather Olson, 4-H summer assistant; Renee Stennes, SWCD; Wayne Dalley, Minnesota Department of Agriculture and Ostlund Chemical Co. of Fargo.

Collection sites were at Harvest States Fertilizer, Warren; Oslo Cenex; Stephen Cenex; Newfolden Coop Fertilizer Plant; Middle River Coop Elevator; and Farmers Union Agri-Products Department, Grygla.

Clinton extends EEP to Mexico

The Clinton Administration will extend the Export Enhancement Program to Mexican purchases, according to Representative Collin Peterson.

Peterson was among 15 members of Congress who recently sent a letter to President Clinton asking him to extend the EEP to Mexico and other traditional U.S. markets.

In 1956, Dr. Samuelson married Idella Medchill of Plummer. They raised three children who have graced them with four grandchildren.

Dr. Samuelson's father, Richard, attended NWSA from 1912 to 1914, and all his brothers and several uncles attended the school, as well.

Dr. Samuelson made this comment about the NWSA, "I feel that NWSA gave me a very good education. As a teacher, I have had thousands of students over the 40 years. Each and everyone of them has been the recipient of the experiences and values that molded me during my formative years at NWSA. The influence of the NWSA has gone far beyond its campus. Each of us students carry with us things from the past that we use to continually shape the future. I think that the Northwest School of Agriculture has had a terrific impact upon the world."

The award reads, "Charles R. Samuelson '43, we honor you as a Top Aggie. You have enriched many lives through your compassion, dedication and loyalty to your career, family, community and the Northwest School. We commend you for the inspiration you give to us all. Our best wishes for the future! NWSA Alumni Association June 26, 1993."

Other award recipients included Leonard Hapka, Clayton M. Isaacson, and John R. Thompson.

School board, city air issues

Larry Belmont, school board members, asked but who is going to own that person?

Mayor Reeve noted that Superintendent Duncan had already suggested a joint powers agreement.

Duncan noted that what they need is someone with a recreation degree to pull all the recreation programs together.

Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center probably won't get a new floor this year. The Parks and Recreation department has been looking a solution to a leak in the floor of the arena that has caused problems for the ice programs in the past couple of years. Twice the board has recommended replacement of the floor and it will present its third recommendation to the council in the near future. That recommendation will be to replace the entire floor. Wennberg said that park and recreation board has no money and no time to replace the floor this year. He said they just got too late of a start this year and don't have the money or time.

Roughly 85 per cent of the bids on the school project have been let, said Duncan. They have let 47 divisions and they are slightly under budget so far, he added. On July 6 the board will hold a special meeting to award bids. They hope to start improvements at Lincoln high school in August and at Franklin in October.

Mayor Reeve noted that the group may have noticed that the city has reactivated the depot preservation committee. He questioned what the opinions of the group in the room had of the depot.

Almost all agreed that it would be a crime to see it knocked down. Most noted that it was a unique building and wondered in view of the high cost of demolition and asbestos removal whether Soo Line would be willing to release the building for a small cost. Parking was also one consideration discussed. Some suggested moving the train engine parked on the west side of the building. Some in the group noted that someone had offered to purchase it at one time.

Wennberg noted that he was in favor of keeping the building as long as the city did not end up putting any money into it.

Those in attendance, which included most members of both groups, said the meeting was helpful and encouraged future meetings to discuss items of common concern.

Peterson glad Administration extends EEP

The Clinton Administration has extended the Export Enhancement Program to Mexican purchases, reported Congressman Collin Peterson.

"I'm glad we were able to convince the Administration that we need the EEP extension to salvage our wheat and feed grains market," said Peterson. "The decision also sends the Canadian government a message that we want to see some significant changes in its trade policy."

Peterson and 14 other Members of Congress recently sent a letter to President Clinton asking him to extend the EEP to Mexico and other traditional U.S. markets.

Peterson, who is a founder of the Congressional Anti-NAFTA Caucus, said that the EEP is "crucial in warding off an economic catastrophe brewing for the American wheat and grain industries."

Kim Johnson

Kim Johnson chairs planning committee

Kim Johnson is Chairperson of the 1993 homecoming celebrations planning committee to be held this fall at Concordia College in Moorhead.

The planning committee is composed of 30 Concordia students.

Johnson, who is majoring in social work and psychology, is the daughter of Leon and Karen Johnson of Thief River Falls.

Homecoming festivities begin Sunday, October 3 and continue through Sunday, October 10.

Activities include coronation of the king and queen, a freshman talent show, a "Fantastic Feats for Fools" competition, a communion worship service, a BBQ bash and a bonfire and fireworks display.

Farmers asked to certify all program acres

All Pennington county farmers are asked to certify their 1993 crop plantings, land uses, acreage conservation reserve and other program acreage with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office in Thief River Falls.

Final certification date in Pennington county is July 15, according to Karen Fredrickson, acting director of the county office.

Certification is the procedure by which farmers report their program acreage to establish their eligibility to receive the benefits of price support, deficiency payments and other farm program benefits. Acreage reports are required for all participating farms.

Growers not participating in the 1993 programs would report their acreage to establish planting history, ensure future benefits and protect crop acreage bases.

After certification, ASCS will again select farms at random to verify that acreage reports are accurate. Aerial photographs are available for farmers to help identify their fields.

Crops may be certified at any time between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. "We encourage farmers to certify as soon as possible after planting and not wait until the deadline date to report their acres," Fredrickson said.

Pesticide users recycle 6,514 containers in Marshall county

Marshall County pesticide users recycled 6,514 plastic pesticide containers during collections June 22 to 24.

According to Ray Thompson, extension educator, the number of containers was up 1,495 from 5,019 in 1992.

Only eight containers were refused acceptance due to pesticide residue in the jug. Most participants triple rinsed the containers.

The plastic containers were loaded into semi trailers and transported to Fargo where they are ground up into fine chips. The chips are used in the production of new plastic pesticide containers.

Triple rinsed pesticide containers can also be deposited in approved landfills, but burning the jugs is illegal in Minnesota.

Assisting with the collection were Thompson, Gary Durand, county agricultural inspector; Bill Kroll, summer spray truck operator; Heather Olson, 4-H summer assistant; Renee Stennes, SWCD; Wayne Dalley, Minnesota Department of Agriculture and Ostlund Chemical Co. of Fargo.

Collection sites were at Harvest States Fertilizer, Warren; Oslo Cenex; Stephen Cenex; Newfolden Coop Fertilizer Plant; Middle River Coop Elevator; and Farmers Union Agri-Products Department, Grygla.

Clinton extends EEP to Mexico

The Clinton Administration will extend the Export Enhancement Program to Mexican purchases, according to Representative Collin Peterson.

Peterson said the EEP extension will salvage the wheat and feed grains market and send the Canadian government a message that the U.S. wants significant changes in its trade policy.

Peterson was among 15 members of Congress who recently sent a letter to President Clinton asking him to extend the EEP to Mexico and other traditional U.S. markets.

Swanson herd has best DHIA record during month of May

Lyle and Joni Swanson's dairy herd had the best average production in the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association in May with an average of 70.6 pounds of milk and 2.40 pounds of butterfat. Eighty-eight per cent of the 40-cow herd was in milk during May.

Second place went to the Mark Hanson herd where 90 per cent of the 52-cow herd averaged 70.4 pounds of milk and 2.32 pounds of butterfat. Mylo Carlson's herd of 72 cows, 85 per cent of which were in milk, averaged 61.8 pounds of milk and 2.26 pounds of butterfat.

Other herds in the top 10 include the following with number of cows, percentage in milk, pounds of milk and pounds of butterfat produced listed respectively:

Walter Bros., 135, 83%, 60.2 and 2.00; Tony and Sheila Salentine, 53, 94%, 58.7 and 1.75; Leonard and Marge Geske, 46, 98%, 3.50 and 2.04; L & R Dairy, 116, 99%, 57.6 and 1.91; Dale and Sherri Rupprecht, five, 100%, 57.3 and 1.91; Kelly and Gary Lundeen, 45, 93%, 56.2 and 2.00; and Dale and Sherri Rupprecht, 20, 95%, 56.1 and 2.19.

Because the amount of milk and butterfat produced is averaged over all cows in the herd, the number of dry cows has a great affect on the average production per cow. The averaging procedure is used to give the herd owner a record of the herd's earning power for the month.

During May there were 23 herds in the Pennington county association on official DHIA test and three enrolled in the owner-sampler program.

Challenger school project in budget and on schedule

Challenger elementary school under construction on the south edge of Thief River Falls is within budget and on schedule, according to reports given at the June 28 meeting of the School District 564 board of education.

Supt. Robert Duncan reported that bids received on the elementary school project had been within the budget allocated for that project. Jim Haspas, project superintendent, reported to the board that site preparation and placement of footings were on schedule for the construction projected for completion in the fall of 1994.

Authorization was also given by the board to advertise for bids for the Lincoln high school building and remodeling project.

A change was made in board meeting times for regular meetings in July and August from 7 p.m. to 5 p.m. The meeting scheduled for July 12 at 7 p.m. was also changed to July 19 at 5 p.m. in the school district service center. A special meeting was called for Tuesday, July 6, at 7:45 a.m. to award bids on the challenger elementary school project and conduct other business.

Report from the Lincoln high school auditorium advisory committee was received and thanks expressed to committee members Lee Alger, Gretchen Beifo, Heidi Hoks, Marie Hvidsten, Cliff Larson, Jean Larson, Mary Morken, Jane Olson, Melba Penning, Jan Peterson, Terry Soine and Les Torgerson.

Thief River Falls Eagles Aerie 2368 was recognized for its donation of $5,600 for wrestling mats.

Resignation of David Stromlund, Title I teacher at Mark Twain elementary school, was accepted effective June 4. Assignments approved effective July 1 included Cynthia Kilen, part-time Franklin middle school secretary; Paula Peterson, Finance Specialist I; Jodi Bergman, Finance Specialist II; and Esther Gallagher, temporary part-time curriculum/tech prep secretary.

Marie Hvidsten's contract as outreach coordinator for the Center for School Change was approved for 57.5 days in the 1993-94 school year. Brenda Russell was hired as long term substitute math instructor at Lincoln high school effective August 30.

The board eliminated four TMH educational assistant positions at Mark Twain and one special education educational assistant position at Washington. Established and authorized for posting were three educational assistant positions at Mark Twain, one educational assistant position at Knox and two educational assistant positions at Washington.

Norwest selected as Bank of the Year

Norwest Corporation, which has a bank operation in Thief River Falls, has been selected "Bank of the Year" for 1992 among the nation's largest 100 bank holding companies by "Bank Management" magazine, according to Roger Reuter, president of the Thief River Falls bank.

Reuter said the ranking "recognizes the strength of Norwest's home-town roots and emphasis on leaving decision-making to the local banker."

The magazine said its rating is based on a proprietary formula that includes a wealth of financial data gathered directly from the banks through an extensive survey conducted by a team of researchers.

VOLUME-BASED PRICING GARBAGE COLLECTION SYSTEM

THIS AD IS THE FOURTH IN A SERIES OF ADS EXPLAINING THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE NEW VOLUME-BASED GARBAGE COLLECTION SYSTEM.

The Thief River Falls sanitation department has begun implementing a volume-based price system for garbage pick-up. Monthly collection fees for the volume-based garbage pick-up will run at six levels, each receiving a different number of garbage bags.

Customers will have two options if they use all their original issue of bags before the next scheduled bag delivery date (June of each year): They can purchase extras bags at $1.50 each or they can elect to move up to the next level on the rate schedule.

If a customer decides to move up to a higher level they will receive additional bags, but the number of bags will be pro-rated until the next delivery date. They will also have to remain at the higher level for one full year from the next bag delivery (July 1 to June 30).

Anyone wishing to move up to the next level on the rate schedule should notify the billing office prior to the 15th of the month preceding the month of the level increase.

PARENTING TIPS

"Bad Language"

Young children learn language by listening and imitating others. Initially they do not know which words are "good" and which are "bad." So they will repeat all that they hear and learn by their parents' reaction which ones they should repeat and which ones they shouldn't.

It is probably impossible to prevent your child from ever hearing or learning "bad" or impolite words. When they do say them, they can get lots of attention that will reinforce their use of this language. But don't get discouraged, just because your child heard or possibly experimented with saying some bad or impolite words. It doesn't mean the child will continue to use them.

Research tells us that there are two reasons why children do not use the impolite words that they know. The first is because they have been told not to use them and the second is because they do not hear the words regularly used by their parents.

So once again we see that parents are a child's most important influence. In other words, we parents need to be good models and good examples for our children.

It is easy to use "bad" or impolite language when we feel discouraged or frustrated, but there are some good reasons to avoid this. Besides, insulting words make people feel bad and the use of unflattering words reflect a lack of high standards and values.

(Contributed by the Early Childhood Family Education department of School District 564.)

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

When your child uses words you do not approve of, matter-of-factly tell him/her those are words that you do not use in your family. Try not to make a big deal of it and then go on to something else.

TRF stops Crookston by 3-0, 8-2

Rick Ostby and Jayson Olson threw 13 shutout innings Thursday as Thief River Falls beat Crookston 3-0 and 8-2 in a late-reported American Legion baseball doubleheader at Irv Wilson Field.

Ostby got the shutout in the opener; Olson duplicated that effort until giving up two seventh inning runs in the nightcap. Both righthanders finished with four-hitters.

"They both pitched real well," reported Thief River Falls coach Howard Dalager. "Rick has been dominating his last three starts, and Jayson hasn't allowed an earned run in the three games he's pitched."

Ostby struck out three and walked four. Olson struck out five and walked three.

The sweep boosted Thief River Falls to 15-1 on the year.

Thief River Falls didn't come up with a lot of offense, but Post 117 scored enough to win the opener 3-0.

A lead-off double by Carter Rogalla and an RBI single by Rick Ostby produced a 1-0 second inning lead.

Two base hits and a hit-batsman loaded the bases for the winners in the fourth. A double play ground ball pushed one run across the plate and an RBI single by Steve Burslie completed the scoring.

Two doubles and two RBI by Joby Looker sparked Thief River Falls to an 8-2 second-game victory.

Steve Burslie also had two hits for the winners, with Marc Haugen supplying a two-run, pinch-hit single in the fourth to turn a 1-0 edge into a 3-0 cushion. Brian Minks later contributed an RBI single.

Thief River Falls runner Joby Looker went under Detroit Lakes catcher Brett Hanson to score on a Marc Haugen single in the fourth inning of the June 29 American Legion baseball doubleheader opener at Irv Wilson Field. Post 117 swept the Lakers 17-2, 4-1. Thief River Falls hosts Bemidji Wednesday in a 6 p.m. twinbill and will be at Fergus Falls Thursday.

Fargo is a 3-1 winner over TRF Legion

Fargo handed the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team just its second loss in 17 starts Sunday in a 3-1 Fourth of July match-up at Jack Williams Stadium.

The schedule showed it as a doubleheader, but the two seven-inning games were instead switched to a single nine-inning affair.

Two third inning Fargo runs proved to be the difference. An RBI single by Marc Haugen made it 2-1 in the fourth, but the winners got that run back in the fifth.

Both teams had four hits and three errors.

Brian Minks made his American Legion pitching debut for Post 117, working the first six innings before giving way to Jeremy Olson.

Doubleheaders await Thief River Falls Wednesday vs. Bemidji at 6 p.m. at Irv Wilson Field and Thursday at Fergus Falls starting at 5 p.m.

Recent participants in the Forkhorn Camps program at Deep Portage Conservation Reserve near Hackensack were Nick (left) and Luke Miller of Thief River Falls. (Submitted photo).

Two from TRF participate in first Forkhorn session

Luke and Nick Miller of Thief River Falls attended the first of four Forkhorn Camps, June 20-26, at Deep Portage Conservation Reserve near Hackensack.

They were sponsored by the Thief River Falls Chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association.

While participating in the week-long sessions, campers study different concepts in relationship to the whitetail deer. Special emphasis is placed on wildlife management, deer habitat, population dynamics, and ethics. Skills are also introduced in the areas of map and compass, canoeing, safety, first aid, woodcraft, and survival.

Students tested their newly-acquired skills during canoeing overnight, a survival camp, and the Forkhorn Woodcraft Olympics.

In addition, each student was trained in marksmanship and range safety. All were given the opportunity to practice with .22 caliber rifle, .30-.30 rifle, and .50 caliber black powder rifle. A firing range competition was held at the end of the week.

Each student who completes the Forkhorn Camp this summer can return to Deep Portage next year for the Advanced Forkhorn Camp. In additional to more in-depth study in the above areas, emphasis during the advanced camp is on archery.

All Forkhorn Camps are sponsored by the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association.

Mitch Bernstein leads 1993 Pioneers

Mitch Bernstein carried the highest batting average among Northland hitters and lowest earned run average among the Pioneers' pitchers this spring en route to a spot on the 1993 Minnesota Community College Conference all-state baseball team.

The freshman from Grygla, hit .373 with 35 hits in 94 at-bats, and had a 3.45 ERA over 50.2 innings of mound work.

He was the only Northland player earning all-state honors, but was joined on the MCCC All-Northern Division listing by teammate Mike Swanson, a sophomore from Thief River Falls. An all-stater as a freshman when he hit .338, Swanson raised his average to .369 this spring, but had to settle for all-division recognition.

Northland had high hopes heading into the 1993 season, only to miss the MCCC playoffs with a 12-16 finish. The Pioneers went 3-1 against Vermilion, but only 1-3 vs. Fergus Falls and 0-4 with the University of North Dakota junior varsity while splitting four-game series against Itasca, Hibbing, University of Minnesota-Crookston, and the Bemidji State University junior varsity.

"We were disappointed with our record," acknowledged Northland coach Terry Wiseth. "We've become accustomed to winning more games than we did this year. Some of our kids – like Mitch and Mike – had real nice years. But team-wise, we didn't do nearly as well as we had hoped."

Biggest downfall came on defense, pointed out Wiseth. "We just didn't play defensive as well as we have in the past," he said. "We had way too many errors. We gave teams too many outs."

Swanson, Kelly Gray (Warroad), Blue Olson (Northome), Ryan Bothum (Karlstad), and Roger Bienusa (Staples), used up their Northland baseball eligibility this spring. Bernstein, who also started for the Pioneers in football and basketball, heads the list of players expected to return next year, and Wiseth has been actively recruiting a strong crop of area high school seniors that he hopes will turn the Pioneers into MCCC contenders.

MCCC All-Northern Division

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

How fathers do God's Will

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

God wants to bless families, but He can't unless the family members allow Him to bless them by being obedient to His Ways. In God's plan for marriage, husbands are the leaders, providers and disciplinarians; while wives are the helpers, encouragers and homemakers (Eph. 5:22-23; Prov. 22:6; 31:10-31; Heb. 12:9; Gen. 2:18).

God chose Abraham because He knew he would bring up his children and the rest of the household in the Ways of the Lord. He would encourage them to practice righteousness and honesty in all their dealings with their fellow man, and he would be a godly example himself (Gen. 18:19). Abraham brought up his children with discipline and instructed them in the Ways of the Lord. He was careful not to over-discipline his children so as to discourage them from living God's Way (Eph. 6:4; Col. 3:21).

Children learn respect for their parents through balanced discipline and love. "For what son is there whom his father does not discipline?" God's word says (Heb. 12:7). "Our fathers disciplined us and we respected them" (Heb. 12:9). Yes, the father who neglects discipline despises himself (Prov. 15:32). God knows that foolishness is bound up in the heart of a child, but loving, godly discipline will remove it far from him (1 Cor. 16:14; Prov. 22:15; 29:15, 17, 19; 20:30; 19:18). Fathers, there is no substitute for discipline (Prov. 13:24).

God believes in corporal punishment done in wisdom and in love, never in anger (Deut. 25:1-3; Jer. 10:24; Psalm 50:22). There are also other forms of discipline you can use, such as depriving disobedient children of some of their freedom. Be sure to continually seek the Lord for wisdom.

Wives who are living to please the Lord are commanded to be subject to their husbands. Help and encourage your husband to obey the Lord and don't discourage him when he disciplines the children. Don't hinder him, as Eve hindered her husband (Col. 3:18; 1 Cor. 11:8-9; 1 Tim. 2:14).

Husbands, your wives cannot be in subjection to you until you are in subjection to God and have fulfilled your rightful duties to the Lord by being the loving master of your own household.

Let's be prepared to meet the Lord should He return shortly (Luke 1:17). Let's stop depriving ourselves of happiness because we rebel against God's Ways. After all, God's Ways are all good for us (1 Cor. 7:3-5).

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

How fathers do God's Will

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

God wants to bless families, but He can't unless the family members allow Him to bless them by being obedient to His Ways. In God's plan for marriage, husbands are the leaders, providers and disciplinarians; while wives are the helpers, encouragers and homemakers (Eph. 5:22-23; Prov. 22:6; 31:10-31; Heb. 12:9; Gen. 2:18).

God chose Abraham because He knew he would bring up his children and the rest of the household in the Ways of the Lord. He would encourage them to practice righteousness and honesty in all their dealings with their fellow man, and he would be a godly example himself (Gen. 18:19). Abraham brought up his children with discipline and instructed them in the Ways of the Lord. He was careful not to over-discipline his children so as to discourage them from living God's Way (Eph. 6:4; Col. 3:21).

Children learn respect for their parents through balanced discipline and love. "For what son is there whom his father does not discipline?" God's word says (Heb. 12:7). "Our fathers disciplined us and we respected them" (Heb. 12:9). Yes, the father who neglects discipline despises himself (Prov. 15:32). God knows that foolishness is bound up in the heart of a child, but loving, godly discipline will remove it far from him (1 Cor. 16:14; Prov. 22:15; 29:15, 17, 19; 20:30; 19:18). Fathers, there is no substitute for discipline (Prov. 13:24).

God believes in corporal punishment done in wisdom and in love, never in anger (Deut. 25:1-3; Jer. 10:24; Psalm 50:22). There are also other forms of discipline you can use; such as depriving disobedient children of some of their freedom. Be sure to continually seek the Lord for wisdom.

Wives who are living to please the Lord are commanded to be subject to their husbands. Help and encourage your husband to obey the Lord and don't discourage him when he disciplines the children. Don't hinder him, as Eve hindered her husband (Col. 3:18; 1 Cor. 11:8-9; 1 Tim. 2:14).

Husbands, your wives cannot be in subjection to you until you are in subjection to God and have fulfilled your rightful duties to the Lord by being the loving master of your own household.

Let's be prepared to meet the Lord should He return shortly (Luke 1:17). Let's stop depriving ourselves of happiness because we rebel against God's Ways. After all, God's Ways are all good for us (1 Cor. 7:3-5).

The Times' Editorial Opinion

The Times
Thief River Falls, Minnesota

John P. Mattson, publisher
Marvin Lundin, editor
David Hill, associate editor

Editorial opinion published on this page, whether locally written or re-printed from other sources is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Opinions expressed by the editor are his own and not necessarily those of other staff members. Opinions expressed in items from other publications may be contradictory to the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

"Ready, Fire, Aim!" Is Earl Bakken Theory

Earl Bakken is co-founder and director of Medtronic, Inc., the company that developed the Pacemaker. In the current issue of "Minnesota Technology," he gives his views on what he believes Minnesota needs—and doesn't need—to be competitive in business and industry today. We found his thoughts interesting and thought you might be interested in them as well. Here's what he wrote:

Starting a new company today is incredibly more difficult than it was 45 years ago. On the one hand, there's a lot more technology to work with today. When we started our company, the technology was very simple, so we really had to struggle to do our projects. But the barriers—regulatory, litigious, all the various barriers—were much smaller then than they are now.

When we created our first battery-operated wearable pacemaker in 1957, it took four weeks from the time Dr. C. Walton Lillehei and I talked about it until we were using it to keep children alive after surgery. To do that in four years today would be very optimistic—it would probably be more like six or seven years. Those pacemakers preserved the lives of those children. Without the devices, those children usually died in the first few days after surgery.

Recently, we had one of those early patients come to our holiday program at Medtronic. She's now a woman in her late 30s, with two teenage children of her own, and she told us what her pacemaker meant to her. If a medical-device manufacturer is going to be delayed for years and years before it can prove a device is 100 per cent safe, a lot of people are going to die. That's one of the consequences of our regulatory environment today....

Taxes are an increasing problem for technology companies. And health care reform, wherever it goes, is misdirected, and it's going to increase the load on small companies. I know, because I live in Hawaii, where mandated health insurance is progressively destroying low-margin companies.

On the other hand, as I said, there's a lot more technology to work with today. When I made that first pacemaker, I used just two transistors. Now we can put 50,000 to 100,000 transistors—super computers almost—in implanted devices. So much more has been learned about the heart and the body. (I'm just happy we didn't know as much about the heart back then or I never would have had the courage to try to build a pacemaker.) Today the technology companies have the ability to take state-of-the-art technology and do incredible things. So the possibility is still there for today's entrepreneurs, though they're going to face a lot of barriers....

To do the research in our field today, you almost have to do it out of the United States. If you're going to start a new medical-device company, I think the best place is out of the U.S. But it can still be done here. Particularly if we do the right things at the state level.....

We have to have people who are going to think in entirely different ways. I like to say, "Ready, fire, aim!" That means get going and adjust your focus after you've begun to move...

Health Care Plan Goal Should Be Peace Of Mind

"For families who worry that their insurance may fail them, and for those who worry that they may be among the two million Americans who lose their health insurance every month, the measure of the Clinton health care plan is simple. It's peace of mind."

These are the words of Ron Pollack, executive director of Families USA and a leading consumer health spokesman. He is a member of the Leadership Coalition on Health Care Reform which was founded by Presidents Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford.

"Peace of mind is the knowledge that your family can get the high quality health care it needs without worrying about destroying the family's future," he said. "Most of us used to take this peace of mind for granted. When we were kids, our parents didn't worry about whether they could afford medical care, because medical care used to be more affordable."

Pollack cites three instances which make peace of mind questionable with the existing health insurance system:

(1) Jeffrey R. was born with a defect in his brain stem which caused him to stop breathing when he fell asleep. His family thought they had excellent health insurance, but Jeffrey spent most of his first 19 months in the hospital. By the time he was 11 months old, his $100,000 lifetime policy limit was used up. The last time his mother checked, the family owed $600,000.

(2) Tom M. paid premiums on his health insurance policy every month for eight years, believing his agent's assurances that it was good, solid protection. But when he got seriously ill, the insurance company dropped him. The result was a serious assault on his bank account and a potentially dangerous delay in getting treatment.

(3) Patty G.'s insurance company and her doctors got into a dispute over how to treat her cancer. The insurance company refused to approve a treatment it had already approved for other patients at the same hospital. By the time the company finally agreed to pay, the cancer had spread so far that it is probably too late to save Patty's life.

Pollack says there are three simple questions that everyone can use to judge the Clinton health care plan:

(1) Will it guarantee that you'll never lose your health insurance, no matter what?

(2) Will it protect you from the "fine print" that insurance companies sometimes use to deny you the protection you thought you were paying for?

(3) Will it help protect you and your family from being crushed by the high costs of long term care, especially at home, where most people prefer to be cared for?

"If the Clinton plan had been in place," Pollack asks, "would the families of Jeffrey R., Tom M. and Patty G. have been spared the pain and hardship they endured? If your family someday must face what these families faced, will the Clinton reform give you the protection and peace of mind you deserve?"

Fourth Of July Quietly Observed

"While numerous local residents journeyed out of town for the Fourth of July week-end, a larger percentage than usual, impelled in part by wartime restrictions, spent the double holiday quietly at their homes. From the standpoint of weather Sunday, the Fourth was an ideal day with clear skies and moderately high temperatures prevailing. The swimming pool in Tindolph park was crowded all day with local residents, as well as with people from nearby communities."

While the county did not fully attain its quota of 1,000,000 pounds set by state salvage headquarters for the drive just completed, Mr. Hageman expressed gratification over the substantial contribution made by local residents to the war effort, particularly those living in the rural areas."

"There is no disguising the fact that the crop prospects are not good. With good weather from now on we may expect about half a crop. In some places the wheat looks fairly well but in other fields the grain is very short with small heads and will yield seven or eight bushels to the acre."

St. Hilaire School Annual Meeting

"Citizens should remember that the annual school meeting will be held at the village hall next Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be an important one and all should attend. Bonds are to be levied, a director elected and several important matters will come before the meeting. Last year it was almost impossible for anyone to get anyone to attend the meeting and the parties who did not care to attend have been kicking about the actions of the school board ever since. Come to the meeting and do your kicking this time."

"Ready, Fire, Aim!" Is Earl Bakken Theory

Earl Bakken is co-founder and director of Medtronic, Inc., the company that developed the Pacemaker. In the current issue of "Minnesota Technology," he gives his views on what he believes Minnesota needs—and doesn't need—to be competitive in business and industry today. We found his thoughts interesting and thought you might be interested in them as well. Here's what he wrote:

Starting a new company today is incredibly more difficult than it was 45 years ago. On the one hand, there's a lot more technology to work with today. When we started our company, the technology was very simple, so we really had to struggle to do our projects. But the barriers—regulatory, litigious, all the various barriers—were much smaller then than they are now.

When we created our first battery-operated wearable pacemaker in 1957, it took four weeks from the time Dr. C. Walton Lillehei and I talked about it until we were using it to keep children alive after surgery. To do that in four years today would be very optimistic—it would probably be more like six or seven years. Those pacemakers preserved the lives of those children. Without the devices, those children usually died in the first few days after surgery.

Recently, we had one of those early patients come to our holiday program at Medtronic. She's now a woman in her late 30s, with two teenage children of her own, and she told us what her pacemaker meant to her. If a medical-device manufacturer is going to be delayed for years and years before it can prove a device is 100 per cent safe, a lot of people are going to die. That's one of the consequences of our regulatory environment today....

Taxes are an increasing problem for technology companies. And health-care reform, wherever it goes, is misdirected, and it's going to increase the load on small companies. I know, because I live in Hawaii, where mandated health insurance is progressively destroying low-margin companies.

On the other hand, as I said, there's a lot more technology to work with today. When I made that first pacemaker, I used just two transistors. Now we can put 50,000 to 100,000 transistors—super computers almost—in implanted devices. So much more has been learned about the heart and the body. (I'm just happy we didn't know as much about the heart back then or I never would have had the courage to try to build a pacemaker.) Today the technology companies have the ability to take state-of-the-art technology and do incredible things. So the possibility is still there for today's entrepreneurs, though they're going to face a lot of barriers....

To do the research in our field today, you almost have to do it out of the United States. If you're going to start a new medical-device company, I think the best place is out of the U.S. But it can still be done here. Particularly if we do the right things at the state level.....

We have to have people who are going to think in entirely different ways. I like to say, "Ready, fire, aim!" That means get going and adjust your focus after you've begun to move...

Health Care Plan Goal Should Be Peace Of Mind

"For families who worry that their insurance may fail them, and for those who worry that they may be among the two million Americans who lose their health insurance every month, the measure of the Clinton health care plan is simple. It's peace of mind."

These are the words of Ron Pollack, executive director of Families USA and a leading consumer health spokesman. He is a member of the Leadership Coalition on Health Care Reform which was founded by Presidents Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford.

"Peace of mind is the knowledge that your family can get the high quality health care it needs without worrying about destroying the family's future," he said. "Most of us used to take this peace of mind for granted. When we were kids, our parents didn't worry about whether they could afford medical care, because medical care used to be more affordable."

Pollack cites three instances which make peace of mind questionable with the existing health insurance system:

(1) Jeffrey R. was born with a defect in his brain stem which caused him to stop breathing when he fell asleep. His family thought they had excellent health insurance, but Jeffrey spent most of his first 19 months in the hospital. By the time he was 11 months old, his $100,000 lifetime policy limit was used up. The last time his mother checked, the family owed $600,000.

(2) Tom M. paid premiums on his health insurance policy every month for eight years, believing his agent's assurances that it was good, solid protection. But when he got seriously ill, the insurance company dropped him. The result was a serious assault on his bank account and a potentially dangerous delay in getting treatment.

(3) Patty G.'s insurance company and her doctors got into a dispute over how to treat her cancer. The insurance company refused to approve a treatment it had already approved for other patients at the same hospital. By the time the company finally agreed to pay, the cancer had spread so far that it is probably too late to save Patty's life.

Pollack says there are three simple questions that everyone can use to judge the Clinton health care plan:

(1) Will it guarantee that you'll never lose your health insurance, no matter what?

(2) Will it protect you from the "fine print" that insurance companies sometimes use to deny you the protection you thought you were paying for?

(3) Will it help protect you and your family from being crushed by the high costs of long term care, especially at home, where most people prefer to be cared for?

"If the Clinton plan had been in place," Pollack asks, "would the families of Jeffrey R., Tom M. and Patty G. have been spared the pain and hardship they endured? If your family someday must face what these families faced, will the Clinton reform give you the protection and peace of mind you deserve?"

—Some folks over in our neighborhood are cultivating their Victory gardens with a lawnmower.

—If you don't understand all the rationing regulations, blame it onto the fact that, according to Senator Byrd of Virginia, the OPA employs 2,700 attorneys.

—Appeals issued by transportation agencies urging citizens to stay at home suggests that it is a bit unpatriotic for a civilian to board a train or bus.

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

St. Hilaire, Polk County, Minnesota July 12, 1893

From Newspaper Files Of One Hundred Years Ago

Farm News

"There is no disguising the fact that the crop prospects are not good. With good weather from now on we may expect about half a crop. In some places the wheat looks fairly well but in other fields the grain is very short with small heads and will yield seven or eight bushels to the acre."

St. Hilaire School Annual Meeting

"Citizens should remember that the annual school meeting will be held at the village hall next Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be an important one and all should attend. Bonds are to be levied, a director elected and several important matters will come before the meeting. Last year it was almost impossible for anyone to get anyone to attend the meeting and the parties who did not care to attend have been kicking about the actions of the school board ever since. Come to the meeting and do your kicking this time."

Mrs. Albert Aaknes

They also saw the 90th anniversary reunion of the Harley Davidson parade. Over 60,000 bikers! Paulette took her mother, Rose Aaknes, to see the most unique one of a kind happening spot you'll ever experience, filled with Rock-'n Roll greats, sports stars and movie favorites. You could drink coke with Les Paul, Elvis or Marilyn Monroe, Michael Jordan, Madonna, Elton John, Dan Janson and more. When you walk in, there was Elvis on his Harley Davidson motorcycle.

On Friday evening, Debbie Bakken and son and niece, of Inver Grove Heights came to attend her cousin, Michael Tanom's graduation. On June 12th, they all left for Hastings. Then Lillian Tanom and Rose Aaknes spent three days with Lloyd and Arlene Tanom, and the Greg Tanom family. On Wednesday morning Arlene Tanom of Hastings took her mother-in-law, Lillian Tanom of Oklee, and her aunt, Rose Aaknes of Trail, and her sister, Verna Latte of Alaska. Verna will be spending two months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hanson, at the Erskine nursing home with her sister, and other relatives and friends around Thief River Falls and Goodridge.

On Sunday June 13th, Darwin Tanom of Oak Creek, WI, a son of Lillian Tanom of Oklee, left for Brazil, for Norby's. He will spend a few weeks there attending business. Darwin has worked for Norby's for a number of years. It was enjoyable to hear how they live in Brazil. They drank their coffee out of little tea cups, and just a few people talk English. It was also nice to get back home again after spending a month in Wisconsin.

On Friday Adeline Provost and Al and Vi Radniecki of Oklee left for Hoyt Lakes, to attend the wedding of their granddaughter, Monica Radniecki to Michael Hendrickson on Saturday afternoon at the Holy Rosary Catholic church at Aurora. Adeline Provost of Oklee spent the weekend with her sister, Frances Sunsdahl of Tower. They also visited with other relatives.

Rose Aaknes was a dinner and supper guest with Wayne and Kathy Bakke at Gonvick. Afternoon visitors were Wade and Roxy Bakke and Samantha, Scott and Leeann Bakke, Megan and Brennan, and Helen Bakke all of Gonvick.

Shirley Struble of Montana spent a few weeks with her sister and family, Howard and Sylvia Flatgland, and also with other relatives and friends. Sylvia Flateland accompanied her sister back to Montana to spend some time there.

Adeline Provost of Oklee and Rose Aaknes were dinner guests with Kathy Bakke at Gonvick on Monday.

NOTICE OF HEARING
BOARD OF ZONING APPEALS
CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Chapter 11 of the Thief River Falls City Code, that Wes and Brenda Schroeder, 1110 Greenwood Street East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, have applied for a Variance to the provisions of Chapter 11 - Land Use Regulation (Zoning) which govern the size of private garages. The property is legally described as Lot 1 in Block One of Allwood Acres Addition.

The petitioners propose to construct a 24' X 24' (576 sq. ft.) addition on the south end of an existing 32' X 24' (768 sq. ft.) garage. The total sizes of the garage with the new addition would be 1,344 square feet. The proposed use of the addition would be for the storage of personal household goods.

The Zoning Ordinance provides that the maximum size for a private garage is under 1,000 square feet in floor area. The petitioners' proposal to construct the 24' X24' addition would require approval of a Variance of 345 square feet to this provision.

Notice is further given that the Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a Hearing on the Variance Request at 7:00 P.M. (CDT) on Monday, July 19, 1993, in the City Council Chambers of the City Auditorium. All persons wishing to comment on the Variance Request will have the option to be heard at this time. Persons who wish to submit written comments prior to the Hearing or who have questions should address them to the Office of the Community Development Director, City Auditorium, P.O. Box 528, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, or telephone 218-681-2500.

Dated this 18th day of June, 1993.

Slight increase in unemployment noted in Region

During the month of May, unemployment in Region 1, which includes Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau, increased slightly. When compared with the same time last year, however, the rate of unemployment is just slightly lower.

According to the Minnesota Department of Jobs and Training, unemployment rates shifted slightly higher during the month of May in Region I. The rate of unemployment increased from 8.6 to 8.8 per cent, increasing the number of unemployed from 3,778 to 3,896. Despite those figures, when compared with unemployment figures of a year ago in May, the rate of unemployment dropped from 8.9 in 1992 to 8.8 in 1993.

The number of individuals employed in the region did increased from April to May. The total number of employed, according to the department, increased from 40,338 to 40,602 in May of 1993. The total number of individuals in the labor force also increased. It increased from 44,116 in April to 44,498 in May.

For Pennington county, unemployment decreased from April to May, but just slightly. The rate of unemployment decreased from 8.7 to 8.6 per cent. The rate of unemployment in May of 1992 was 8.7.

The number of unemployed decreased by number, from 643 to 631. The number of employed decreased from 6,719 to 6,695, and the number of individuals in the labor force remained virtually the same at 7,362 in April and 7,326 in May.

When compared with the other counties in the region, Pennington county remained somewhere in the middle. The highest rate of unemployment was recorded in Red Lake county, which recorded a rate of unemployment of 17.1. The lowest rate of unemployment was recorded in Roseau county, which recorded an unemployment rate of 5.0.

Minnesota's unemployment rate edged slightly upward from 5.7 per cent in April to 5.8 per cent in May. The national rate for May was 6.7 per cent, down from 6.8 per cent in April. A year ago Minnesota's rate was 5.7 per cent while the U.S. rate was 7.2 per cent.

Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate increased from 5.5 per cent in April to 5.7 per cent in May, up from 5.5 per cent a year ago. The U.S. seasonally adjusted rate declined to 6.9 per cent in May from 7 per cent in April, down from 7.4 per cent a year ago.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul metropolitan unemployment rate rose from 4.7 per cent in april to 5.3 per cent in May. There was considerable variation around the state in the changes in unemployment rates from April to May. While Scott County was the only county in the metropolitan area with a decline in its unemployment rate, several counties outside the metropolitan area had declines of more than one percentage point.

The northeast region has the highest unemployment rate among the regions at 9.8 per cent, and the southwestern region has the lowest at 4.3 per cent. Contrasting the counties, the lowest rate was 3.2 per cent for Stevens county and the highest one was 17.1 per cent for Red Lake county.

The monthly survey of employers showed an increase of 32,900 nonagricultural wage and salary jobs from a month ago. This is an increase of 1.5 per cent compared with a U.S. increase of 0.8 per cent. the largest gains were 9,400 jobs in trade, 8,900 jobs in construction, and 7,400 jobs in services. On a seasonally adjusted basis, there was a slight improvement in employment. The mining had the greatest percentage increase while manufacturers of durable goods showed the greatest decline.

The number of nonagricultural wage and salary jobs in Minnesota was up by 45,600 from a year ago, a 2.1 per cent increase. Nationally, there was a 1.4 per cent increase. Minnesota again outperformed the nation in every industry sector except transportation and public utilities. Minnesota experienced a drop of 2,600 jobs in transportation and public utilities mainly due to job losses in air transportation. Increases of over 4,000 jobs have occurred in retail trade, personnel supply services, health services, and local government from a year ago. On a seasonally adjusted basis, Minnesota exceeded the nation with a 2.2 per cent increase versus the U.S. increase of 1.4 per cent.

Trinity Lutheran celebrates 100-year history

Centennial observance Saturday and Sunday features communion services, mass choir and banquet

Centennial celebration of Trinity Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls will take place Saturday and Sunday, July 17 and 18, with several activities on the schedule of events. All present and former members and friends of the congregation are invited to share in the celebration.

Opening event will be an open house Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the church with coffee and bars served. A mass choir composed of present and past choir members will rehearse from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Concluding event of the day will be the centennial banquet at 6:05 p.m. at the Best Western Inn.

Anniversary communion services will be held at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. Sunday with Bishop Arthur Rimmereid of the Northern Minnesota District of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America as the guest speaker. The centennial mass choir will sing at both services and returning pastors and staff will also be assisting.

A fellowship hour will be held at 9:30 a.m. between services in the fellowship hall and a picnic dinner with a free-will offering follows the 10:30 a.m. service. Centennial items including coffee mugs, caps, cookbooks, pictorial director with church history, sweatshirts and T-shirts, framed color photos of the centennial stained glass window and a tape recording of the choir will be available throughout the weekend.

Formation of the Scandinavian Evangelical Lutheran Congregation of Thief River Falls took place at the home of Gilbert Gilbertson, Feb. 27, 1893. The Gilbertsons were grandparents of Dorothy Larson, long-time Trinity organist.

Rev. P. T. Hilmen, who served other congregations at Fertile and Crookston, guided formation of the new church and was elected the first permanent chairman. Other first officers were Lars Backe, secretary; John S. Nelson, treasurer; Christ Linde, one-year trustee; Gilbert Gilbertson, two-year trustee; and H. O. Gilbertson, three-year trustee.

The church unanimously adopted the constitution of the Norwegian Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. At the time of incorporation, Thief River Falls was in Polk county. It was later a part of Red Lake county before Pennington county was formed.

Plans for a church building were made the first winter and lots 16, 17 and 18 of block 34 in the original townsite (site of the present Firestone store on the east side of Horace Avenue) were purchased for $150 from the Skandia American Bank in Crookston.

Charter members of the congregation were listed as families, unmarried men, unmarried women, widowers and widows. The names of the first members are listed in the church history book available at the centennial event.

Securing a permanent pastor was one of the difficulties of the early years of the church, but once one

Slight increase in unemployment noted in Region

During the month of May, unemployment in Region 1, which includes Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau, increased slightly. When compared with the same time last year, however, the rate of unemployment is just slightly lower.

According to the Minnesota Department of Jobs and Training, unemployment rates shifted slightly higher during the month of May in Region 1. The rate of unemployment increased from 8.6 to 8.8 per cent, increasing the number of unemployed from 3,778 to 3,896. Despite those figures, when compared with unemployment figures of a year ago in May, the rate of unemployment dropped from 8.9 in 1992 to 8.8 in 1993.

The number of individuals employed in the region did increased from April to May. The total number of employed, according to the department, increased from 40,338 to 40,602 in May of 1993. The total number of individuals in the labor force also increased. It increased from 44,116 in April to 44,498 in May.

For Pennington county, unemployment decreased from April to May, but just slightly. The rate of unemployment decreased from 8.7 to 8.6 per cent. The rate of unemployment in May of 1992 was 8.7.

The number of unemployed decreased by number, from 643 to 631. The number of employed decreased from 6,719 to 6,695, and the number of individuals in the labor force remained virtually the same at 7,362 in April and 7,326 in May.

When compared with the other counties in the region, Pennington county remained somewhere in the middle. The highest rate of unemployment was recorded in Red Lake county, which recorded a rate of unemployment of 17.1. The lowest rate of unemployment was recorded in Roseau county, which recorded an unemployment rate of 5.0.

Minnesota's unemployment rate edged slightly upward from 5.7 per cent in April to 5.8 per cent in May. The national rate for May was 6.7 per cent, down from 6.8 per cent in April. A year ago Minnesota's rate was 5.7 per cent while the U.S. rate was 7.2 per cent.

Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate increased from 5.5 per cent in April to 5.7 per cent in May, up from 5.5 per cent a year ago. The U.S. seasonally adjusted rate declined to 6.9 per cent in May from 7 per cent in April, down from 7.4 per cent a year ago.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul metropolitan unemployment rate rose from 4.7 per cent in april to 5.3 per cent in May. There was considerable variation around the state in the changes in unemployment rates from April to May. While Scott County was the only county in the metropolitan area with a decline in its unemployment rate, several counties outside the metropolitan area had declines of more than one percentage point.

The northeast region has the highest unemployment rate among the regions at 9.8 per cent, and the southwestern region has the lowest at 4.3 per cent. Contrasting the counties, the lowest rate was 3.2 per cent for Stevens county and the highest one was 17.1 per cent for Red Lake county.

The monthly survey of employers showed an increase of 32,900 nonagricultural wage and salary jobs from a month ago. This is an increase of 1.5 per cent compared with a U.S. increase of 0.8 per cent. the largest gains were 9,400 jobs in trade, 8,900 jobs in construction, and 7,400 jobs in services. On a seasonally adjusted basis, there was a slight improvement in employment. The mining had the greatest percentage increase while manufacturers of durable goods showed the greatest decline.

The number of nonagricultural wage and salary jobs in Minnesota was up by 45,600 from a year ago, a 2.1 per cent increase. Nationally, there was a 1.4 per cent increase. Minnesota again outperformed the nation in every industry sector except transportation and public utilities. Minnesota experienced a drop of 2,600 jobs in transportation and public utilities mainly due to job losses in air transportation. Increases of over 4,000 jobs have occurred in retail trade, personnel supply services, health services, and local government from a year ago. On a seasonally adjusted basis, Minnesota exceeded the nation with a 2.2 per cent increase versus the U.S. increase of 1.4 per cent.

Trinity Lutheran celebrates 100-year history

Centennial observance Saturday and Sunday features communion services, mass choir and banquet

Centennial celebration of Trinity Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls will take place Saturday and Sunday, July 17 and 18, with several activities on the schedule of events. All present and former members and friends of the congregation are invited to share in the celebration.

Opening event will be an open house Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the church with coffee and bars served. A mass choir composed of present and past choir members will rehearse from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Concluding event of the day will be the centennial banquet at 6:05 p.m. at the Best Western Inn.

Anniversary communion services will be held at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. Sunday with Bishop Arthur Rimmereid of the Northern Minnesota District of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America as the guest speaker. The centennial mass choir will sing at both services and returning pastors and staff will also be assisting.

A fellowship hour will be held at 9:30 a.m. between services in the fellowship hall and a picnic dinner with a free-will offering follows the 10:30 a.m. service. Centennial items including coffee mugs, caps, cookbooks, pictorial director with church history, sweatshirts and T-shirts, framed color photos of the centennial stained glass window and a tape recording of the choir will be available throughout the weekend.

Formation of the Scandinavian Evangelical Lutheran Congregation of Thief River Falls took place at the home of Gilbert Gilbertson, Feb. 27, 1893. The Gilbertsons were grandparents of Dorothy Larson, long-time Trinity organist.

Rev. P. T. Hilmen, who served other congregations at Fertile and Crookston, guided formation of the new church and was elected the first permanent chairman. Other first officers were Lars Bicke, secretary; John S. Nelson, treasurer; Christ Linde, one-year trustee; Gilbert Gilbertson, two-year trustee; and H. O. Gilbertson, three-year trustee.

The church unanimously adopted the constitution of the Norwegian Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. At the time of incorporation, Thief River Falls was in Polk county. It was later a part of Red Lake county before Pennington county was formed.

Plans for a church building were made the first winter and lots 16, 17 and 18 of block 34 in the original townsite (site of the present Firestone store on the east side of Horace Avenue) were purchased for $150 from the Skandia American Bank in Crookston.

Charter members of the congregation were listed as families, unmarried men, unmarried women, widowers and widows. The names of the first members are listed in the church history book available at the centennial event.

Securing a permanent pastor was one of the difficulties of the early years of the church, but once one

HOMEOWNERS VACATION LIST

1) Walk from room to room throughout the house to make sure that windows are locked, electrical circuits are not overloaded, and no physical hazards exist (such as, garbage accumulations, paper piles, paint cans, etc.)

2) Arrange to have mail and newspapers stopped or received by a neighbor, lawns mowed and the grounds regularly checked.

3) Leave a radio playing softly, lower the volume of all telephones, and activate automatic timing devices on internal and eternal lightning.

4) Don't be obvious about the whole "process" of leaving home for vacation (canoes and bags packed aloft the car in the driveway are a free advertisement that eventually may be very costly).

Vacation time should be a fun time that isn't spoiled by coming home to a house that has been burglarized or vandalized. Dear Readers,

Prearrangement of funeral service is especially sensible where there are no close family members to properly assume the funeral responsibilities. The concerned person may select his clergy man and funeral director in advance, decide details of the burial and service and place the expense funds in a trust for that purpose.

Respectfully,

Trinity Lutheran Church to observe 100th anniversary

was found through an appeal to the synod, the relationship was a long one. Rev. I. T. Aastad came to the church following his graduation from the seminary in 1895 and served until December of 1919 when he resigned to become president of the Northern Minnesota District of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America.

A decision was made in 1895 to build a parsonage if finances permitted. This parsonage was built south of the church and still stands in its original location of 214 Horace Avenue North.

In 1896 Rev. Aastad received an annual salary of $150, payable in three installments. He received additional pay from outlying churches he also served. Church records show that the annual "dues" paid by members that year varied from $2 to $10 per family. Fifteen members contributed a total of $99 and left the church $51 short of what was required to pay the preacher.

In 1904-05 the congregation had printed a financial statement showing each member's donation and the list of delinquent members. Total receipts were $381.28 and total expenses were $407.84. The difference was listed as "overpaid and owing the treasurer."

In May of 1908 the congregation voted to pay the $20 railroad fare to send a delegate to the synod's convention in Chicago. By 1915 there were 140 children in the Sunday school with an average attendance of 110 and the Ladies Aid contributed $700 to the church treasury.

The second of three congregations forming the present Trinity Lutheran Church was organized following a meeting on Dec. 15, 1902 as the United Lutheran Congregation of Thief River Falls. Its first officers were G. A. Hansen, secretary; Andrew Iverson, treasurer; M. Evenson, Ole Holmstad and C. Engen, trustees. Pastor Huus was issued a call to serve the congregation by providing 12 church services per year for the salary of $50. The call was accepted.

In 1908 the congregation was formally organized as Our Saviour's Congregation and in 1909 it was decided to confer with a contractor named Nelson to plan for a church with a seating capacity of 300 to 400. The basement of the church at Fourth Street and Horace Avenue was used many years as a place of worship. Benches placed on the dirt floor were used for seating. This later became the foundation and basement of the present Trinity Lutheran church.

The third church was known as Trinity Lutheran Church and was a member of the Hauge synod. It was organized in about 1906 and the church building was located on the southeast corner of First Street and LaBree Avenue. That church merged with Our Saviour's church in March of 1918 after Rev. A. M. Skogerboe of the Trinity congregation was asked in 1917 to also serve as pastor of Our Saviour's.

On Aug. 29, 1919, the first church voted to join the merged Our Saviour's congregation and the consolidation was completed Oct. 21, 1919. First officers were Olaf Ramstad, president; H. O. Chommie, vice president; Lars Backe, secretary; and H. S. Dahlen, treasurer. The name Trinity Lutheran Church was adopted as the name of the merged congregation.

At the annual meeting in January of 1925, the congregation voted to build a new church on the basement of Our Saviour's Lutheran at a cost of about $30,000. A loan was received for $12,500 and pledges of about $20,000 obtained. When the mortgage on the church was burned in 1939, the women of the church had raised money to pay off $10,000 of the original $12,500 loan.

A pipe organ was installed and dedicated in 1947. In 1950 property south of the church was purchased for $12,000 and in 1952 the parish education building was built at a cost of about $143,000. The church sanctuary was completely remodeled in 1957.

In 1961 Trinity became a part of the merged Evangelical Lutheran Church, American Lutheran Church and United Evangelical Lutheran Church into the American Lutheran Church. In 1988 it became a part of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America formed by the merger of the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America and the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Pastors of the church since the 1919 consolidation have included I. T. Aastad, 1919; O. J. Kvale, 1919-20; T. E. Sweger, 1920-24; S. L. Tallakson, 1924-28; Axel Shefveland, 1928-29; R. M. Fjelstad, 1929-41; G. S. Thompson, 1941-53; J. J. Jacobson (interim), 1954; Otto Dale, 1955-59; Reuben A. Wangberg, 1959-73; Berton R. Hushagen, 1973-84; Trueman Daniels (interim), 1984-85; and D. Josh Nelson, 1985-present.

Associate pastors have been J. D. Kronlokken, 1948-50; Harold R. Peterson, 1961-73; Hans Lillejord, 1967-69; Louis Hermansen, 1969-72; Roy K. Malde, 1974-77; Julius Hovland, 1978-81; Carl E. Andersen, 1979-81; D. Paul Coen, 1986-88; and Ronald R. Calvert, 1989-present.

Dear Readers,
Prearrangement of funeral service is especially sensible where there are no close family members to properly assume the funeral responsibilities. The concerned person may select his clergy man and funeral director in advance, decide details of the burial and service and place the expense funds in a trust for that purpose.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home

Trinity Lutheran Church to observe 100th anniversary

was found through an appeal to the synod, the relationship was a long one. Rev. I. T. Aastad came to the church following his graduation from the seminary in 1895 and served until December of 1919 when he resigned to become president of the Northern Minnesota District of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America.

A decision was made in 1895 to build a parsonage if finances permitted. This parsonage was built south of the church and still stands in its original location of 214 Horace Avenue North.

In 1896 Rev. Aastad received an annual salary of $150, payable in three installments. He received additional pay from outlying churches he also served. Church records show that the annual "dues" paid by members that year varied from $2 to $10 per family. Fifteen members contributed a total of $99 and left the church $51 short of what was required to pay the preacher.

In 1904-05 the congregation had printed a financial statement showing each member's donation and the list of delinquent members. Total receipts were $381.28 and total expenses were $407.84. The difference was listed as "overpaid and owing the treasurer."

In May of 1908 the congregation voted to pay the $20 railroad fare to send a delegate to the synod's convention in Chicago. By 1915 there were 140 children in the Sunday school with an average attendance of 110 and the Ladies Aid contributed $700 to the church treasury.

The second of three congregations forming the present Trinity Lutheran Church was organized following a meeting on Dec. 15, 1902 as the United Lutheran Congregation of Thief River Falls. Its first officers were G. A. Hansen, secretary; Andrew Iverson, treasurer; M. Evenson, Ole Holmstad and C. Engen, trustees. Pastor Huus was issued a call to serve the congregation by providing 12 church services per year for the salary of $50. The call was accepted.

In 1908 the congregation was formally organized as Our Saviour's Congregation and in 1909 it was decided to confer with a contractor named Nelson to plan for a church with a seating capacity of 300 to 400. The basement of the church at Fourth Street and Horace Avenue was used many years as a place of worship. Benches placed on the dirt floor were used for seating. This later became the foundation and basement of the present Trinity Lutheran church.

The third church was known as Trinity Lutheran Church and was a member of the Hauge synod. It was organized in about 1906 and the church building was located on the southeast corner of First Street and LaBree Avenue. That church merged with Our Saviour's church in March of 1918 after Rev. A. M. Skogerboe of the Trinity congregation was asked in 1917 to also serve as pastor of Our Saviour's.

On Aug. 29, 1919, the first church voted to join the merged Our Saviour's congregation and the consolidation was completed Oct. 21, 1919. First officers were Olaf Ramstad, president; H. O. Chommie, vice president; Lars Backe, secretary; and H. S. Dahlen, treasurer. The name Trinity Lutheran Church was adopted as the name of the merged congregation.

At the annual meeting in January of 1925, the congregation voted to build a new church on the basement of Our Saviour's Lutheran at a cost of about $30,000. A loan was received for $12,500 and pledges of about $20,000 obtained. When the mortgage on the church was burned in 1939, the women of the church had raised money to pay off $10,000 of the original $12,500 loan.

A pipe organ was installed and dedicated in 1947. In 1950 property south of the church was purchased for $12,000 and in 1952 the parish education building was built at a cost of about $143,000. The church sanctuary was completely remodeled in 1957.

In 1961 Trinity became a part of the merged Evangelical Lutheran Church, American Lutheran Church and United Evangelical Lutheran Church into the American Lutheran Church. In 1988 it became a part of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America formed by the merger of the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America and the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Pastors of the church since the 1919 consolidation have included I. T. Aastad, 1919; O. J. Kvale, 1919-20; T. E. Sweger, 1920-24; S. L. Tallakson, 1924-28; Axel Shefveland, 1928-29; R. M. Fjelstad, 1929-41; G. S. Thompson, 1941-53; J. J. Jacobson (interim), 1954; Otto Dale, 1955-59; Reuben A. Wangberg, 1959-73; Berton R. Hushagen, 1973-84; Trueman Daniels (interim), 1984-85; and D. Josh Nelson, 1985-present.

Associate pastors have been J. D. Kronlokken, 1948-50; Harold R. Peterson, 1961-73; Hans Lillejord, 1967-69; Louis Hermansen, 1969-72; Roy K. Malde, 1974-77; Julius Hovland, 1978-81; Carl E. Andersen, 1979-81; D. Paul Coen, 1986-88; and Ronald R. Calvert, 1989-present.

Dear Readers,
Prearrangement of funeral service is especially sensible where there are no close family members to properly assume the funeral responsibilities. The concerned person may select his clergy man and funeral director in advance, decide details of the burial and service and place the expense funds in a trust for that purpose.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home

was found through an appeal to the synod, the relationship was a long one. Rev. I. T. Aastad came to the church following his graduation from the seminary in 1895 and served until December of 1919 when he resigned to become president of the Northern Minnesota District of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America.

A decision was made in 1895 to build a parsonage if finances permitted. This parsonage was built south of the church and still stands in its original location of 214 Horace Avenue North.

In 1896 Rev. Aastad received an annual salary of $150, payable in three installments. He received additional pay from outlying churches he also served. Church records show that the annual "dues" paid by members that year varied from $2 to $10 per family. Fifteen members contributed a total of $99 and left the church $51 short of what was required to pay the preacher.

In 1904-05 the congregation had printed a financial statement showing each member's donation and the list of delinquent members. Total receipts were $381.28 and total expenses were $407.84. The difference was listed as "overpaid and owing the treasurer."

In May of 1908 the congregation voted to pay the $20 railroad fare to send a delegate to the synod's convention in Chicago. By 1915 there were 140 children in the Sunday school with an average attendance of 110 and the Ladies Aid contributed $700 to the church treasury.

The second of three congregations forming the present Trinity Lutheran Church was organized following a meeting on Dec. 15, 1902 as the United Lutheran Congregation of Thief River Falls. Its first officers were G. A. Hansen, secretary; Andrew Iverson, treasurer; M. Evenson, Ole Holmstad and C. Engen, trustees. Pastor Huus was issued a call to serve the congregation by providing 12 church services per year for the salary of $50. The call was accepted.

In 1908 the congregation was formally organized as Our Saviour's Congregation and in 1909 it was decided to confer with a contractor named Nelson to plan for a church with a seating capacity of 300 to 400. The basement of the church at Fourth Street and Horace Avenue was used many years as a place of worship. Benches placed on the dirt floor were used for seating. This later became the foundation and basement of the present Trinity Lutheran church.

The third church was known as Trinity Lutheran Church and was a member of the Hauge synod. It was organized in about 1906 and the church building was located on the southeast corner of First Street and LaBree Avenue. That church merged with Our Saviour's church in March of 1918 after Rev. A. M. Skogerboe of the Trinity congregation was asked in 1917 to also serve as pastor of Our Saviour's.

On Aug. 29, 1919, the first church voted to join the merged Our Saviour's congregation and the consolidation was completed Oct. 21, 1919. First officers were Olaf Ramstad, president; H. O. Chommie, vice president; Lars Backe, secretary; and H. S. Dahlen, treasurer. The name Trinity Lutheran Church was adopted as the name of the merged congregation.

At the annual meeting in January of 1925, the congregation voted to build a new church on the basement of Our Saviour's Lutheran at a cost of about $30,000. A loan was received for $12,500 and pledges of about $20,000 obtained. When the mortgage on the church was burned in 1939, the women of the church had raised money to pay off $10,000 of the original $12,500 loan.

A pipe organ was installed and dedicated in 1947. In 1950 property south of the church was purchased for $12,000 and in 1952 the parish education building was built at a cost of about $143,000. The church sanctuary was completely remodeled in 1957.

In 1961 Trinity became a part of the merged Evangelical Lutheran Church, American Lutheran Church and United Evangelical Lutheran Church into the American Lutheran Church. In 1988 it became a part of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America formed by the merger of the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America and the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Pastors of the church since the 1919 consolidation have included I. T. Aastad, 1919; O. J. Kvale, 1919-20; T. E. Sweger, 1920-24; S. L. Tallakson, 1924-28; Axel Shefveland, 1928-29; R. M. Fjelstad, 1929-41; G. S. Thompson, 1941-53; J. J. Jacobson (interim), 1954; Otto Dale, 1955-59; Reuben A. Wangberg, 1959-73; Berton R. Hushagen, 1973-84; Trueman Daniels (interim), 1984-85; and D. Josh Nelson, 1985-present.

Associate pastors have been J. D. Kronlokken, 1948-50; Harold R. Peterson, 1961-73; Hans Lillejord, 1967-69; Louis Hermansen, 1969-72; Roy K. Malde, 1974-77; Julius Hovland, 1978-81; Carl E. Andersen, 1979-81; D. Paul Coen, 1986-88; and Ronald R. Calvert, 1989-present.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Speaking Of . . .

by
Sharon LaCoursiere

. . . This is Summer?

Is summer over? Did I miss it again?

Surely summer must be over. I feel like fall, don't you?

Nights are cool enough to be comfy sleeping under a warm quilt. In fact, some nights I have found it necessary to put a second warm quilt on top of my main warm quilt. These past few days I have been thinking about how nice it would be to have my electric blanket back on the bed, but I have managed to hold off.

These days are not like summer days. If it is a sunny day, it still looks like fall. Maybe it has something to do with the puffy clouds that float so sedately across the sky. When it is windy, it seems even more like fall because then the graying clouds scuttle quickly across the sky. Then too, it has often been rainy and the sky is overcast and gloomy. Those days it is really like fall.

Any day now I expect to see the leaves starting to turn colors and hear the ducks and geese honking as they fly south.

My yard certainly thinks fall has come. The flowers I planted look just the same as they did when I planted them a month or so ago, maybe even a bit worse. They haven't spread or grown at all. Even the weeds that normally overtake the flowers are not growing like they usually do. All I seem to have in the flower beds is tiny maple tree sprouts, and I have no idea why they are there.

Speaking of trees, my apple tree has little apples but they have already turned red and are tumbling to the ground like they do in the fall. I'm sure the apple tree thinks fall has come, apples ready or not. I have mushrooms growing in my yard, too. I don't know if they do that in the fall, but it certainly isn't normal to have mushrooms growing in the yard in the summer time, is it?

I have been dragging my warm nightgowns out of the bottom of my dresser drawer lately, and I haven't stopped wearing my warm ducky slippers yet. When I cleaned my closet, I packed away my sweaters, and I have had all I can do to keep from digging them out again. Who wants to wear bare tops and shorts in weather like this? This is sweater weather, if I ever saw it.

Are people actually eating outside these days? I have my picnic table and grill out in the back yard, but we haven't used them at all this year. Oh, I planned to use the grill one night and got things ready, but then it clouded up and rained like crazy before we could do anything.

The main reason I feel like fall has to do with my eating habits. In the summer we eat salads, sandwiches and other cool things for our meals. Sometimes, if it is very hot, I will mix up icy cold sodas or malts for all of us to have to drink with our meal.

I am not hungry for salads, sandwiches or cool things. I do not want an icy cold soda or malt. I want warm food and hot drinks, like tea and spiced cider.

I feel like cooking cold weather things, soups and casseroles, meat loaf and stew. I want to bake breads and cakes, something to warm up the kitchen, and my innards.

As if to put the icing on the cake, so to speak, I find my television set is playing Christmas carols to me. Yes, it is. And there are Christmas scenes and someone dressed in a Santa suit. The Santa person mumbles something about "Christmas in July." This just goes to prove what I've been saying all along. Summer has passed us by and fall is here and Christmas will be here soon.

Yes, here I sit, drinking hot tea, gazing out at a gray, rainy sky, dressed in my sweatsuit and ducky slippers, thinking about baking bread and making homemade soup and I surely do feel like winter is on the way. (But it is only July!)

Marcia Erickson, the new Miss Thief River Falls, awarded medals to winners at the Thief River Falls In-Line Skate Fun Roll event held Sunday at the Arctco parking lot in Thief River Falls. Above, Marcia places a medal around the neck of Dr. Joe Krepp, who was the winner in the 19 and over division.

In-line Skate provided fun for many skaters

Cool weather on Sunday may have kept some people away from the In-Line Skate Fun Roll, but those that did attend were in store for a treat.

Rollerblade, manufacturer of in-line skates, brought a demo van to the Fun Roll and provided anyone who wanted, an opportunity to try out some in-line skates. In addition, there was a safety demonstration and a demonstration by Former Miss Thief River Falls Lynnae Broten.

Sponsors of the event included: Northwest Medical Center, the Falls/Dakota Clinic, KTRF/KSNR, Pepsi-Cola Bottling of Thief River Falls, and the Minnesota Extension Service.

Results from the race included the following first place finishes: Aaron Bendickson in the 8 and under division; Bennett Pagnac and Kelly Bendickson in the 9-11 division; Dustin Melby and Taya Hunt in the 12-14 division; Adam Fulton in the 15-18 division; and Dr. Joe Krepp and Mary Anne Coleman in the 19 and over division.

PARENTING TIPS

Keeping Kids Safe

Many parents believe that a warning or punishment is enough to keep a preschool child from getting into trouble. However, most preschool children don't remember explanations, may not remember warnings and often don't connect the disciplinary action with behavior that prompts it.

Four-year-old Mary was told by her mother that if she went into the street she would be spanked. Instead of looking for the real danger, the car, Mary looked back over her shoulder as she walked into the street. Her main concern was to see if her mother was watching. That was the reason she did'nt see the car that hit her. Mary had never been warned, "If you go into the street, you may be hit by a car." She had never been taught that cars are a hazard; all Mary ever worried about was getting a spanking from her mother.

Teach your child about the dangers of life and ways to be safe. Explain these things at your child's level and with words he/she can understand. Keep it simple.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Associate the danger with the warning. For example: if you run you may fall, if you touch the hot stove you may get burned, etc.

IMPRESSIONS

Beth Johnson

As I am writing this column, it's about 8:00 in the evening. It is still light outside, but, if you can remember back a month ago, it's more like the beginning of dusk now, not brilliant daylight as it was then. In about an hour I will have pulled the blinds for the night. A month ago, I could wait until almost 10:00 in the evening to do that.

Where has our summer gone?

About a month ago, if I remember correctly, we had our only nice warm summer day. This past month has found me several times turning up the furnace to get the chill out of the house. Where has the sun's warmth gone? Will we be needing our furnaces much more this summer?

Where has our summer gone?

About a month ago I decided that the windows in our house needed washing. The only time I can wash windows is over a weekend. When I deemed it important to wash the windows, the men in my family could not see the need to do this wonderful chore. They were saved from helping in this project by rain. I mentioned the windows again this weekend to my family. This time even they could see that it's getting hard to see through the rain spots and dust on the windows. But, once again, rain saved us from this chore. If we are lucky we'll get to the windows this weekend. But, maybe we'll be saved from this project by rain once again!

Where has our summer gone?

About a month ago, we did our first fertilizing and weed killing of our lawn. We were concerned that maybe we would have to water in the fertilizer. But, at just about the right time, it rained. The weeds pretty much left. The grass greened up. But, since that time, it's been raining and raining and raining. The grass looks even a bit yellowed—I assume from too much moisture. About once a week, in between rain storms, the grass gets cut. But, the trouble is that it begins to rain soon thereafter, and the grass grows, and in a couple of days, it needs to be cut again.

Where has our summer gone?

About a month ago, on that nice first day of summer, I decided that maybe this year I should break down and buy a new pair of shorts for the hot days of summer. Well, so far, that day, a month ago, was just about the only time I felt the need for summer clothing. My bluejeans seem just about right most evenings after I come home from work. In fact, when I take my evening walk, it's been a rare day when I have not worn my sweatshirt jacket!

Where has our summer gone?

About a month and a half ago I planted petunias along the sunny side of my house. I have spent a bit of time bettering the soil along that side of my house. I have weeded this bed faithfully. But, in spite of my care, the petunias, planted there because they like the heat, are simply surviving. It seems as if they are rebelling against this cool weather. I would guess that a bit of warmth would see them branching out to a pretty fullness.

Where has our summer gone?

We complain about the cool, wet summer. So far, most of us would say that we have not experienced a great summer. Last summer was also cool and wet. We probably feel as if we are due some heat and sunshine with just the right amount of rain mixed in. Our vacation plans include planning to bring cool weather gear with us. But, in spite of the lack of summer as we would like it to be, think for a bit about how fortunate we really are.

We do not have massive flooding. We do not have killing heat. We do have a cool wet summer, but we do not have our homes totally covered with water. We do have a cool wet summer, but we have not needed our air-conditioners. We do have a cool wet summer, but our crops are not under many feet of water. We do have a cool wet summer, but our crops are not frying.

Our summer may be gone, at least for the present, but we should indeed be thankful for the summer we have. Our prayers of thankfulness can be mixed with our prayers for help for the people of our nation who will never be able to forget this summer and the forces of nature it has displayed.

Bicyclists to breeze into TRF on Friday

Bicycle riders participating in a 500-mile bike ride from Minneapolis to Winnipeg will arrive in Thief River Falls Friday. The bike riders are participating in the event to raise funds for Habitat for Humanity, a charitable organization dedicated to building affordable homes for families that would not otherwise be able to afford a home.

The riders will stay overnight at Franklin Middle school in Thief River Falls and leave after having breakfast at Redeemer Lutheran church Saturday morning. The Convention and Visitors Bureau, which is sponsoring their stay, has arranged for the bicycle riders to get a police escort.

The race began Monday, July 12, in the Twin Cities, and is expected to end on July 18 in Winnipeg. The bicyclists ride about 70 miles a day. Thief River Falls is one of the overnight stops on the trip. The bike riders have stopped or will stop also at Sauk Rapids, Brainerd, Walker, Bagley, Lancaster and Winnipeg.

Participants in the event have each raised $500 or more to participate in the event. The riders, ranging in age from 16 to 74, come from 11 states including Minnesota, Alaska, Wisconsin, Ohio, Virginia, New York, Tennessee, North Carolina, Arkansas, Kansas, and Wyoming. Local restaurants, schools, businesses, service clubs and church congregations have provided meals, snacks, camping facilities, showers, bike maintenance, supplies and service for the bicyclists. A sag wagon following the bikers provides emergency medical assistance and support.

In Thief River Falls, School District 564, Redeemer Lutheran church, and the Convention and Visitor's Bureau will be hosts to the bicyclists. Linda Spyhalski will be a chaperone. Ione Gonsorowski will prepare the meals.

Among the participants is John Oehlke, husband of Gay Marie (Wages) Oehlke, formerly of the Warren area. John administrates the Minneapolis Habitat for Humanity program and is an architect. Gay (Wages) Oehlke is administrative assistant in the patent law firm of Merchant and Gould. Gay is the daughter of Eunice Wages of Warren. They have two children, Tara and Min Jo.

Habitat for Humanity does not charge interest or make a profit on the homes that it builds. Families who buy the homes must invest at least 250 hours of labor into the home they purchase and pledge another 100 hours into the construction of another Habitat for Humanity home. The homes are sold for an average price of $35,000.

Habitat for Humanity has been in existence for eight years, lists 3,000 volunteers, 4,000 individuals and business donors, and counts 250 church congregations among its supporters. Over 65 Habitat for Humanity homes have been built in the Twin Cities area. The Twin Cities Habitat for Humanity chapter is one of more than 800 North American affiliates.

Bicyclists will complete the 500-mile race in Winnipeg where they hope to meet former President Jimmy Carter, who is an ardent supporter of the program.

About a week ago someone dumped these puppies in a field near Thief River Falls. According to Don Trontvedt who found the puppies, several puppies were dumped off in the same area last winter as well, but they didn't survive. Law enforcement officials were contacted, but the person who dropped the puppies off in the field could not be located. He has four left. They appear to be a mix between elk hound and collie. Anyone interested in adopting one of the puppies can contact Trontvedt at 681-4028.

Two of the organizers and first adult leaders of the Silverton 4-H club in 1942 were Odin Hanson (left) and Clarence Peterson. They enjoyed reminiscing about early years in the club and looking through a scrapbook of club activities when Hanson visited at the Peterson home east of Thief River Falls last Friday. An observance of more than 50 years of "making the best better" will be observed by the club this Saturday at the Si and Marge Hanson farm.

Silverton 4-H club notes over 50 years

More than 50 years of history will be observed by the Silverton 4-H club at a celebration planned for Saturday, July 17, at the Silas and Marge Hanson home east and north of Thief River Falls. Si was a member of the Silverton club, as were his son and daughter, Ross and Linnae, and Linnae's son and daughter, Aaron and Amy.

Anyone who has had an association with the Silverton club during its history is encouraged to participate in the anniversary event.

The club will sponsor a float in the Cat Festival parade Saturday morning, serve punch, coffee and cake at 2 p.m. and conduct a program at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the Hanson farm.

An afternoon of games, booths, 4-H trivia, exhibits and visiting among former members will be followed by a picnic supper at 5 p.m. 4-H souvenirs and a cookbook prepared for the occasion will be for sale. Theme for the celebration is "Silverton 4-H—Over 50 Years and Still Making the Best Better."

The program will include a welcome by a present club member, flag and 4-H pledges, group singing, roll call by people listing their association with the Silverton club, presentation of club history, old business (review of past projects and programs), new business (a summary and explanation of new projects), demonstration by Kim Rupprecht and Darren Nelson, poem by Mrs. Leslie (Margaret) Nelson, awards by Mrs. LeRoy (Madelyn) Vigen, presentation of the club's first place share the fun presentation and recreation.

While the celebration focuses on the chartering of the club in 1942, it was actually 72 years ago that the first Silverton 4-H club was formed, according to Natalie Woolson, who along with Lawrence Letnes exhibited dairy calves at the county fair in 1921. Their fathers, Harry Woolson and Jens Letnes, had started the club under the supervision of county agent J. McCann.

Natalie Woolson worked several years with the county agent in organizing 4-H clubs in the county and was married on stage at the Pennington county fair during the performance of "The Follies Revue" from Chicago.

For a short time the Silverton and Smiley clubs were combined as the Silverton-Smiley 4-H club, but in 1942 Clarence Peterson inquired about starting a local club to reduce the travel distance to meetings. Odin Hanson and Mabel Urdahl joined him in organizing a new Silverton club in April of 1942. 4-H agent Elfie Hanson helped them get the club started and meetings were held in Silverton town hall which had a meeting room upstairs and a place for horses downstairs.

Charter members of that club were Beulah and Eileen Lerol, June and Dorothy Urdahl, Violet and Clayton Hanson, Pearl and Arnold Peterson, Myrtle, Evelyn, Carl, Martin and Emma Bondley and Glenn and Eleanor Ose. Eleven new clubs were organized in the county that year, bringing the total to 23. Silverton was the first to have 100 per cent completion in projects and was issued a club charter in 1942.

In its first couple of years, during World War II, the club was involved in activities such as buying war stamps and bonds, salvage and conservation projects and health and personal fitness.

Individual members had a number of awards over the years. Pearl Peterson won the county fair grand championship in canning in 1944. Violet Hanson was one of five county junior leaders to attend state 4-H club week in St. Paul in 1946. Norman Panek won the 1947 radio speaking contest. Richard Burtness showed in his advanced dairy project in 1952 that his Holstein cow produced twice the butterfat of the average cow in the state.

The county purchased a wire recorder in 1947 for use in its radio program and the first interview was done with a dairy farmer while he was milking cows. The Silverton one-act play "Pig of My Dreams" won first place in county and subdistrict competition in 1957 and Marlene Hanson won the award for best actress. In the 1970s Ricky Peterson won the best actor award in county competition three times.

The club won its first Honor Club award in 1960 and was named Club of the Year every year from 1980 through 1985 and again in 1988. It also received honor club certificates based on point totals in 1986, 1989 and 1992. Silverton won the Community Pride award in 1977, 1979, 1981, 1982 and 1990 and placed second in 1991.

Eleven times the county dress revue queen has come from the Silverton club and two were named to the honor court at the state fair. Silverton members have earned 23 purple ribbons at the state fair, sent two members to the National 4-H Club Congress.

The club has won share-the-fun competition in 1990, 1991 and 1993, finished second three times and third three times. It also placed first in three county one-act play contests and won the sub-district contest twice.

Over the past 50 years the club has had 57 different adult leaders, a number of whom served for several years or during different years. Beginning in 1942 when Clarence Peterson, Odin Hanson and Mabel Urdahl were leaders, the adult leaders have included the following:

Two of the organizers and first adult leaders of the Silverton 4-H club in 1942 were Odin Hanson (left) and Clarence Peterson. They enjoyed reminiscing about early years in the club and looking through a scrapbook of club activities when Hanson visited at the Peterson home east of Thief River Falls last Friday. An observance of more than 50 years of "making the best better" will be observed by the club this Saturday at the Si and Marge Hanson farm.

Silverton 4-H club notes over 50 years

More than 50 years of history will be observed by the Silverton 4-H club at a celebration planned for Saturday, July 17, at the Silas and Marge Hanson home east and north of Thief River Falls. Si was a member of the Silverton club, as were his son and daughter, Ross and Linnae, and Linnae's son and daughter, Aaron and Amy.

Anyone who has had an association with the Silverton club during its history is encouraged to participate in the anniversary event.

The club will sponsor a float in the Cat Festival parade Saturday morning, serve punch, coffee and cake at 2 p.m. and conduct a program at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the Hanson farm.

An afternoon of games, booths, 4-H trivia, exhibits and visiting among former members will be followed by a picnic supper at 5 p.m. 4-H souvenirs and a cookbook prepared for the occasion will be for sale. Theme for the celebration is "Silverton 4-H—Over 50 Years and Still Making the Best Better."

The program will include a welcome by a present club member, flag and 4-H pledges, group singing, roll call by people listing their association with the Silverton club, presentation of club history, old business (review of past projects and programs), new business (a summary and explanation of new projects), demonstration by Kim Rupprecht and Darren Nelson, poem by Mrs. Leslie (Margaret) Nelson, awards by Mrs. LeRoy (Madelyn) Vigen, presentation of the club's first place share the fun presentation and recreation.

While the celebration focuses on the chartering of the club in 1942, it was actually 72 years ago that the first Silverton 4-H club was formed, according to Natalie Woolson, who along with Lawrence Letnes exhibited dairy calves at the county fair in 1921. Their fathers, Harry Woolson and Jens Letnes, had started the club under the supervision of county agent J. McCann.

Natalie Woolson worked several years with the county agent in organizing 4-H clubs in the county and was married on stage at the Pennington county fair during the performance of "The Follies Revue" from Chicago.

For a short time the Silverton and Smiley clubs were combined as the Silverton-Smiley 4-H club, but in 1942 Clarence Peterson inquired about starting a local club to reduce the travel distance to meetings. Odin Hanson and Mabel Urdahl joined him in organizing a new Silverton club in April of 1942. 4-H agent Elfie Hanson helped them get the club started and meetings were held in Silverton town hall which had a meeting room upstairs and a place for horses downstairs.

Charter members of that club were Beulah and Eileen Lerol, June and Dorothy Urdahl, Violet and Clayton Hanson, Pearl and Arnold Peterson, Myrtle, Evelyn, Carl, Martin and Emma Bondley and Glenn and Eleanor Ose. Eleven new clubs were organized in the county that year, bringing the total to 23. Silverton was the first to have 100 per cent completion in projects and was issued a club charter in 1942.

In its first couple of years, during World War II, the club was involved in activities such as buying war stamps and bonds, salvage and conservation projects and health and personal fitness.

Individual members had a number of awards over the years. Pearl Peterson won the county fair grand championship in canning in 1944. Violet Hanson was one of five county junior leaders to attend state 4-H club week in St. Paul in 1946. Norman Panek won the 1947 radio speaking contest. Richard Burtness showed in his advanced dairy project in 1952 that his Holstein cow produced twice the butterfat of the average cow in the state.

The county purchased a wire recorder in 1947 for use in its radio program and the first interview was done with a dairy farmer while he was milking cows. The Silverton one-act play "Pig of My Dreams" won first place in county and sub-district competition in 1957 and Marlene Hanson won the award for best actress. In the 1970s Ricky Peterson won the best actor award in county competition three times.

The club won its first Honor Club award in 1960 and was named Club of the Year every year from 1980 through 1985 and again in 1988. It also received honor club certificates based on point totals in 1986, 1989 and 1992. Silverton won the Community Pride award in 1977, 1979, 1981, 1982 and 1990 and placed second in 1991.

Eleven times the county dress revue queen has come from the Silverton club and two were named to the honor court at the state fair. Silverton members have earned 23 purple ribbons at the state fair, sent two members to the National 4-H Club Congress.

The club has won share-the-fun competition in 1990, 1991 and 1993, finished second three times and third three times. It also placed first in three county one-act play contests and won the sub-district contest twice.

Over the past 50 years the club has had 57 different adult leaders, a number of whom served for several years or during different years. Beginning in 1942 when Clarence Peterson, Odin Hanson and Mabel Urdahl were leaders, the adult leaders have included the following:

Amanda Hanson, Mrs. George Larson, Mrs. Stanley Panek, Mrs. Ole T. Ose, Mrs. Ted Boese, Mrs. John Burtness, John Burtness, Alan Larson, Kenneth Ose, Mrs. Alan Larson, Gladys Harder, Lloyd Nelson, June Nelson, Bernard Myers, Thelma Peterson, Irene Nelson, Archie Placek, Ethel Nelson, Marge Hanson, Mary Dupree, Lucille Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Berard, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Duke, Si Hanson, Evelyn Hruby and Richard VanderHagen;

Also Ida Rupprecht, Marion Peterson, Mrs. Lawrence Helt, Vivian Knutson, Anita Lang, Ione Sparby, Margaret Rupprecht, Cathy Spengler, Sharon Wagner, Bev Rupprecht, Sharon Russell, Ruth Haagenson, Sandy Sorter and Margaret Nelson;

Also Linnae Enge, Jason Anderson, Jane Shafland, Madelyn Vigen, Paulette Anderson, Sue LeMoine, Susie Koland, Connie Stock, Virginia Swanson, Amy Kirkeide and Marge Lavalier.

Two of the charter members of the Silverton 4-H club were Pearl Peterson and Glen Ose, shown during a club project tour in the mid 1940s. The Silverton 4-H club observes more than 50 years of history this Saturday with a gathering and program at the Si and Marge Hanson farm.

Livestock projects were most common for members of the Silverton 4-H club during the early years of its official 51-year history since receiving its charter. Arnold Peterson, whose father Clarence was one of the organizers of the club in 1942, was a charter member and is shown with one of his sheep. The club will observe more than 50 years of history Saturday with a gathering at the Si and Marge Hanson farm.

Uglem flies ultralight plane from Stillwater to Goodridge

Harvey Uglem, who lives between Stillwater and White Bear Lake, recently flew his ultralight airplane from his home to his father's farm three miles west of Goodridge. He spent about a week visiting with relatives and friends and attending the all '50s school reunion at Goodridge Saturday, June 26.

Harvey's father, Harold, said Harvey left his home Tuesday, June 22, with a five to 10 miles-per-hour southeast tail wind to help push his Carrera ultralight aircraft along.

He stopped at Fawn Lake near Lincoln to visit a friend, Wally Tanberg, and to refuel the plane. By the time he was airborne again the wind velocity had increased to between 25 and 35 miles per hour and in a relatively short time he approached the Uglem farm where his father and brother Butch were stacking hay.

"I didn't expect him with that much wind," Harold said. "I was so surprised when he flew right over me that I just about jumped right off the haystack." After checking out the field, Harvey landed the plane right near the haystack.

Tuesday evening Harvey's wife Joyce arrived with their wrecker to tow home a 1955 Chevrolet which had been stored at Harold's farm.

In addition to visiting at the Uglem farm, Harvey and Joyce visited with Harvey's mother and stepfather, Blanche and Harry Bolstad of Thief River Falls and other relatives and friends.

Harvey said the reunion Saturday was "the best reunion ever," and that it was "pretty nice to visit with friends from so many different classes."

On Monday, June 28, the morning was sunny and the wind was out of the northwest, so Harvey boarded his ultralight and headed for home. He planned a stop at the Morey Fish Company at Motley where Joyce met him with fuel for the second leg of his trip.

The photos accompanying this article were taken by Harold's friend Roy Runnestrand. Another friend, Duane Lappegaard, took videotape of Harvey flying the ultralight at the farm to send to Harvey's sister, Mardell Madill, in California.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito

A visit to Thief River Falls would not be complete without an historic walk along two rivers, the reasons the town started here a century ago.

Paths built by the City, GFWC Zehlians, and many community organizations take you through six city parks and two forest trails along the Red Lake and Thief Rivers.

Stroll at your own pace as this guide map takes you through past decades. Find all 13 pictographs that show what each river view was like many years ago.

Just across the Eighth Street Bridge, signs direct you into Northland College woods, which has a system of grassy lanes beside the Thief River amidst trees uncut for a century. Here where the two rivers meet, an Ojibwe village existed until 1904. A foot bridge across the gully is proposed.

Cross Eighth Street and note pictograph showing Ethel Sander's painting of an early Eighth Street Bridge. The first wooden bridge was owned by Chief Mons-si-moh (Red-Robe), who charged a toll.

(An alternative is to turn left before the Eighth Street Bridge and walk along Centennial Drive and back, noting pictograph of Chief Mons-si-moh's house).

Cross the Eighth Street Bridge and you will be in Chief Red-Robe Park where you will find a circular 1/4 mile asphalt path along the Red Lake River.

Follow the path to the grass boulevard along Seventh Street, turn left onto the grassy boulevard for one block and continue on Red Lake Boulevard residential sidewalks. Here you walk past houses on lots purchased from Chief Red-Robe in the 1890's. [4 blocks]

Cross busy Third Street at the Atlantic Avenue traffic signal and follow the sidewalk to the paverstone path that will take you through Elks Park, the "jewel of the parks." It's time for a rest on a bench overlooking the river. An evergreen tree here was planted by Lincoln High School Class of 1980. [4 blocks]

Follow the paverstone path and boardwalk (note the mural on the west wall of the Fire Hall). This path is accessible to wheelchairs by using the driveways of the City Engineering Building and the Firehall. Continue on the terraced path built by members of United Methodist Church. Pause to enjoy the view from the overlook. [2 blocks]

Turn left, cross the bridge and cross bustling First Street with the traffic signal to the pedestrian island, and then cross Pennington Avenue access lane into Millyard Park. Note the Celebrate 1990 sign denoting Minnesota's participation in this riverwalk project. Pause at the overlook and imagine the millyard that once extended from First Street to Discovery Place on Nora Avenue and from the river past the railroad tracks.

The area around the dam has always been a prime fishing spot – six foot sturgeons were caught here in 1900. Follow the path past the dam, pause at the overlook, and keep following the river as you exit the path at Sioux and Chippewa Avenues. Walk along the grass boulevards one block south to Nora Street and then walk two blocks west to Columbia Avenue Walk south along the grassy edge of Columbia Avenue noting the beautiful Hartz Park across the river.

Keep walking straight south along Columbia Avenue until you cross Greenwood Street and enter the lovely Greenwood Trails created by Rotary Club. Here you can walk for several miles on paths that loop up and down hills through woods beside the river.

Your walk from the College Woods to Greenwood Trails was 7.3 miles. Thief River Falls offers a place to walk and encounter history as well as nature, meet a friendly face or two, and experience peace and quiet.

Present were guests Martin and Mary Dirks from New York, his mother, Viola Dirks, Mr. and Mrs. Marland Johnson, Marvin Johnson and (Ardie Nordshag), Mr. and Mrs. Gerome Hermanson, Keith Johnson and sons, Benjamin and Kyle, Theresa McNeary, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Nordshag and Kevin Johnson. A pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Thursday, June 24th, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dirks and Viola Dirks motored to Grygla where Martin visited with his 1st grade teacher, Mrs. Harriet Nelson. Later they journeyed to Martin's farm home where he grew up. The Byron and Viola Dirks farm, where they also met Terry and Jonilla Kellogg and their three children, Tabfler, Teyl and Toniea. Martin enjoyed seeing the old farm home. It was the first visit back there for over 20 years. Seeing the nice grove of trees planted by his parents, Byron and Viola Dirks. Top of the visit was seeing their pair of Emu's, at a cost of $15,000.00 "whow," we all hoped them luck with their birds!

The surgery was to remove a rib that was shutting off her blood circulation. Julie had undergone the same surgery two weeks ago on the other side. Sharon also helped with the children at that time too.

Keith Johnson and sons, Benjamen and Kyle and Theresa McNeary motored to the Twin Cities Sunday to attend a Twins ballgame. Sharon Johnson, Keith's mother, returned back home with them from her stay at the Steve Burtis home.

Legion team boosts season record to 19-2

With a doubleheader win over Crookston Monday evening at Crookston, the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team improved its season record to 19-2 heading into a round-robin tournament at Duluth this week.

Coach Howard Dalager's team will leave Thief River Falls at 12 noon Thursday and play at 10 a.m. Friday against Milaca and 12:30 p.m. against a strong Forest Lake team. On Saturday Thief River Falls meets Proctor at 10 a.m. and Hibbing at 3:15 p.m. The team will need to win at least three of the four games to advance into Sunday's playoffs.

Thief River Falls will travel to Moorhead Tuesday, July 20.

Games at Crookston Tuesday showed both ends of the scoring spectrum. In the first game Thief River Falls needed a five-run sixth inning rally to tie the game and an extra inning to win 9-7 in eight innings. In the second game an eight-run fourth inning and four-run sixth provided enough margin for a 13-2 win in a game shortened to six innings by the 10-run rule.

Crookston opened the scoring in the first game with a first inning run, added two more in the third, three in the fourth and one in the fifth for a 7-2 lead. Thief River Falls had scored once in the third and once in the fourth innings.

Carter Rogalla opened the sixth inning with a home run before Crookston starter Bobby Shimpa loaded the bases with two walks and a hit batsman. Jayson Olson plated one run with a sacrifice fly and Robert Nelson, Marc Haugen and David Blazek followed with RBI singles to tie the game.

In the top of the eighth inning David Blazek reached base with a two-out single and Crookston reliever Chris Bruggeman then walked Jason Svir and Carter Rogalla. Blazek scored the winning run on a wild pitch and Svir scampered home when the throw attempting to get Blazek went through the pitcher covering the plate.

Joby Looker picked up the win in relief by pitching scoreless seventh and eighth innings. Jeremy Olson went the first three and one-third innings and Jayson Olson the next two and two-thirds.

David Blazek with two key singles was the only Thief River Falls player with more than one hit. Thief River Falls had nine hits and four errors and Crookston six hits and three errors.

After a scoreless first inning in the second game, Crookston took a 1-0 lead in the second and Thief River Falls tied it with a single run in the top of the third. It was a 1-1 game going into the top of the fourth when the flood gates opened.

A double, single and infield single loaded the bases and Jeremy Olson unloaded them with a three-run triple. Jeremy scored on a sacrifice fly by Jayson Olson. Andy Peterson tripled, Dave Blazek singled him home and Nathan Knutson's double set up Jason Svir's two-run double. Svir later scored on an error.

In the sixth inning Thief River Falls scored four more times on three singles and a two-run double by Jeremy Olson, giving his five RBIs for the game.

Rick Ostby pitched the first four innings for the win, extending his record to 6-0 on the season, and Brian Minks pitched the last two innings. Thief River Falls had 14 hits and played errorless ball while Crookston had five hits and committed two errors.

Offensively for Thief River Falls in addition to Jeremy Olson's big game were two hits and two RBIs each by Dave Blazek and Rick Ostby, two hits by Carter Rogalla and two RBIs by Jason Svir.

Waterfowl figures fall slightly in state count

Mallard and blue-winged teal breeding populations in Minnesota declined slightly from 1992 to 1993, according to results from the annual May waterfowl breeding ground survey conducted by the Department of Natural Resources.

The mallard breeding population this spring was estimated at 306,000, a decrease of 15 percent compared with 1992, according to Jeff Lawrence, staff waterfowl specialist with the DNR.

"While the mallard breeding population declined from 1992, this is still the second highest population since the current survey began in 1968," said Lawrence. About one-third of Minnesota's breeding ducks are mallards.

This year's mallard population is 30 percent above the most recent 10-year average. "While we saw a decline in Minnesota mallards this year, the population trend has definitely been upward since the mid-1970s," noted Lawrence.

Blue-winged teal, which also make up about one-third of Minnesota's breeding ducks, declined by 27 percent to 260,000 from 1992 to 1993. The population was similar to the 10-year average. "Blue-winged team populations in Minnesota tend to fluctuate more than mallards due to habitat conditions on the breeding grounds and the timing of migration and nesting," Lawrence said.

The number of breeding waterfowl is estimated annually in approximately 40 percent of Minnesota as part of an overall inventory of North American breeding waterfowl. Information on breeding duck populations from Canada and other states is not yet available, but both Saskatchewan and Manitoba have poorer habitat conditions than last year. These areas contribute many ducks to the fall flight through Minnesota.

Canada geese observed on the Minnesota survey increased 29 percent from 1992 and were 38 percent above the 10-year average. The survey does not include the Twin Cities area, which also has a substantial goose population. Breeding Canada geese are expanding their range through most of Minnesota.

Eastern prairie population of Canada geese that breeds in northern Manitoba and migrates through western Minnesota declined substantially this year. While the 1993 spring was early and production of young may be good, the smaller breeding population will result in a smaller fall flight.

Habitat conditions for breeding waterfowl were good to excellent in the southern third of the state, fair to good in the middle third, and relatively dry in the northwest. Wetland numbers increased 22 percent compared with 1992, and were 20 percent above the 10-year average. Good rainfall during May and June throughout much of the state should provide good wetland habitat conditions for brood rearing.

Status of North American waterfowl populations will be discussed by the Mississippi Flyway Council, an organization of waterfowl biologists and administrators representing 14 states and three Canadian provinces, at its July meeting in Marietta, Ohio. The group will develop recommendations on waterfowl hunting regulations to be presented to the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service in early August in Washington, D.C.

Outdoor News

Department of the Interior U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service began sales of its new 1993-94 Federal Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamp (Duck Stamp) July 1.

One of the nation's most successful conservation efforts since its inception during the Dust Bowl days of the 1930, the stamp has raised $414 million through sales. The money has been used to acquire more than 4 million acres of vital waterfowl habitat for the national wildlife refuge system.

Winning design for the new stamp, featuring a pair of canvasback ducks, was submitted by Minnesota artist Bruce Miller.

Miller, a professional artist, an avid outdoorsman and an Eagle Scout, grew up in Minnetonka. He attended St. Cloud State University and started painting wildlife in 1980. A third place finisher in the 1991 federal duck stamp contest, Miller became a full-time artist in 1985.

Waterfowl hunters age 16 and older are required to purchase a duck stamp each year. Many stamp collectors, artists and other conservationists have also collected the stamps since 1934 when Jay N. "Ding" Darling's drawing entitled 'Mallards Dropping In' became the first stamp design.

The canvasback, one of North America's fastest flying ducks, is distinguished by its long reddish-chestnut neck and head, and white body with a black chest and hindquarters. Its wedge-shaped head slopes upward from the tip of its long black bill to the back of the crown.

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors visited RV Sports recently to present a "More Progress" award recognizing extensive remodeling of the local business. Michelle Benton and Jim Hoks made the presentation to Randy Adamson. Observing 30 years of Arctic Cat sales this week, RV Sports has spent the past two months doing interior remodeling and siding, creating more display walls, new merchandise gondolas on wheels for easy movement, track lighting and addition of a dressing room. Yet to be finished are offices and a doorway to make the business more handicapped accessible. Randy's father Vern started selling Arctic Cat snowmobiles 30 years ago and the company now conducts an active mail order business in addition to its retail and repair operations.

Marshall County historical society recounts its history

Marshall County Historical Society is celebrating its 60th anniversary this year. As they prepare for another year of activities they are reminded of how it all started.

On July 29, 1933, the Marshall County Historical Society was organized at the 24th annual picnic of the Marshall-Kittson Old Settlers Association. The picnic was held at F.A. Green's Riverside Farm grove near Stephen. At this picnic, Bernard B. Brett, then judge of probate court at Warren, proposed the formation of a county historical organization. Judge Brett was promptly elected to form a committee to make plans for the organization and to call a meeting for all interested people of the county. His committee, which included Nils Malm and A.B. Nelson must have been busy because when they called a meeting for October 31, 1933 at 2 p.m., they submitted a proposed constitution and by-laws. At the October 31 meeting, which was held at the Warren City Hall, the county residents in attendence elected Judge Brett to act as chairman of the meeting and Nils Malm as secretary.

Activities recorded by the secretary for the meeting include the following: a motion forming the Marshall County Historical Society; adoption of a constitution; election of officers, who included B. B. Brett as president, Nils Malm as vice president, Synneva G. Strunk as secretary and Mrs. H.I. Yetter as treasurer; election of board of directors who included John Whalen, P.B. Malberg and Rev. L.E. Brynestad; and approval of a motion to have each township appoint a secretary. Those present at the meeting who paid membership dues of 50 cents included the following: Nils Malm, John Whalen, P.B. Malberg, Mrs. F.A. Green, Rev. Lawrence E. Brynestad, Synneva Grindeland Strunk, Dr. G.S. Wattam, Mrs. Catherine Sinnott, Jim Whalen, Fred Johnson, Rev. Milton T. Bratrud, Oliver M. Mattson, A.B. Nelson, Mrs. Edith C. Brett, Jane Renney Yetter, and Judge B.B. Brett.

Members added to the list at a December 8 meeting included the following: Donald Robertson, John S. McArthur, Mrs. Andrew Grindeland, O.H. Taralseth, R.B. Taralseth, Mrs. K.J. Forde, Edith C. Brett, A.A. Harris, Bertha A. Blanh Harris, E.O. Hjelle, John L. Dahlquist, Rev. Frances Kosian, H.M. Blegen, and Clara A. Blegen.

The above list of 41 memberships were entered into the October 31 meeting recorded and on the December 8 meeting all were considered as charter members of the society and the list was sent to the Minnesota Historical Society for safe keeping.

At the December 8 meeting it was decided that the society would sponsor an essay contest in the rural and city grade schools and the high schools of the county. Mrs. H.I. Yetter, Synneva G. Strunk and Rev. L.E. Brynestad (chairman) were appointed as a committee to plan for the contest and report at the nexct meeting. The purpose of the contest was to bring out early historical facts from each school district and township of the county.

The corresponding secretaries for their township or town include the following: Otto Carlson in Nelson Park, Louis Anderson in Lincoln, Nels J. Sundberg in East Park, A.B. Isaacson in Huntly, Chas. Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

WHOLE WHEAT BIBLE STUDY

Understanding the fear of the Lord

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

If all peoples of the world had a fear of the Lord, then all peoples of the world would be converted or reconciled to God. There would then be one faith, one baptism, and one Lord (Eph. 4:5). There would be no more war because there would be so much love, respect and concern for the welfare and needs of others (Phil. 2:3).

What is the fear of the Lord? The Bible says, "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom" (Prov. 9:10). A better word than fear would be reverence. How do we show reverence for God? The dictionary says we revere God when we show honor and profound respect for Him because of His position.

How do we show honor or respect for the one who created us? God's word says we glorify Him with good works. We let our lights —good works—shine before men in such a way that God is glorified (Matt. 5:16). How do we do that? We walk in God's Ways by imitating Jesus Christ, His Son (1 Cor. 11:1). We keep His words and practice His sayings (Matt. 7:24; Luke 8:21; 11:28; John 8:51; 11:26; 12:47).

Jesus is our example of how to walk in God's Ways by doing good works. So are John the Baptist, James, John and Paul (Matt. 25:33-40; Luke 3:10-14; 6:33-35; James 2:14-18; Acts 26:20; Titus 3:8; 1 John 3:10, 18-19).

Jesus Christ is making a peculiar people who are zealous for good works (Titus 2:14). We were created in Him to do good works (Eph. 2:10). We are to learn to be servants of the most if we hope to be called great in the kingdom (Matt. 20:26-28; 23:11; Phil. 2:3-5; Mark 9:35; 10:43-45). We are to imitate Jesus Christ and the Father (1 John 2:6; Eph. 5:1).

We are to walk in the truth and keep the commandments by practicing righteousness daily to please God (2 John 4, 6; 1 John 3:7). It is not hard, but easy and pleasant (1 John 5:3; Matt. 11:30). Practicing righteousness is how we worship God in our bodies. It is our spiritual service of worship (Rom. 12:1). We are to worship God in spirit and in truth by practicing the truth (John 4:23-24; 3:21). We practice the truth when we present our bodies as instruments of righteousness and when we overcome evil by doing good for God daily (Rom. 6:13; 12:21). This is the one and only way to revere or fear the Lord our God.

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

WHOLE WHEAT BIBLE STUDY

Understanding the fear of the Lord

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

If all peoples of the world had a fear of the Lord, then all peoples of the world would be converted or reconciled to God. There would then be one faith, one baptism, and one Lord (Eph. 4:5). There would be no more war because there would be so much love, respect and concern for the welfare and needs of others (Phil. 2:3).

What is the fear of the Lord? The Bible says, "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom" (Prov. 9:10). A better word than fear would be reverence. How do we show reverence for God? The dictionary says we revere God when we show honor and profound respect for Him because of His position.

How do we show honor or respect for the one who created us? God's word says we glorify Him with good works. We let our lights —good works—shine before men in such a way that God is glorified (Matt. 5:16). How do we do that? We walk in God's Ways by imitating Jesus Christ, His Son (1 Cor. 11:1). We keep His words and practice His sayings (Matt. 7:24; Luke 8:21; 11:28; John 8:51; 11:26; 12:47).

Jesus is our example of how to walk in God's Ways by doing good works. So are John the Baptist, James, John and Paul (Matt. 25:33-40; Luke 3:10-14; 6:33-35; James 2:14-18; Acts 26:20; Titus 3:8; 1 John 3:10, 18-19).

Jesus Christ is making a peculiar people who are zealous for good works (Titus 2:14). We were created in Him to do good works (Eph. 2:10). We are to learn to be servants of the most if we hope to be called great in the kingdom (Matt. 20:26-28; 23:11; Phil. 2:3-5; Mark 9:35; 10:43-45). We are to imitate Jesus Christ and the Father (1 John 2:6; Eph. 5:1).

We are to walk in the truth and keep the commandments by practicing righteousness daily to please God (2 John 4, 6; 1 John 3:7). It is not hard, but easy and pleasant (1 John 5:3; Matt. 11:30). Practicing righteousness is how we worship God in our bodies. It is our spiritual service of worship (Rom. 12:1). We are to worship God in spirit and in truth by practicing the truth (John 4:23-24; 3:21). We practice the truth when we present our bodies as instruments of righteousness and when we overcome evil by doing good for God daily (Rom. 6:13; 12:21). This is the one and only way to revere or fear the Lord our God.

—Alarming statistics: One out of each 25 Minnesota citizens is on government payrolls.

—A static eliminator has been invented, but a colleague won't be satisfied until something has been devised to eliminate poor radio programs and advertising blurbs.

—The busiest place in town the past week has been the old swimming hole in Tindolph park.

—Says someone who should know: It's the bad lie a golfer gets that sometimes makes him tell a good one.

—Another baneful effect of the war: Men's nightshirts are no longer obtainable.

—The Republican and Democratic parties had better fight while they can. After the war it will be Veterans party vs. the Labor party.

—Traveling salesmen, we read, think independence has at last been achieved. They are taking orders from practically no one.

—While effective, a world war provides a mighty costly solution of the unemployment problem.

County Division

"Petitions are now being circulated asking that at the next general election the question of dividing Polk county into four parts be submitted to the people. Under the new order of things this part of the county will be in Red Lake county with the county seat, of course, at Red Lake Falls. The proposed county would comprise the following towns: Numedal, Norden, Bray, Rocksbury, Black River, Wyandotte, Red Lake Falls, Emardville, Lake Pleasant, North, Poplar River, Sanders, Polk Centre, River Falls, Louisville, Gervais, Gentilly and Terrebonne. If the proposition carried at the election the first board of county commissioners will be John B. Hebert of Poplar River, O. Neel of Louisville, Michael Jeffers of Gervais, Swan Anderson of Black River and L. A. Kanfer of Red Lake Falls.

"East Grand Forks joins and asks that their county be named Nash county with the following towns: Bygland, Huntsville, Grand Forks, Sullivan, Euclid, Higdem, Sandsville, Farley, Bristlet, Fisher, Nesbit, Rhinehart, Keystone, Belgium, Northland, Tabor, Angus, two unorganized townships.

"McIntosh aspires to be the county seat of a county which they propose to call Columbia with the following towns: Lambert, Tilden, Badger, Hill River, Woodside, King, Eden, Garfield, Winger, Rosebud, Chester, Grove Park, Lessor, Godfrey, Knute, Brandsvold, Queen, Garden, Sletten and Columbia.

"Crookston, not being in the deal, is left with the remnant, the smallest county of the four. It would comprise the following towns: Fanny, Tynsid, Andover, Fairfax, Vineland, Russia, Hubbard, Liberty, Lowell, Roome, Crookston, Kertsonville, Hammond, Onstad and Reis.

"If the proposition carries it, of course, means four sets of county officers to support four sets of county buildings and public records to prepare. It will come at a time when the tax payers are poorly prepared to stand the expense and about the only benefits in sight are the prospective county seat booms. So far as we know this section will oppose the scheme to a man."

Tight squeeze! Perkins Motor Transport of Farmington, MN, hauled this large piece of equipment through Thief River Falls and several other towns along Highway 59 on Tuesday. The large cylinder was being taken to a chemical company in Swan Hills, Alberta, which is northwest of Edmonton. Perkins hauled the piece of equipment from the barge terminal in St. Paul. A spokesperson for the company said it was on one of the last barges before the river was closed to barge traffic. The truck and push truck hauling the piece of equipment had a total of 104 tires. The gross vehicle weight, including the push truck was 200 tons. The load was 20 feet wide, 197 feet long and 17-feet six-inches high. The vehicle can be steered in five places and a push truck at the rear of the assembly is used to help push the load up hills. Perkins travels only by daylight and receives traffic control assistance from the Minnesota State Patrol and civilians. While traveling through Thief River Falls, the police and sheriff's department also provided assistance.

The Times' Editorial Opinion

Thief River Falls, Minnesota

Editorial opinion published on this page, whether locally written or re-printed from other sources is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Opinions expressed by the editor are his own and not necessarily those of other staff members. Opinions expressed in items from other publications may be contradictory to the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Paying The Price For Good Representation

Elected state and federal representatives are doing a proper job of representation if they are in tune with the wishes of their constituents and respond to those views through their votes on pending legislation. Unfortunately, that is not what the power structure in political parties also believes is proper. When the view of the electorate conflicts with the view of the party leadership, allegiance to the party is what is expected.

An example is presented by Wy Spano and D. J. Leary in their July publication of "Politics in Minnesota." Here's what they write:

"They're finding a way to extract a price from freshman (U.S.) Congressman Dave Minge (D-MN). Minge angered the House Democratic leadership when he jumped ship and voted the wishes of his conservative district against the Clinton budget plan with the now-deceased BTU tax.

"Here's an example: About two weeks ago a House Appropriations subcommittee made decisions on about $250 million in transportation demonstration projects. Minge, having most of the entire Minnesota River flood plain in his district, was understandably hopeful of getting approval for projects in his southwestern Minnesota district.

"Not a chance. Instead, about 40 per cent of the projects went to the state of Michigan, which just happens to be the home state of the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. Sixty per cent of the monies coming to Minnesota went to projects in the Fifth District. That, of course, is home district of the powerful chairman of the House Budget committee, Minneapolis Congressman Martin Olav Sabo (D-MN). Minge walked away empty-handed with what the House leadership hopes was an object lesson in party discipline.

"Republicans, who hold hopes of unseating Minge in his reelection test next year, are afraid that this kind of political punishment may be just the thing that helps reelect the first-term congressman."

Spano and Leary made no mention of it, but Rep. Collin Peterson of Minnesota's Seventh District was also an open opponent of the BTU tax. One wonders whether the DFL party leadership in Washington has or will have the same punitive frame of mind in dealing with him and his district.

No Shortage Of Summer Activity In TRF

Certainly there is no shortage of activity in the Thief River Falls community for people looking for something to do. Last weekend provided the Western Days celebration and Miss Thief River Falls pageant.

This coming weekend the Cat Fest observing the manufacture of the one millionth Arctic Cat snowmobile will be of interest to many and draw visitors from many states and foreign countries. On a smaller and more individual interest scale, the 50th anniversary of the Silverton 4-H club and 100th anniversary of Trinity Lutheran Church this weekend will also involved many people.

Scarcely will the dust have settled from these events than the Pennington County Fair will open on Wednesday, July 21, and continue through Sunday, July 25. The fair will provide daily activity all five days, including concerts by legendary country singer Tanya Tucker Saturday, July 24.

Another popular public event, the Crazy Days retail promotion, is on the schedule for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 29, 30 and 31.

And just before school classes get underway for the 1993-94 term, the second annual Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) TRF Stampede will come to the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center Friday through Sunday, September 3, 4 and 5.

Gambling Found To Have No Effect On Minnesota Tourism

According to a recent Minnesota Poll, commissioned by the University of Minnesota Tourism Center, casino gambling doesn't harm Minnesota tourism but doesn't help it either.

"The poll found few clear trends," states Barbara Koth, assistant tourism specialist with the Tourism Center. "It was really only a snapshot of people's gambling behavior." She said the fact that there isn't better data available on people's gambling habits is unfortunate because there is a great deal of controversy about whether people's travel and spending habits have changed as a result of casino gambling.

It is estimated that gamblers wagered $2.5 billion at Minnesota's 16 Indian casinos in 1992 alone.

Koth said poll results may be ambiguous for several reasons. First, it is hard to get honest answers from participants because gambling is a sensitive subject. Second, people haven't been doing it long enough to establish clear habits. Third, the gambling industry is growing and changing so rapidly it is difficult to establish clear trends.

The poll found no significant differences between:

- Gamblers and non-gamblers as to income, sex, marital, work status, education or age; and
- 1991 and 1992 figures on where people sent their leisure dollar. The tourism industry has assumed that if people spend money on casino gambling, they spend less on other forms of entertainment.

The poll also found that:

- As personal income increased, spending on both casino gambling and other forms of entertainment increased;
- 50 per cent of Minnesotans sampled visited a gambling casino somewhere in the last two years and 45 per cent visited a Minnesota casino in the last year;
- There is a slight trend toward staying in Minnesota, rather than traveling to Nevada, New Jersey, South Dakota or Wisconsin for casino gambling; and
- Only 14 per cent stay overnight at a motel when they visit a casino.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Barrie, Jr. and grandson, Corey of Jacksonville, FL, and Mr. and Mrs. James Barrie of Seattle, WA, spent Tuesday and Wednesday last week as guests at the Harold Nelson home. They left Grygla via Bemidji, where they visited relatives on Thursday before leaving for their respective homes. They had also attended a family reunion at Turton, SD. The Barrie family grew up on a farm, now owned by Lue Sundberg in Spruce Grove township. They left Minnesota in the early 1940's. Former friends of Leon and James Barrie gathered at the Steak Knife II to dine and visit.

Anderson Family Reunion

Many of the descendants of Jacob and Julia Anderson who homesteaded in Hamre township, Beltrami County, southeast of Grygla in 1902, gathered for a family reunion on Saturday and Sunday, July 3 and 4. On Saturday at noon a picnic was held at the Grande Corner Rest Area (former East School Site). Softball, volleyball and visiting was enjoyed by all in attendance. On Saturday evening a dinner was held at the Steak Knife II in Grygla. A very nice chicken and roast pork dinner, with all the trimmings was served. On Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m. many of the relatives attended church services at Our Savior's Lutheran church, rural Grygla. It was noted that the first services for what later became Our Savior's church, were held in the Jacob and Julia Anderson living room. Pastor Lee Magneson of Jacksonville, FL, gave the sermon at the services on Sunday, which were led by Pastor Gary Forsberg. Lee is the son of Nina (Anderson) Magneson of Port Huron, MI, who is a daughter of Jacob and Julia Anderson. A delicious dinner was served following the services at Our Savior's church in the dining area. Visiting was enjoyed and many of the relatives left for their homes on Sunday afternoon. A highlight of the reunion was a visit to the Jacob and Julia Anderson homestead, on the farm now owned by Clifford Anderson. Bill and Joan Bergquist of Bloomington, Robert and Dorothy Englund of Brainerd, Sue Jones, Kathy Jones and friend all of Lomita, CA, and Pastor Lee Magneson of Jacksonville, FL, were among those who enjoyed visiting the homestead and bringing back many old memories of visits and family gatherings held there. Those unable to attend were Raymond Anderson and his wife June of Urbana, IL, Herbert Anderson and his wife Ethel of Morgantown, NC, and Nina Magneson of Port Huron, MI. Raymond, Nina, Alice Johaneson and Clifford Anderson are the surviving sons and daughters of Jacob and Julia Anderson.

Supper guests at the Alton Sparby home on Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Bucholz of Grace City, ND, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Jarrett and children of Columbus, GA, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ranum and children of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Engelstad, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Engelstad, Monica and Kevin, Nora Engelstad, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Sparby and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Sparby and Kallie and Clifford Sparby.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

On behalf of the Plummer Community Club I'd like to express our appreciation and thanks to all who helped make the 4th of July celebration in Plummer a success. Many individuals, too numerous to mention, helped with their time and talents to help make the weekend a memorable one.

Special thanks goes to the Plummer American Legion, the Plummer Lions and area businesses who helped with their generous contributions and support.

Finally, we would like to thank all of you who took part in the many events that were held, whether as a spectator or as a participant. The parade, tractor pull, church service, demolition derby, flag raising ceremony, kiddie games and fireworks were all very well attended. We hope you had an enjoyable time and we thank you for your support.

Milt Peterson, president

The Times' Editorial Opinion

The Times
Thief River Falls, Minnesota

John P. Mattson, publisher
Marvin Lundin, editor
David Hill, associate editor

Editorial opinion published on this page, whether locally written or re-printed from other sources is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Opinions expressed by the editor are his own and not necessarily those of other staff members. Opinions expressed in items from other publications may be contradictory to the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Paying The Price For Good Representation

Elected state and federal representatives are doing a proper job of representation if they are in tune with the wishes of their constituents and respond to those views through their votes on pending legislation. Unfortunately, that is not what the power structure in political parties also believes is proper. When the view of the electorate conflicts with the view of the party leadership, allegiance to the party is what is expected.

An example is presented by Wy Spano and D. J. Leary in their July publication of "Politics in Minnesota." Here's what they write:

"They're finding a way to extract a price from freshman (U.S.) Congressman Dave Minge (D-MN). Minge angered the House Democratic leadership when he jumped ship and voted the wishes of his conservative district against the Clinton budget plan with the now-deceased BTU tax.

"Here's an example: About two weeks ago a House Appropriations subcommittee made decisions on about $250 million in transportation demonstration projects. Minge, having most of the entire Minnesota River flood plain in his district, was understandably hopeful of getting approval for projects in his southwestern Minnesota district.

"Not a chance. Instead, about 40 per cent of the projects went to the state of Michigan, which just happens to be the home state of the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. Sixty per cent of the monies coming to Minnesota went to projects in the Fifth District. That, of course, is home district of the powerful chairman of the House Budget committee, Minneapolis Congressman Martin Olav Sabo (D-MN). Minge walked away empty-handed with what the House leadership hopes was an object lesson in party discipline.

"Republicans, who hold hopes of unseating Minge in his reelection test next year, are afraid that this kind of political punishment may be just the thing that helps reelect the first-term congressman."

Spano and Leary made no mention of it, but Rep. Collin Peterson of Minnesota's Seventh District was also an open opponent of the BTU tax. One wonders whether the DFL party leadership in Washington has or will have the same punitive frame of mind in dealing with him and his district.

No Shortage Of Summer Activity In TRF

Certainly there is no shortage of activity in the Thief River Falls community for people looking for something to do. Last weekend provided the Western Days celebration and Miss Thief River Falls pageant.

This coming weekend the Cat Fest observing the manufacture of the one millionth Arctic Cat snowmobile will be of interest to many and draw visitors from many states and foreign countries. On a smaller and more individual interest scale, the 50th anniversary of the Silverton 4-H club and 100th anniversary of Trinity Lutheran Church this weekend will also involved many people.

Scarcely will the dust have settled from these events than the Pennington County Fair will open on Wednesday, July 21, and continue through Sunday, July 25. The fair will provide daily activity all five days, including concerts by legendary country singer Tanya Tucker Saturday, July 24.

Another popular public event, the Crazy Days retail promotion, is on the schedule for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 29, 30 and 31.

And just before school classes get underway, for the 1993-94 term, the second annual Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) TRF Stampede will come to the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center Friday through Sunday, September 3, 4 and 5.

Gambling Found To Have No Effect On Minnesota Tourism

According to a recent Minnesota Poll, commissioned by the University of Minnesota Tourism Center, casino gambling doesn't harm Minnesota tourism but doesn't help it either.

"The poll found few clear trends," states Barbara Koth, assistant tourism specialist with the Tourism Center. "It was really only a snapshot of people's gambling behavior." She said the fact that there isn't better data available on people's gambling habits is unfortunate because there is a great deal of controversy about whether people's travel and spending habits have changed as a result of casino gambling.

It is estimated that gamblers wagered $2.5 billion at Minnesota's 16 Indian casinos in 1992 alone.

Koth said poll results may be ambiguous for several reasons. First, it is hard to get honest answers from participants because gambling is a sensitive subject. Second, people haven't been doing it long enough to establish clear habits. Third, the gambling industry is growing and changing so rapidly it is difficult to establish clear trends.

The poll found no significant differences between:

- Gamblers and non-gamblers as to income, sex, marital, work status, education or age; and
- 1991 and 1992 figures on where people sent their leisure dollar. The tourism industry has assumed that if people spend money on casino gambling, they spend less on other forms of entertainment.

The poll also found that:

- As personal income increased, spending on both casino gambling and other forms of entertainment increased;
- 50 per cent of Minnesotans sampled visited a gambling casino somewhere in the last two years and 45 per cent visited a Minnesota casino in the last year;
- There is a slight trend toward staying in Minnesota, rather than traveling to Nevada, New Jersey, South Dakota or Wisconsin for casino gambling; and
- Only 14 per cent stay overnight at a motel when they visit a casino.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Jarrett, Allison and Andrew of Columbus, GA, spent several days visiting friends and relatives in the Grygla and Gatzke areas. Mrs. Jarrett is a niece of Nora Engelstad. The Jarretts were Friday luncheon guests at the Nora Engelstad apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Barrie, Jr. and grandson, Corey of Jacksonville, FL, and Mr. and Mrs. James Barrie of Seattle, WA, spent Tuesday and Wednesday last week as guests at the Harold Nelsen home. They left Grygla via Bemidji, where they visited relatives on Thursday before leaving for their respective homes. They had also attended a family reunion at Turton, SD. The Barrie family grew up on a farm, now owned by Lee Sundberg in Spruce Grove township. They left Minnesota in the early 1940's. Former friends of Leon and James Barrie gathered at the Steak Knife II to dine and visit.

Anderson Family Reunion

Many of the descendants of Jacob and Julia Anderson who homesteaded in Hamre township, Beltrami County, southeast of Grygla in 1902, gathered for a family reunion on Saturday and Sunday, July 3 and 4. On Saturday at noon a picnic was held at the Grande Corner Rest Area (former East School Site). Softball, volleyball and visiting was enjoyed by all in attendance. On Saturday evening a dinner was held at the Steak Knife II in Grygla. A very nice chicken and roast pork dinner, with all the trimmings was served. On Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m. many of the relatives attended church services at Our Savior's Lutheran church, rural Grygla. It was noted that the first services for what later became Our Savior's church, were held in the Jacob and Julia Anderson living room. Pastor Lee Magneson of Jacksonville, FL, gave the sermon at the services on Sunday, which were led by Pastor Gary Forsberg. Lee is the son of Nina (Anderson) Magneson of Port Huron, MI, who is a daughter of Jacob and Julia Anderson. A delicious dinner was served following the services at Our Savior's church in the dining area. Visiting was enjoyed and many of the relatives left for their homes on Sunday afternoon. A highlight of the reunion was a visit to the Jacob and Julia Anderson homestead, on the farm now owned by Clifford Anderson. Bill and Joan Bergquist of Bloomington, Robert and Dorothy Englund of Brainerd, Sue Jones, Kathy Jones and friend all of Lomita, CA, and Pastor Lee Magneson of Jacksonville, FL, were among those who enjoyed visiting the homestead and bringing back many old memories of visits and family gatherings held there. Those unable to attend were Raymond Anderson and his wife June of Urbana, IL, Herbert Anderson and his wife Ethel of Morgantown, NC, and Nina Magneson of Port Huron, MI. Raymond, Nina, Alice Johaneson and Clifford Anderson are the surviving sons and daughters of Jacob and Julia Anderson.

Supper guests at the Alton Sparby home on Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Bucholz of Grace City, ND, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Jarrett and children of Columbus, GA, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ranum and children of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Engelstad, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Engelstad, Monica and Kevin, Nora Engelstad, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Sparby and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Sparby and Kallie and Clifford Sparby.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

On behalf of the Plummer Community Club I'd like to express our appreciation and thanks to all who helped make the 4th of July celebration in Plummer a success. Many individuals, too numerous to mention, helped with their time and talents to help make the weekend a memorable one.

Special thanks goes to the Plummer American Legion, the Plummer Lions and area businesses who helped with their generous contributions and support.

Finally, we would like to thank all of you who took part in the many events that were held, whether as a spectator or as a participant. The parade, tractor pull, church service, demolition derby, flag raising ceremony, kiddie games and fireworks were all very well attended. We hope you had an enjoyable time and we thank you for your support.

Milt Peterson, president

County studies proposals from solid waste co.

Pennington County Commissioners have agreed to continue discussions regarding a proposal by Solid Waste Integrated Systems Corporation (SWIS Corp) to take over operation of Future Fuel in Thief River Falls.

SWIS Corp. is a solid waste disposal corporation out of Eden Prairie formed in 1992 by active officer/investors with skills and experience in solid waste planning, management, engineering, processing, marketing, business management and finance. Members of the corporation include Donald Brauer, president, Mark Bielski, equipment designer, Richard Nordhagen (Future Fuel), facility operations manager, Theodore Pauling, vice president of marketing, Robert Kruse, vice president and secretary, and Steven G. Loe, treasurer.

About a month ago, SWIS Corp. approached Pennington county commissioners with two proposals. The first offer, a 20 year lease, was to equip/manage and operate the Pennington county solid waste processing facility in Thief River Falls. In the first offer Pennington county was to agree to guarantee the delivery of an average of 100 tons per day of mixed municipal solid waste for 265 operating days each year of the agreement term (or 26,500 tons per year), or pay Swis Corp the sum of $55 for each ton not delivered to the plant.

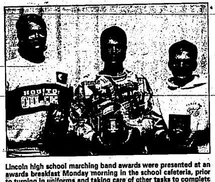
To dedicate new Pioneer Village bldg.

The Pennington County Historical society will hold the dedication ceremony for the new antique farm machinery display building at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum in Thief River Falls Sunday, July 25 at 2 p.m. Bill Dee, chairman of the county historical society, will serve as emcee of the event, which will include comments by Mayor Bob Reeve, County Board Chairman Skip Swanson and Robert Engelstad. The presentation of an honorary life membership in the society will also be made to Ralph Engelstad, whose generous donation of $185,000 made the construction of the building possible.

Several members of the Lake Itasca Region Pioneer Farmers will be present to demonstrate the use of a number of old-time machines, such as a corn-sheller, water pump and burr mill. Several vehicles from the Prairie Schooner Car club will also be on display. Refreshments will be served by participants of the Summer Youth Employment program, who are working at the Village this season. The public is invited to attend.



Lincoln high school marching band awards were presented at an awards breakfast Monday morning in the school cafeteria, prior to turning in uniforms and taking care of other tasks to complete the marching season. Award recipients (left to right) were Chris Langness, Most Improved; Brett Peterson, Most Valuable; and Martin Dahlen, Rookie of the Year.

Cat Fest drew around 7,000 visitors, as estimated by Darcy Harbott, Arctco manager of special promotions. The festival ran Friday through Saturday with vintage Arctic Cat displays, a variety of food booths, factory tours, a beer garden, kiddie rides, the unveiling of the millionth snowcat, parachuters, a stunt plane and numerous other activities.

Cat Fest draws good crowd; millionth snowmobile built

Attendance at two-day event Friday and Saturday estimated at 7,000

A two-day crowd estimated at 7,000 people joined in festivities for the Cat Fest celebration Friday and Saturday in Thief River Falls, marking the manufacture of the one millionth Arctic Cat snowmobile in the Thief River Falls plant.

Most of the scheduled activity was at the Arctco, Inc., plant and parking lot but the impact on motels, restaurants, clubs and bars, camping facilities and the retail community was extensive. There were no motel rooms to be had in Thief River Falls, the city's tourist park was filled with camper units—many flying Arctic Cat banners—and traffic was much heavier than usual throughout the community.

The one millionth Arctic Cat snowmobile was manufactured Friday morning—the first day of the Cat Fest—and displayed during an afternoon program and as an entry in the Saturday morning Cat Fest parade.

Darcy Harbott, manager of special promotions for Arctco and who was in charge of many of the arrangements for Cat Fest, said there were some "glitches" behind the scenes but not much that would have been apparent to the people joining in the celebration.

For instance, when Arctco received its shipment of fireworks for the Saturday night show, it was locked away in a trailer for storage since it could not legally be kept in the plant. When the trailer was opened in preparation for the show, it was discovered that one-fourth to one-third of the fireworks had been damaged in shipment and could not be used. Fireworks watchers were treated to a spectacular show, but it had been planned to be better.

"Arctco will be compensated for the damage," Harbott said, "but what we really wanted was the fireworks."

He said that he was aware of people coming to the event from Florida, California, several places in Alaska, every province of Canada, Sweden, Finland and virtually every state across the U.S. snow belt. Many were dealers who came early to conduct business with the company and take advantage of the salvage sale which the company provided for its dealers.

Three snowmobile enthusiasts from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada drove two Arctic Cat Jag model snowmobiles retrofitted for road travel the 1,137 miles to Thief River Falls to take part in the event. (See the separate article in this issue of The Times.)

Harbott made the estimate of 7,000 people attending based on what he was able to observe during the two days. He said that at one point Saturday evening he conducted an area count by visually sectioning off 100 people and repeating that segment across the crowd. The tally came to about 3,000 people in the area between the beer garden and the American Legion food stand.

More than 2,000 people took advantage of the event to tour the plant—far more than had been anticipated in advance. At one point when the line for tours extended well beyond the length of the sidewalk in front of the plant entrance, 13 tour guides were pressed into service and the tours for 25-member groups were shortened to about 10 minutes.

County Fair officials counting on weather

Five-day 92nd Annual Pennington County Fair runs Wednesday through Sunday, July 21-25

Members of the Pennington County Fair board are keeping their fingers crossed for good weather as the 92nd annual exposition is poised to open Wednesday, July 21, for its five-day run. With an exceptionally cold and wet spring and summer being experienced in the area, a break from the weatherman is needed to permit all plans for the fair to be carried out on schedule.

The Murphy Bros. carnival will be set up and operating Wednesday. Entry day will be Thursday, July 22, with open class entries to be received until 6 p.m. (Flower entries must be received by 4:30 p.m.)

All indications are that the fair will be bigger and better this year with the livestock buildings expected to be filled, a good carnival on the midway, exceptional free entertainment at the main bandshell and additional entertainment at Bandshell II operated by the county 4-H clubs near the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Advance sale ride tickets will be available through Wednesday at all grocery and convenience stores in the county. A $20 ticket which permits unlimited rides throughout all five days of the fair will be available only through Wednesday. It will not be sold at the fair. The $10 ticket available in advance for unlimited rides for any specified afternoon or evening session will be available at the fair but at an increased price of $12.

Tickets have been moving briskly for the Tanya Tucker concerts Saturday evening at 7 and 9 p.m. Arrangements have been made to use the Lincoln high school auditorium if weather should force the planned outdoor show in front of the grandstand to an indoor location. Tickets are still available at Hugo's Supermarket and Kezar Music for $15 each.

Pennington county 4-H department has registered 163 exhibitors with 402 exhibits for the fair this year—an increase in exhibitors from 155 a year ago but down from the 172 registered in 1991. The 402 exhibits registered this year include 182 entries in animal categories including beef, dairy, dog, goat, horse, poultry and rabbits—an increase from 150 animals in 1992 and 122 in 1991.

Open class livestock exhibits—which have been a high point of the county fair over the years in Thief River Falls—look particularly good. LaVerne Hamre said he expects about 135 cattle entries based on commitments received through Tuesday morning, an increase of at least 10 per cent from last year.

The horse barn facilities are filled with the possibility of overflow space needed and approximately 60 head of sheep are expected along with seven or eight hogs.

Poultry and rabbit numbers are expected to be at least as great as last year with goat numbers about

4-H to auction champion livestock

The third annual 4-H Market Livestock Auction will be held Sunday, July 25, the last day of the Pennington County Fair.

The auction begins at 3:30 p.m. between the livestock barns.

Only grand champions, reserve champions and blue ribbon animals will be sold at the auction.

The extension service encourages buyers to invite friends and fellow business people to join and make a single or combined bid on the animals on the auction block.

If someone wants to make a single or combined bid on the animals, that person can leave a bid with Van Swanson, extension educator.

The extension service will also take pictures of the buyer and the 4-H member with the animal purchased. The pictures will be given to the buyer in appreciation for their support of the 4-H program in the community.

Animals purchased will be processed according to the wishes of the buyer at the buyer's expense. The 4-H market livestock committee will provide transportation to Joppru's, Inc. for the processing of beef, sheep and swine.

County studies proposals from solid waste co.

Pennington County Commissioners have agreed to continue discussions regarding a proposal by Solid Waste Integrated Systems Corporation (SWIS Corp) to take over operation of Future Fuel in Thief River Falls.

SWIS Corp. is a solid waste disposal corporation out of Eden Prairie formed in 1992 by active officer/investors with skills and experience in solid waste planning, management, engineering, processing, marketing, business management and finance. Members of the corporation include Donald Brauer, president, Mark Bielski, equipment designer, Richard Nordhagen (Future Fuel), facility operations manager, Theodore Pauling, vice president of marketing, Robert Kruse, vice president and secretary, and Steven G. Loe, treasurer.

About a month ago, SWIS Corp. approached Pennington county commissioners with two proposals. The first offer, a 20 year lease, was to equip/manage and operate the Pennington county solid waste processing facility in Thief River Falls. In the first offer Pennington county was to agree to guarantee the delivery of an average of 100 tons per day of mixed municipal solid waste for 265 operating days each year of the agreement term (or 26,500 tons per year), or pay Swis Corp the sum of $55 for each ton not delivered to the plant.

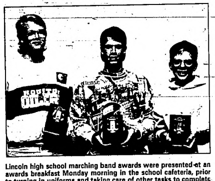
To dedicate new Pioneer Village bldg.

The Pennington County Historical society will hold the dedication ceremony for the new antique farm machinery display building at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum in Thief River Falls Sunday, July 25 at 2 p.m. Bill Dee, chairman of the county historical society, will serve as emcee of the event, which will include comments by Mayor Bob Reeve, County Board Chairman Skip Swanson and Robert Engelstad. The presentation of an honorary life membership in the society will also be made to Ralph Engelstad, whose generous donation of $185,000 made the construction of the building possible.

Several members of the Lake Itasca Region Pioneer Farmers will be present to demonstrate the use of a number of old-time machines, such as a corn-sheller, water pump and burr mill. Several vehicles from the Prairie Schooner Car club will also be on display. Refreshments will be served by participants of the Summer Youth Employment program, who are working at the Village this season. The public is invited to attend.

Cat Fest drew around 7,000 visitors, as estimated by Darcy Harbott, Arctco manager of special promotions. The festival ran Friday through Saturday with vintage Arctic Cat displays, a variety of food booths, factory tours, a beer garden, kiddie rides, the unveiling of the millionth snowcat, parachuters, a stunt plane and numerous other activities.



Lincoln high school marching band awards were presented at an awards breakfast Monday morning in the school cafeteria, prior to turning in uniforms and taking care of other tasks to complete the marching season. Award recipients (left to right) were Chris Langness, Most Improved; Brett Peterson, Most Valuable; and Martin Dahlen, Rookie of the Year.

Attendance at two-day event Friday and Saturday estimated at 7,000

A two-day crowd estimated at 7,000 people joined in festivities for the Cat Fest celebration Friday and Saturday in Thief River Falls, marking the manufacture of the one millionth Arctic Cat snowmobile in the Thief River Falls plant.

Most of the scheduled activity was at the Arctco, Inc., plant and parking lot but the impact on motels, restaurants, clubs and bars, camping facilities and the retail community was extensive. There were no motel rooms to be had in Thief River Falls, the city's tourist park was filled with camper units—many flying Arctic Cat banners—and traffic was much heavier than usual throughout the community.

The one millionth Arctic Cat snowmobile was manufactured Friday morning—the first day of the Cat Fest—and displayed during an afternoon program and as an entry in the Saturday morning Cat Fest parade.

Darcy Harbott, manager of special promotions for Arctco and who was in charge of many of the arrangements for Cat Fest, said there were some "glitches" behind the scenes but not much that would have been apparent to the people joining in the celebration.

For instance, when Arctco received its shipment of fireworks for the Saturday night show, it was locked away in a trailer for storage since it could not legally be kept in the plant. When the trailer was opened in preparation for the show, it was discovered that one-fourth to one-third of the fireworks had been damaged in shipment and could not be used. Fireworks watchers were treated to a spectacular show, but it had been planned to be better.

"Arctco will be compensated for the damage," Harbott said, "but what we really wanted was the fireworks."

He said that he was aware of people coming to the event from Florida, California, several places in Alaska, every province of Canada, Sweden, Finland and virtually every state across the U.S. snow belt. Many were dealers who came early to conduct business with the company and take advantage of the salvage sale which the company provided for its dealers.

Three snowmobile enthusiasts from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada drove two Arctic Cat Jag model snowmobiles retrofitted for road travel the 1,137 miles to Thief River Falls to take part in the event. (See the separate article in this issue of The Times.)

Harbott made the estimate of 7,000 people attending based on what he was able to observe during the two days. He said that at one point Saturday evening he conducted an area count by visually sectioning off 100 people and repeating that segment across the crowd. The tally came to about 3,000 people in the area between the beer garden and the American Legion food stand.

More than 2,000 people took advantage of the event to tour the plant—far more than had been anticipated in advance. At one point when the line for tours extended well beyond the length of the sidewalk in front of the plant entrance, 13 tour guides were pressed into service and the tours for 25-member groups were shortened to about 10 minutes.

Members of the Pennington County Fair board are keeping their fingers crossed for good weather as the 92nd annual exposition is poised to open Wednesday, July 21, for its five-day run. With an exceptionally cold and wet spring and summer being experienced in the area, a break from the weatherman is needed to permit all plans for the fair to be carried out on schedule.

The Murphy Bros. carnival will be set up and operating Wednesday. Entry day will be Thursday, July 22, with open class entries to be received until 6 p.m. (Flower entries must be received by 4:30 p.m.)

All indications are that the fair will be bigger and better this year with the livestock buildings expected to be filled, a good carnival on the midway, exceptional free entertainment at the main bandshell and additional entertainment at Bandshell II operated by the county 4-H clubs near the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Advance sale ride tickets will be available through Wednesday at all grocery and convenience stores in the county. A $20 ticket which permits unlimited rides throughout all five days of the fair will be available only through Wednesday. It will not be sold at the fair. The $10 ticket available in advance for unlimited rides for any specified afternoon or evening session will be available at the fair but at an increased price of $12.

Tickets have been moving briskly for the Tanya Tucker concerts Saturday evening at 7 and 9 p.m. Arrangements have been made to use the Lincoln high school auditorium if weather should force the planned outdoor show in front of the grandstand to an indoor location. Tickets are still available at Hugo's Supermarket and Kezar Music for $15 each.

Some of the chores at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum in Thief River Falls, such as polishing the silver trays and trophies, is done only once during the season. Terra Nomeland, 15, shown here, will be a junior in high school in Thief River Falls this fall and says she plans to spend the money she earns through the Summer Youth Employment program on clothes for school.

"It's kind of cool working out here," says Jenny Johnson, 16, of Goodridge who is employed by the Summer Youth Employment program this year for the first time. She is shown here sanding many layers of dark varnish off of an old school desk at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum in Thief River Falls. Jenny will be a junior in high school in Goodridge this fall.

Summer Youth Employment kids have busy season

With the theme, "All You Can Be in '93" the Summer Youth Employment program in this region is well into its season for this year. Betty Halvorson, youth programs director at Inter-County Community council, who has been involved with the Minnesota Youth program and Summer Youth Employment and Training program for about 10 years, says that this year there are about 11 young people actively participating in the region. This includes 23 to 30 in Pennington county. "This year," Halvorson says, "there is more focus on basic skills that can transfer to good work habits."

The program begins in the spring when applications are collected from both the young people who are interested and non-profit organizations such as schools and museums and recreation programs, which can use part-time summer help. Jenny Carlson, 15, who is employed this summer at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum, says that she found out about the program when a teacher suggested that she apply. She recalls that she then had an interview with Carol Faldet, job training specialist for the communities of Thief River Falls, Goodridge, Grygla, St. Hilaire and Red Lake Falls. Carol explains that she spends a lot of her time meeting with youth and parents, determining eligibility for the program and finding appropriate work sites. She also visits the work sites on a regular basis to make sure that program requirements are being carried out. Faldet adds, "It really feels worthwhile when a young person who may be having problems really does well at a job and probably wouldn't have been able to find a job except for this program."

This was a problem for Steph Robinette, who was in a serious car accident last summer and still has lifting limitations, as well as being scheduled for surgery this summer. "I couldn't find a job that could accommodate my problem, except through the Summer Youth program," Robinette explained.

At the beginning of the summer new participants are invited to attend an orientation session in Crookston for several days. There they hear speakers on a variety of work-related subjects and learn about safety, civic responsibility and ethics, and sexual harassment, among other topics.

After that, the young people are placed in jobs in their communities if possible, and some are asked to attend classes to help build math and reading skills. The classes in Thief River Falls are taught by Jay Forney at Franklin middle school. The classes, according to Amy Barth, one of the students, were similar to regular school except that they dealt with "how to get a job, and be in an interview and write a job application."

The job itself that a participant is assigned to could be in a variety of places, doing a variety of things. At the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum, Curator Donna Myhrer, who is presently employing seven teenagers, explains that one of the girls from last year had worked so hard to learn whatever she could about the program there, that she had requested the young woman, Tawnya Stroot, back this year as a "curator trainee." Tawnya, who is now 18, had worked at two other locations with the Summer Youth Employment program previously.

This year, as the oldest participant at the Village, she helps with paperwork and helps to make sure that everyone knows how to do their assignments. She also gives a cheerful and pleasant greeting to visitors and tourists. Tawnya, who says that she would like to be a probation officer and work with young people when she finishes her education, likes the Summer Youth program, because "it keeps you out of trouble and can be a good source of references for applying for other jobs."

Jenny Johnson of Goodridge adds, "There aren't enough jobs for teenagers in the area. So being part of the Summer Youth program has really been great! I'm earning money to pay for my school clothes for this fall and getting some real work experience." At the time she answered this question, Jenny, who says she would like to be a special education teacher, had just finished being a tour guide for a group of pre-schoolers with special needs from Warren. She really enjoyed helping them try on hats and color pictures in the Children's center. She admits that she might not have sounded quite so enthusiastic if she had just been dusting or weeding.

Among the goals of the program are increasing the number of youth involved in community service; coordinating education and job training services; increasing literacy rates among young people; decreasing the number of young people involved in juvenile crime; decreasing the number of young people receiving public assistance and providing training for young women in non-traditional occupations.

Myhrer adds that there are so many things to do, "you can almost always find something the employee will enjoy about the job." Well, maybe not dusting and weeding.

Steph Robinette, 17, has been spending part of her summer going through the old photos at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum to organize and classify them. She is a participant in the Summer Youth Employment program for the second year and says she is learning quite a bit about how to work with other people.

Participation in the Summer Youth Employment program this season is the first job Amy Barth, 14, has ever had, except for doing some babysitting. She will be a freshman in high school in Thief River Falls this fall and is shown here weeding one of the many flowerbeds at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum. The cast iron fence in the foreground of the picture was scraped and painted by the young people employed through the Summer Youth Employment program at the Village last summer.

Lee Haugen, 17, is saving up his wages from work at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum through the Summer Youth Employment program to buy something he claims he really needs: a motorcycle. He is shown here painting the porch of one of the buildings with a little help from Gene Lull, who is employed at the Village through a similar program, Green Thumb, which provides employment for persons over the age of 55. Lee says he is "gaining experience in building maintenance and doing a little bit of everything."

"This is my third year of being a Summer Youth Employment program employee," says Tawnya Stroot, who was placed this year at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum in Thief River Falls as a curator trainee. Tawnya was employed at the Village last year and learned "where everything is," so this year she got a new title and a lot more responsibility, such as helping to order supplies and answering questions from the public about the museum. Tawnya is shown here in one of her favorite" perches at the entrance of the museum.

Dusting is one of those chores that needs to be done over and over again. Jenny Carlson, 15, is shown here as she cleans the pump organ again at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum in Thief River Falls. She is a participant in the Summer Youth Employment program and plans to use the money she earns to pay for being back in school again: in Drivers' Education class.

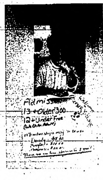
The cast iron fence in the foreground of the picture was scraped and painted by the young people employed through the Summer Youth Employment program at the Village last summer.

Lee Haugen, 17, is saving up his wages from work at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum through the Summer Youth Employment program to buy something he claims he really needs: a motorcycle. He is shown here painting the porch of one of the buildings with a little help from Gene Lull, who is employed at the Village through a similar program, Green Thumb, which provides employment for persons over the age of 55. Lee says he is "gaining experience in building maintenance and doing a little bit of everything."



"This is my third year of being a Summer Youth Employment program employee," says Tawnya Stroot, who was placed this year at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum in Thief River Falls as a curator trainee. Tawnya was employed at the Village last year and learned "where everything is," so this year she got a new title and a lot more responsibility, such as helping to order supplies and answering questions from the public about the museum. Tawnya is shown here in one of her favorite perches at the entrance of the museum.

Dusting is one of those chores that needs to be done over and over again. Jenny Carlson, 15, is shown here as she cleans the pump organ again at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village museum in Thief River Falls. She is a participant in the Summer Youth Employment program and plans to use the money she earns to pay for being back in school again: in Drivers' Education class.

Pennington studies proposals from solid waste corporation

The second proposal was to furnish and install separation/densification equipment and enlarge the tipping area of the solid waste processing facility in Thief River Falls. Basically, the second offer involved the payment of $397,000 a year ($15 for 100 tons of garbage 265 days per year) and $10 for each ton of waste processed over 26,500 tons per year.

No action was taken by the board on the first two proposals. Last Tuesday, after hearing a third proposal the board agreed to negotiate with SWIS Corp.

Points listed in the third proposal, which replaces the first proposal include the following:

- SWIS Corp installs and owns all equipment to process 100 tons per day and removes and scraps old equipment at SWIS Corp expense.
- SWIS Corp remodels tipping floor at SWIS Corp expense.
- SWIS Corp operates plant and pays all operating costs for 20 years.
- Pennington county is responsible for buildings, beyond normal wear and tear.
- Pennington county guarantees 11,000 tons per year to the plant at $55 per ton indexed to fuel, labor, landfill, regulatory, and manufacturing indexes for contract period. (Pennington county currently receives about 9,000 tons of mixed garbage per year.)
- SWIS Corp guarantees to Pennington county a maximum tipping fee of $55 indexed as in the previous statement. SWIS Corp will make available to Pennington county sufficient data to apply for all state grants and to monitor recycling attainment.
- SWIS Corp will have the option to pass on increased landfill costs for residue in rate increase.
- At the end of the contract, SWIS Corp will have the option to purchase buildings and land at appraised value based on three appraisals, if necessary, and using replacement cost less physical depreciation and repair reserves, and obsolescence and less pro rata on SWIS Corp improvements.
- At the end of the contract period, the contract can be automatically renewed at SWIS Corp option under the same terms and conditions, except based on average of last five-years waste flow to the facility.
- If SWIS Corp doesn't exercise their options to purchase or renew the lease, the county will have an option to purchase SWIS Corp equipment under the same terms as listed above.
- If no options are exercised, SWIS Corp may remove all equipment owned by it from the facility.

The county board did not accept the offer but agreed to negotiate with SWIS Corp.

Recently, SWIS Corp approached Roseau county about a proposal to mine their landfill. See the story in this edition of The Times entitled "Partnership proposed for solid waste plan", which was written by Dick Melvin, editor of the Roseau Times-Region.

The second proposal was to furnish and install separation/densification equipment and enlarge the tipping area of the solid waste processing facility in Thief River Falls. Basically, the second offer involved the payment of $397,000 a year ($15 for 100 tons of garbage 265 days per year) and $10 for each ton of waste processed over 26,500 tons per year.

No action was taken by the board on the first two proposals. Last Tuesday, after hearing a third proposal the board agreed to negotiate with SWIS Corp.

Points listed in the third proposal, which replaces the first proposal include the following:

- SWIS Corp installs and owns all equipment to process 100 tons per day and removes and scraps old equipment at SWIS Corp expense.
- SWIS Corp remodels tipping floor at SWIS Corp expense.
- SWIS Corp operates plant and pays all operating costs for 20 years.
- Pennington county is responsible for buildings, beyond normal wear and tear.
- Pennington county guarantees 11,000 tons per year to the plant at $55 per ton indexed to fuel, labor, landfill, regulatory, and manufacturing indexes for contract period. (Pennington county currently receives about 9,000 tons of mixed garbage per year.)
- SWIS Corp guarantees to Pennington county a maximum tipping fee of $55 indexed as in the previous statement. SWIS Corp will make available to Pennington county sufficient data to apply for all state grants and to monitor recycling attainment.
- SWIS Corp will have the option to pass on increased landfill costs for residue in rate increase.
- At the end of the contract, SWIS Corp will have the option to purchase buildings and land at appraised value based on three appraisals, if necessary, and using replacement cost less physical depreciation and repair reserves, and obsolescence and less pro rata on SWIS Corp improvements.
- At the end of the contract period, the contract can be automatically renewed at SWIS Corp option under the same terms and conditions, except based on average of last five-years waste flow to the facility.
- If SWIS Corp doesn't exercise their options to purchase or renew the lease, the county will have an option to purchase SWIS Corp equipment under the same terms as listed above.
- If no options are exercised, SWIS Corp may remove all equipment owned by it from the facility.

The county board did not accept the offer but agreed to negotiate with SWIS Corp.

Recently, SWIS Corp approached Roseau county about a proposal to mine their landfill. See the story in this edition of The Times entitled "Partnership proposed for solid waste plan", which was written by Dick Melvin, editor of the Roseau Times-Region.

Group plans justice resources

A cross-section of more than 150 professionals from throughout the Ninth Judicial District will begin Friday to develop a strategic plan for the best use of criminal justice resources to effectively address criminal activity in the 17 counties of northwestern Minnesota.

Judge Russ Anderson, the chief Judge of the Ninth Judicial District, is calling the first-eve conference, which is scheduled from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Northland Lodge in Crookston. The meeting is the first of four conferences Anderson has called to determine the strengths and weaknesses of the area criminal justice system with the intent of improving its effectiveness. Future conferences are scheduled in Brainerd, Grand Rapids, and Bemidji.

"the public has a valid concern about the increasing level of crime and violence in our communities," said Anderson. "And, yet, the criminal justice system has a static amount of resources with which to respond to these concerns.

"That is why I am calling together an interdisciplinary conference of criminal justice and social service professionals to begin a collaborative process that will result in a comprehensive, strategic plan to achieve the greatest impact possible with our limited resources," Anderson said.

Anderson sent an open letter of invitation to sheriffs, public defenders, city and county attorneys, probation agents, court administrators, county commissioners, social service and mental health professionals and others who have contact with the criminal justice system in the 17-county area.

"Because of the size and diversity of our judicial district, it is crucial that everyone involved in the system learn more about, and gain a deeper appreciation of, the roles and responsibilities of all the individuals and agencies that interact with the criminal justice system," said Anderson.

Anderson expects that at the conclusion of the series of conferences the district's criminal resource management plan will be further developed and refined so that it is flexible and responsive to the changing needs of the district.

Anderson will chair the conferences which will be moderated by Jan Smaby, a Twin Cities public affairs consultant and co-host of public television's weekly Almanac.

You will need lots of newspaper, a couple of kids and plenty of room.

Tear the newspaper into sheets and wad them tightly into balls. Pile these "snowballs" up in separate piles for each child. Then, when everyone is ready, let the "fight" begin! Throw the newspaper snowballs with all your might and have a great time!

PARENTING TIPS

Rock-a-Bye Baby

In some families bedtime is a real problem with young children. The most common sleep concern and complaint of parents is getting their children to fall asleep when and where they should. All too often bedtime turns into a battle in which no one wins and everyone loses. If the parents give in, the child stays up late and may be exhausted and cranky the next day. If parents try to force a child to sleep, the youngster may wail in protest for what seems like hours.

The following ideas may help ease a child's transition from day to night:

☆ Develop a pleasant, soothing sleep ritual. Don't roughhouse or play active games. Choose quiet activities. Once you have a routine stick to it every night.

☆ Distinguish between bedtime and sleeptime. You can set a definite time for children to be in bed, however, you cannot make them go to sleep. Let children play quietly or read books until sleep overtakes them.

Appearing in court Monday, July 19, Jonathan Andrew Holte, 23, Grygla, pled not guilty to charges of first and third degree burglary and second degree assault.

Holte was arrested early on July 17 following a report of an attempted burglary at Miz Ellies in Goodridge. According to the Pennington county sheriff's department, Lonnie Watne called the sheriff's department at 2:40 a.m. on July 17 after someone had entered the building. Watne reported that a man had entered the building without consent. He said he grabbed the individual around the neck. The individual told Watne he had entered the building to make an emergency telephone call. When Watne called the sheriff's department the individual ran from the building. Watne said he followed the individual and grabbed the keys from the individuals vehicle, which was a white van. Watne then ran into the bar but was followed by the individual who now had a knife. Once inside the bar Watne was confronted by the man with the knife. Watne gave the keys back to the individual and the individual left in a white van.

Roseau County Sheriff's department later notified Pennington County that it had caught the individual, and identified him as Jonathan Holte. A line-up was arranged in Roseau county and Watne was able to identify Holte in the line-up.

Group plans justice resources

A cross-section of more than 150 professionals from throughout the Ninth Judicial District will begin Friday to develop a strategic plan for the best use of criminal justice resources to effectively address criminal activity in the 17 counties of northwestern Minnesota.

Judge Russ Anderson, the chief Judge of the Ninth Judicial District, is calling the first-eve conference, which is scheduled from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Northland Lodge in Crookston. The meeting is the first of four conferences Anderson has called to determine the strengths and weaknesses of the area criminal justice system with the intent of improving its effectiveness. Future conferences are scheduled in Brainerd, Grand Rapids, and Bemidji.

"the public has a valid concern about the increasing level of crime and violence in our communities," said Anderson. "And, yet, the criminal justice system has a static amount of resources with which to respond to these concerns.

"That is why I am calling together an interdisciplinary conference of criminal justice and social service professionals to begin a collaborative process that will result in a comprehensive, strategic plan to achieve the greatest impact possible with our limited resources," Anderson said.

Anderson sent an open letter of invitation to sheriffs, public defenders, city and county attorneys, probation agents, court administrators, county commissioners, social service and mental health professionals and others who have contact with the criminal justice system in the 17-county area.

"Because of the size and diversity of our judicial district, it is crucial that everyone involved in the system learn more about, and gain a deeper appreciation of, the roles and responsibilities of all the individuals and agencies that interact with the criminal justice system," said Anderson.

Anderson expects that at the conclusion of the series of conferences the district's criminal resource management plan will be further developed and refined so that it is flexible and responsive to the changing needs of the district.

Anderson will chair the conferences which will be moderated by Jan Smaby, a Twin Cities public affairs consultant and co-host of public television's weekly Almanac.

PARENTING TIPS

Rock-a-Bye Baby

In some families bedtime is a real problem with young children. The most common sleep concern and complaint of parents is getting their children to fall asleep when and where they should. All too often bedtime turns into a battle in which no one wins and everyone loses. If the parents give in, the child stays up late and may be exhausted and cranky the next day. If parents try to force a child to sleep, the youngster may wail in protest for what seems like hours.

The following ideas may help ease a child's transition from day to night:

☆ Develop a pleasant, soothing sleep ritual. Don't roughhouse or play active games. Choose quiet activities. Once you have a routine stick to it every night.

☆ Distinguish between bedtime and sleeptime. You can set a definite time for children to be in bed, however, you cannot make them go to sleep. Let children play quietly or read books until sleep overtakes them.

☆ Remember darkness can be scary. Leave a night light on. Play some soft music. Keep the door open so children don't feel isolated.

Group plans justice resources

A cross-section of more than 150 professionals from throughout the Ninth Judicial District will begin Friday to develop a strategic plan for the best use of criminal justice resources to effectively address criminal activity in the 17 counties of northwestern Minnesota.

Judge Russ Anderson, the chief judge of the Ninth Judicial District, is calling the first-eve conference, which is scheduled from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Northland Lodge in Crookston. The meeting is the first of four conferences Anderson has called to determine the strengths and weaknesses of the area criminal justice system with the intent of improving its effectiveness. Future conferences are scheduled in Brainerd, Grand Rapids, and Bemidji.

"the public has a valid concern about the increasing level of crime and violence in our communities," said Anderson. "And, yet, the criminal justice system has a static amount of resources with which to respond to these concerns.

"That is why I am calling together an interdisciplinary conference of criminal justice and social service professionals to begin a collaborative process that will result in a comprehensive, strategic plan to achieve the greatest impact possible with our limited resources," Anderson said.

Anderson sent an open letter of invitation to sheriffs, public defenders, city and county attorneys, probation agents, court administrators, county commissioners, social service and mental health professionals and others who have contact with the criminal justice system in the 17-county area.

"Because of the size and diversity of our judicial district, it is crucial that everyone involved in the system learn more about, and gain a deeper appreciation of, the roles and responsibilities of all the individuals and agencies that interact with the criminal justice system," said Anderson.

Anderson expects that at the conclusion of the series of conferences the district's criminal resource management plan will be further developed and refined so that it is flexible and responsive to the changing needs of the district.

Anderson will chair the conferences which will be moderated by Jan Smaby, a Twin Cities public affairs consultant and co-host of public television's weekly Almanac.

Summer Snow Ball Fight

Are you a little lonely for snow and a good snowball fight? Well, here is a lively activity that should take care of your problem.

You will need lots of newspaper, a couple of kids and plenty of room.

Tear the newspaper into sheets and wad them tightly into balls. Pile these "snowballs" up in separate piles for each child. Then, when everyone is ready, let the "fight" begin! Throw the newspaper snowballs with all your might and have a great time!

PARENTING TIPS

Rock-a-Bye Baby

In some families bedtime is a real problem with young children. The most common sleep concern and complaint of parents is getting their children to fall asleep when and where they should. All too often bedtime turns into a battle in which no one wins and everyone loses. If the parents give in, the child stays up late and may be exhausted and cranky the next day. If parents try to force a child to sleep, the youngster may wail in protest for what seems like hours.

The following ideas may help ease a child's transition from day to night:

☆ Develop a pleasant, soothing sleep ritual. Don't roughhouse or play active games. Choose quiet activities. Once you have a routine stick to it every night.

☆ Distinguish between bedtime and sleeptime. You can set a definite time for children to be in bed, however, you cannot make them go to sleep. Let children play quietly or read books until sleep overtakes them.

☆ Remember darkness can be scary. Leave a night light on. Play some soft music. Keep the door open so children don't feel isolated.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk with your child about his/her bedtime routine so that he/she will know what to expect next. For example, "as soon as you are done putting your toys in the closet, you will take a bath, put on your pajamas, read a story and go to bed."

Sheriff warns public about black-topping group in area

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe is alerting residents to a black-topping company that has been making its way through northwestern Minnesota. Moe said the group was recently in Kittson county.

The group has been offering to do some black topping or tar work for individuals. They complete the work and then charge exorbitant prices for their work. Most of the individuals who have been targeted, he said, appear to be elderly. The group of individuals offering the black topping are from out of the area. The 1-800 number they have been using as a reference has been disconnected.

Sheriff Moe suggests that if you need some work done to check with local people first, get quotes, and check references.

Grygla man is charged with burglary, assault

Appearing in court Monday, July 19, Jonathan Andrew Holte, 23, Grygla, pled not guilty to charges of first and third degree burglary and second degree assault.

Holte was arrested early on July 17 following a report of an attempted burglary at Miz Ellies in Goodridge. According to the Pennington county sheriff's department, Lonnie Watne called the sheriff's department at 2:40 a.m. on July 17 after someone had entered the building. Watne reported that a man had entered the building without consent. He said he grabbed the individual around the neck. The individual told Watne he had entered the building to make an emergency telephone call. When Watne called the sheriff's department the individual ran from the building. Watne said he followed the individual and grabbed the keys from the individual's vehicle, which was a white van. Watne then ran into the bar but was followed by the individual who now had a knife. Once inside the bar Watne was confronted by the man with the knife. Watne gave the keys back to the individual and the individual left in a white van.

Roseau County Sheriff's department later notified Pennington County that it had caught the individual, and identified him as Jonathan Holte. A line-up was arranged in Roseau county and Watne was able to identify Holte in the line-up.

As it turns out, Holte is a suspect in four burglaries in Wannaska and one in Warroad. He is also being considered a suspect in a furniture store burglary in Thief River Falls. Holte was also on leave from Moose Lake Corrections.

On Monday in Pennington County, Holte pled not guilty in Ninth District court to first and third degree burglary and second degree assault. All of the charges stem from the incident at Miz Ellies in Goodridge. Bond was set at $40,000. The judge ordered, however, that if Holte was able to make bond he would be returned to Moose Lake Corrections facility.

. . . The Grey Goo Dilemma

I have a little problem. Somehow I became the owner of a bowl of grey goo called a "starter." (It was given to me by a relative who used to be my friend.) This "starter" is used to make a quick bread called "Amish Cinnamon Bread." Have you heard about it?

There are very specific instructions that go with the grey goo. In fact, the directions that were given to me when I received it are a list from Day One to Day Ten. Each day tells me whether I should stir the goo that specific day, leave the goo alone that specific day or add ingredients to the goo that specific day.

By the time Day Ten is reached, the goo is supposed to be ready to be divided into three new little bowls, one to keep for myself and two to give to "friends," (who, I think, might not be friends after spending a few weeks tending the goo). The remainder of the goo is to be mixed with other ingredients and baked into "Amish cinnamon Bread."

I have done this several times. Yes, the bread is delicious. (However, in studying the recipe I cannot help but wonder if the bread might no be just as delicious if the goo were not in the bread at all, but that is beside the point.)

Nonetheless, I now have three little bowls of grey goo sitting on my cupboard, along with two loaves of Amish Cinnamon Bread.

My problem is that I am tired of baking Amish Cinnamon Bread. I am tired of watching the calendar and making sure I follow my "starter" directions for each day.

I hate to see things go to waste, so I am gaining weight from eating all of that Amish Cinnamon Bread. Yes, I have frozen it, but, let me tell you, my freezer only holds so many loaves. (Read on and you will see why my freezer has such a limited capacity.)

All of my relatives, friends, neighbors, and even casual acquaintances I met on the street, have grey goo now. Some of these people are not speaking to me anymore. Perhaps they are too busy with the grey goo.

What can I do with my grey goo?

I once was the owner of a grey goo starter that had a name. It was called "Herman." Do you remember Herman? The best thing about Herman was that he could be baked into many different types of recipes, such as cakes, muffins, breads and other inventive things.

My family enjoyed eating Herman things for several weeks, but then Herman things began to sit around and not get eaten. Friends said that the Herman starter goo could be frozen, so, in order to get a little relief from tending and baking Herman, I froze him.

Sadly, like so many things, Herman disappeared into the depths of the freezer and was not discovered for a long time. One day, several years later, I cleaned the freezer. (Well, how often do you clean your freezer?)

I wondered why I had frozen those little baggies of grey goo. Then I realized that they were Herman, but presumed (read: "hoped") they were too old to be used. Too bad, I threw Herman away.

I am seriously considering freezing this grey goo too, because things are getting out of hand. Lately, I have been having nightmares of being slowly enveloped by masses of grey goo and I just know it has something to do with that Amish Cinnamon Bread starter. This is getting serious.

TRF council approves landfill cleanup fee

Thief River Falls city council met Tuesday afternoon, July 13, to address a number of issues including a landfill cleanup fee, annexation of property, new lights at the baseball field, and the need to advertise for three volunteer firefighters.

State legislature has mandated the assessment of a $2 annual fee from garbage collectors for each residential customer and 12 cents per yard for non-residential customers. The fee, which isn't being called a tax — by the legislature anyway — will be used to finance landfill cleanup projects. The League of Minnesota Cities expects the fee to generate approximately $14 million per year.

The fee went into affect on July 1, 1993, but the fee won't appear on bills to residents of Thief River Falls until September. This isn't the only annual "fee" appearing on Thief River Falls' utility bills. Residents of Thief River Falls will see a $5.21 fee on their August bills for the annual safe drinking water assessment "fee".

■ More property has been added to the tax rolls in Thief River Falls.

The city council approved ratification of a petition by Eugene Prestegaard to annex 3.79 acres in Government lot 1, section 2, township 153 N. R. 43W; and a proposal to annex Pioneer Court and Strata Corporation areas. The council then adopted motions officially annexing the areas.

■ The city council approved the purchase of new lights for the baseball field.

The city council approved the $12,530 quote of Burmeister Electric for 70 lights to be installed at the Irv Wilson baseball field. Currently, there are 120 lights at the ball field. According to Curt Howe and Madelyn Vigen, co-directors of the park and recreation department, the new 70 lights to be installed will put more light on the field than the 120 they will replace. In addition, the new lights will cost less to operate. Money for the purchase and installation, $20,020.13, will be taken from a revolving loan fund.

■ The city will advertise for three volunteer firemen.

Following a recommendation from Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman, the city council approved a motion to advertise for three volunteer firemen. The volunteers will replace two individuals who intend to retire from the fire department, and one who has quit.

■ Names of four individuals who completed the city community survey, were announced as the winners of $50 gift certificates.

. . , The Grey Goo Dilemma

I have a little problem. Somehow I became the owner of a bowl of grey goo called a "starter." (It was given to me by a relative who used to be my friend.) This "starter" is used to make a quick bread called "Amish Cinnamon Bread." Have you heard about it?

There are very specific instructions that go with the grey goo. In fact, the directions that were given to me when I received it are a list from Day One to Day Ten. Each day tells me whether I should stir the goo that specific day, leave the goo alone that specific day or add ingredients to the goo that specific day.

By the time Day Ten is reached, the goo is supposed to be ready to be divided into three new little bowls, one to keep for myself and two to give to "friends," (who, I think, might not be friends after spending a few weeks tending the goo). The remainder of the goo is to be mixed with other ingredients and baked into "Amish cinnamon Bread."

I have done this several times. Yes, the bread is delicious. (However, in studying the recipe I cannot help but wonder if the bread might no be just as delicious if the goo were not in the bread at all, but that is beside the point.)

Nonetheless, I now have three little bowls of grey goo sitting on my cupboard, along with two loaves of Amish Cinnamon Bread.

My problem is that I am tired of baking Amish Cinnamon Bread. I am tired of watching the calendar and making sure I follow my "starter" directions for each day.

I hate to see things go to waste, so I am gaining weight from eating all of that Amish Cinnamon Bread. Yes, I have frozen it, but, let me tell you, my freezer only holds so many loaves. (Read on and you will see why my freezer has such a limited capacity.)

All of my relatives, friends, neighbors, and even casual acquaintances I met on the street, have grey goo now. Some of these people are not speaking to me anymore. Perhaps they are too busy with the grey goo.

What can I do with my grey goo?

I once was the owner of a grey goo starter that had a name. It was called "Herman." Do you remember Herman? The best thing about Herman was that he could be baked into many different types of recipes, such as cakes, muffins, breads and other inventive things.

My family enjoyed eating Herman things for several weeks, but then Herman things began to sit around and not get eaten. Friends said that the Herman starter goo could be frozen, so, in order to get a little relief from tending and baking Herman, I froze him.

Sadly, like so many things, Herman disappeared into the depths of the freezer and was not discovered for a long time. One day, several years later, I cleaned the freezer. (Well, how often do you clean your freezer?)

I wondered why I had frozen those little baggies of grey goo. Then I realized that they were Herman, but presumed (read: "hoped") they were too old to be used. Too bad, I threw Herman away.

I am seriously considering freezing this grey goo too, because things are getting out of hand. Lately, I have been having nightmares of being slowly enveloped by masses of grey goo and I just know it has something to do with that Amish Cinnamon Bread starter. This is getting serious.

TRF council approves landfill cleanup fee

Thief River Falls city council met Tuesday afternoon, July 13, to address a number of issues including a landfill cleanup fee, annexation of property, new lights at the baseball field, and the need to advertise for three volunteer firefighters.

State legislature has mandated the assessment of a $2 annual fee from garbage collectors for each residential customer and 12 cents per yard for non-residential customers. The fee, which isn't being called a tax — by the legislature anyway — will be used to finance landfill cleanup projects. The League of Minnesota Cities expects the fee to generate approximately $14 million per year.

The fee went into affect on July 1, 1993, but the fee won't appear on bills to residents of Thief River Falls until September. This isn't the only annual "fee" appearing on Thief River Falls' utility bills. Residents of Thief River Falls will see a $5.21 fee on their August bills for the annual safe drinking water assessment "fee".

■ More property has been added to the tax rolls in Thief River Falls.

The city council approved ratification of a petition by Eugene Prestegaard to annex 3.79 acres in Government lot 1, section 2, township 153 N. R. 43W; and a proposal to annex Pioneer Court and Strata Corporation areas. The council then adopted motions officially annexing the areas.

■ The city council approved the purchase of new lights for the baseball field.

The city council approved the $12,530 quote of Burmeister Electric for 70 lights to be installed at the Irv Wilson baseball field. Currently, there are 120 lights at the ball field. According to Curt Howe and Madelyn Vigen, co-directors of the park and recreation department, the new 70 lights to be installed will put more light on the field than the 120 they will replace. In addition, the new lights will cost less to operate. Money for the purchase and installation, $20,020.13, will be taken from a revolving loan fund.

■ The city will advertise for three volunteer firemen.

Following a recommendation from Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman, the city council approved a motion to advertise for three volunteer firemen. The volunteers will replace two individuals who intend to retire from the fire department, and one who has quit.

■ Names of four individuals who completed the city community survey, were announced as the winners of $50 gift certificates.

Mayor Robert Reeve explained that 3,200 surveys had been sent out to property owners in the community. A total of 770 or 24 per cent had been returned. He said staff at Northwest Regional Development Commission has almost completed tabulation of the returns. In an effort to encourage property owners to complete the survey, the city decided to give away four $50 gift certificates. Two of the certificates were from Hugo's and two from Jubilee Foods. The four names chosen from the survey returns were: Janet Dominick, Harold Aker, Andrea Zipprich, and Stacey L. Davidson.

In other business, the council: approved a recommendation to purchase a 1000 KVA transformer from RESCO for $14,610, and two 500 KVA transformers from RESCO for $7,193 each; approved a progression raise for Terry Bayne, liquor store employee; hired Ryan Walseth to work at the liquor store; approved a recommendation for the Park and Recreation department to publish, in working with S.D. 564 Community Education, a fall program brochure; approved the use of the civic center showers during Arctco for the Cat Fest; moved a handicapped stall located on the south side of Second street east of the alley next to the city auditorium eight feet west; denied a request by the VFW for a handicapped parking stall on Second street; approved a progression raise for part-time Police Officer Michael Puetz; approved a recommendation to allow the Sno-Drifters to terminate sales of beer at midnight during Cat Fest; accepted the retirement of Lynn Josephson as airport manager; approved a dance permit request by the Pennington County Fair board for July 23; approved a request for a beer garden at the fair by the Best Western on July 22, 23, and 24; approved a temporary 3.2 beer license for the Fairboard for July 25; and approved a resolution to have the city attorney investigate legal issues regarding a request to re-designate or return donations made to a specific fund.

. . . The Grey Goo Dilemma

I have a little problem. Somehow I became the owner of a bowl of grey goo called a "starter." (It was given to me by a relative who used to be my friend.) This "starter" is used to make a quick bread called "Amish Cinnamon Bread." Have you heard about it?

There are very specific instructions that go with the grey goo. In fact, the directions that were given to me when I received it are a list from Day One to Day Ten. Each day tells me whether I should stir the goo that specific day, leave the goo alone that specific day or add ingredients to the goo that specific day.

By the time Day Ten is reached, the goo is supposed to be ready to be divided into three new little bowls, one to keep for myself and two to give to "friends," (who, I think, might not be friends after spending a few weeks tending the goo). The remainder of the goo is to be mixed with other ingredients and baked into "Amish cinnamon Bread."

I have done this several times. Yes, the bread is delicious. (However, in studying the recipe I cannot help but wonder if the bread might no be just as delicious if the goo were not in the bread at all, but that is beside the point.)

Nonetheless, I now have three little bowls of grey goo sitting on my cupboard, along with two loaves of Amish Cinnamon Bread.

My problem is that I am tired of baking Amish Cinnamon Bread. I am tired of watching the calendar and making sure I follow my "starter" directions for each day.

I hate to see things go to waste, so I am gaining weight from eating all of that Amish Cinnamon Bread. Yes, I have frozen it, but, let me tell you, my freezer only holds so many loaves. (Read on and you will see why my freezer has such a limited capacity.)

All of my relatives, friends, neighbors, and even casual acquaintances I met on the street, have grey goo now. Some of these people are not speaking to me anymore. Perhaps they are too busy with the grey goo.

What can I do with my grey goo?

I once was the owner of a grey goo starter that had a name. It was called "Herman." Do you remember Herman? The best thing about Herman was that he could be baked into many different types of recipes, such as cakes, muffins, breads and other inventive things.

My family enjoyed eating Herman things for several weeks, but then Herman things began to sit around and not get eaten. Friends said that the Herman starter goo could be frozen, so, in order to get a little relief from tending and baking Herman, I froze him.

Sadly, like so many things, Herman disappeared into the depths of the freezer and was not discovered for a long time. One day, several years later, I cleaned the freezer. (Well, how often do you clean your freezer?)

I wondered why I had frozen those little baggies of grey goo. Then I realized that they were Herman, but presumed (read: "hoped") they were too old to be used. Too bad. I threw Herman away.

I am seriously considering freezing this grey goo too, because things are getting out of hand. Lately, I have been having nightmares, of being slowly enveloped by masses of grey goo and I just know it has something to do with that Amish Cinnamon Bread starter. This is getting serious.

TRF council approves landfill cleanup fee

Thief River Falls city council met Tuesday afternoon, July 13, to address a number of issues including a landfill cleanup fee, annexation of property, new lights at the baseball field, and the need to advertise for three volunteer firefighters.

State legislature has mandated the assessment of a $2 annual fee from garbage collectors for each residential customer and 12 cents per yard for non-residential customers. The fee, which isn't being called a tax — by the legislature anyway — will be used to finance landfill cleanup projects. The League of Minnesota Cities expects the fee to generate approximately $14 million per year.

The fee went into affect on July 1, 1993, but the fee won't appear on bills to residents of Thief River Falls until September. This isn't the only annual "fee" appearing on Thief River Falls' utility bills. Residents of Thief River Falls will see a $5.21 fee on their August bills for the annual safe drinking water assessment "fee".

■ More property has been added to the tax rolls in Thief River Falls.

The city council approved ratification of a petition by Eugene Prestegaard to annex 3.79 acres in Government lot 1, section 2, township 153 N. R. 43W; and a proposal to annex Pioneer Court and Strata Corporation areas. The council then adopted motions officially annexing the areas.

■ The city council approved the purchase of new lights for the baseball field.

The city council approved the $12,530 quote of Burmeister Electric for 70 lights to be installed at the Irv Wilson baseball field. Currently, there are 120 lights at the ball field. According to Curt Howe and Madelyn Vigen, co-directors of the park and recreation department, the new 70 lights to be installed will put more light on the field than the 120 they will replace. In addition, the new lights will cost less to operate. Money for the purchase and installation, $20,020.13, will be taken from a revolving loan fund.

■ The city will advertise for three volunteer firemen.

Following a recommendation from Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman, the city council approved a motion to advertise for three volunteer firemen. The volunteers will replace two individuals who intend to retire from the fire department, and one who has quit.

■ Names of four individuals who completed the city community survey, were announced as the winners of $50 gift certificates.

Mayor Robert Reeve explained that 3,200 surveys had been sent out to property owners in the community. A total of 770 or 24 per cent had been returned. He said staff at Northwest Regional Development Commission has almost completed tabulation of the returns. In an effort to encourage property owners to complete the survey, the city decided to give away four $50 gift certificates. Two of the certificates were from Hugo's and two from Jubilee Foods. The four names chosen from the survey returns were: Janet Dominick, Harold Aker, Andrea Zipprich, and Stacey L. Davidson.

In other business, the council: approved a recommendation to purchase a 1000 KVA transformer from RESCO for $14,610, and two 500 KVA transformers from RESCO for $7,193 each; approved a progression raise for Terry Bayne, liquor store employee; hired Ryan Walseth to work at the liquor store; approved a recommendation for the Park and Recreation department to publish, in working with S.D. 564 Community Education, a fall program brochure; approved the use of the civic center showers during Arctco for the Cat Fest; moved a handicapped stall located on the south side of Second street east of the alley next to the city auditorium eight feet west; denied a request by the VFW for a handicapped parking stall on Second street; approved a progression raise for part-time Police Officer Michael Puetz; approved a recommendation to allow the Sno-Drifters to terminate sales of beer at midnight during Cat Fest; accepted the retirement of Lynn Josephson as airport manager; approved a dance permit request by the Pennington County Fair board for July 23; approved a request for a beer garden at the fair by the Best Western on July 22, 23, and 24; approved a temporary 3.2 beer license for the Fairboard for July 25; and approved a resolution to have the city attorney investigate legal issues regarding a request to re-designate or return donations made to a specific fund.

Four plead guilty to drug charge

Four people indicted by a United States Grand Jury on charges of distributing and possessing methamphetamine, have pled guilty to various charges involving distribution and possession of methamphetamine.

On Friday, July 16, Bernadette Marie Prather of California pled guilty in a U.S. district court in Minneapolis to count five of a U.S. Grand Jury indictment. That package contained an amount of an illegal drug called methamphetamine.

On Monday, July 19, Keith and Kenneth Matthew pled guilty to the same charge as Prather. The fourth party named in the indictment, Victor Emil Reynolds, pled guilty to count III of the indictment.

The Matthew brothers and Reynolds appeared before U.S. District Court Judge Dianna Murphy in Minneapolis. They are all free on $10,000 bond. Sentencing will take place in six to eight weeks.

Don Galloway, Ed MacDonald and Brad Justik of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada started their 1,137-mile trek to Thief River Falls on Wednesday to attend Arctco's '93 Cat Fest.

The 1,137-mile trip from Edmonton to Thief River Falls to attend a two-day event in itself is worth noting, but these gentlemen made the trip riding two 1993 Arctic Cat Jags.

Before leaving Edmonton these snowmobiles had over 6,000 miles on the odometer-all previous miles being on snow. The only alterations really needed to make the snowmobiles ready for the 1,137-mile road venture were to remove the side covers for better air flow; add wheels to their skis (for which they called Arctco for advice); and to replace the slides with bogie wheels.

The three took turns riding the sleds while the third person drove a support vehicle. The trip took three days. The first day the riders made it from Edmonton, Alberta to Melville, Saskatchewan, with good weather. The second day the riders encountered torrential rain but were still able to ride about 600 miles to Karlstad.

During this day the two snowmobiles had to pass through the U.S./Canadian border. The three riders said the Border Patrol asked the normal question, "are you bringing any fruits or vegetables?", and let them pass. The third day was the shortest part of the trip to arrive at Cat Fest.

The support vehicle was brought in case the Royal Canadian Mounted Police or United States Highway Patrol requested that they not ride the snowmobiles down the road or in case of a breakdown. The support truck was also used when a rider would get ahead of the other snowmobile and the support truck and get lost. This happened a couple of times during their trek and they would stop and ask people if they had seen a snowmobile recently pass by. This would get a response like, "Well, they won't get far without any snow".

Different attire was worn for the trip. The riders wore rain suits, full-faced helmets and Tigershark gloves "good Arctic wear", MacDonald said. The three said they averaged between 60 and 70 mph with the snowmobiles getting about 15 miles per gallon.

Besides the few changes to the snowmobiles there was nothing special about the sleds. "They are right out of the box sleds," Galloway said." The snowmobiles are faster on the road because of less friction," MacDonald said. Even though the Jag is not one of the bigger snowmobiles Arctco makes, it still had no problem passing semi-tractor trailers.

This is the second trip of this kind for Galloway and MacDonald. The first was in 1990 for Polaris' 35th anniversary in which they rode all terrain vehicles from Edmonton to Roseau. When it comes to this kind of snowmobile riding these three guys from Canada do not encourage it on a regular basis, but for a special occasion like Cat Fest they felt it would be worth it. It also proves how durable Arctic Cats really are.

These guys are not your average snowmobile enthusiasts. Don and Ed own Cycle Works in Edmonton, where they sell snowmobiles, personal watercraft and ATVs.

Cycle Works opened in 1980 and received its Arctco dealership in 1985. It hase received the high honor of being Top Cat in Western Canada. Top Cat honors go to the dealer which sells the most Arctic Cat snowmobiles in its sales district. In Canada only two Top Cat honors are awarded-one in Eastern and one in Western.

With 35 employees Cycle Works is a good-sized company and is always looking to expand, maybe with a Tigershark dealership, but the owners are hesitant because Alberta is not like Minnesota and its 10,000 lakes, Galloway said. With its lack of recreational waters there is not a great demand for personal watercraft. Besides sales of recreational vehicles, Cycle Works has a full machine shop, wholesale division for parts and even designs and builds custom snowmobiles.

Another branch to Don and Ed's snowmobiling interest is their Rocky Mountain Snowmobile Tours. In Canada the Rocky Mountain Snowmobile tours are available in Alberta and British Columbia and in the United States they are available in Montana and Idaho with tours going to Yellowstone National Park.

Don and Ed sell these tours to other snowmobile dealers and the dealers line people up for the trips. The people are taken by bus to the location of the tour they choose and Don and Ed haul the snowmobiles there. They have two main trailers to haul snowmobiles. The smaller of the two trailers carries 42 snowmobiles and the other carries up to 52 sleds.

With all of this experience and knowledge you would think these snowmobile fanatics would race snowmobiles. Well, they do! Brad and Don both race snowmobiles crosscountry and hill climbs. They also race watercraft and pretty much anything with a motor.

Both Brad and Ed agreed that the look they got from people and the expression on people's faces was the best part of riding snowmobiles to Cat Fest.

While at Arctco's Cat Fest activities these three Canadian snowmobile enthusiast participated by driving the two Arctic Cat Jags and the support truck in the parade.

Committee reviews proposed downtown revitalization grant

Property owners interested in participating in a Small Cities Development Program (SCDP) grant are encouraged to return a letter of intent to participate by August 2.

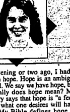
The city of Thief River Falls is in the process of preparing an application to the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development to obtain funding through their Small Cities Development Program. If the grant application is funded, funds received by the city would be targeted to revitalization of the Central Business District and adjacent residential areas to include commercial rehabilitation, as well as, rehabilitation of residential rental units.

An ad hoc advisory group met Friday noon to discuss the grant application. Originally, the group considered a split of available assistance on a formula of one-third private equity or bank loans, one-third SCDP low interest loans; and one-third from SCDP grants. The group, however, agreed to a recommendation to change the formula to 25 per cent from private equity or bank loans; 25 per cent from SCDP low interest loans; and 50 per cent from SCDP grants. The group hopes the change will make the program more attractive to potential participants.

Improvements eligible for commercial rehabilitation funding will include the following: exterior improvements, roofs, facade restoration, and store fronts; accessibility improvements for the handicapped; energy and weather-related improvements; and, fire and safety code-related improvements.

Improvements eligible for residential rental rehabilitation will include the following: windows, doors, insulation, electrical, plumbing, furnaces and roofing. Improvements must be related to health and safety or weatherization.

Owners of buildings with both commercial and residential rental units in them should be aware that, in order to be eligible to participate in the program, improvements must be made to the residential rental units as well as to the commercial portion of the building. Further, they must agree to rent to low and moderate income persons for a period of five years at affordable rental rates. Don Stewart, community development director, doesn't believe this should be a problem, since the surveys recently collected, indicate that 80 to 90 per cent of the persons living in the rental units would meet the qualifications.



IMPRESSIONS

An evening or two ago, I had a lesson in hope. Hope is an ambiguous word. We say we have hope, but what really does hope mean? My dictionary says that hope is "a feeling that what one desires will happen..." My Bible defines hope as well—"Now hope that is seen is not hope. For who hopes for what he sees? But if we hope for what we do not see, we wait for it with patience."

So, back to my lesson about hope that I had the other evening. Most evenings, my husband and I take a walk. I look forward to this time. We not only get good exercise, but we get a chance to talk with each other. If we don't feel like talking, walking together is enough. Well, as we are all aware, there does not seem to be a day that goes by without rain. Most of the time, this rain has not affected our walking. We wait for the rain to end for a while and then off we go. If, at the beginning of our walk, the weather looks threatening, we'll tell our boys which way we are walking in hopes that they will come after their parents with a car.

I learned about hope and walking between the raindrops that evening when I had a lesson in hope. When we first started out on our walk that evening, it started to rain even before we left our front steps. So, back inside we went to wait for a better time to walk. About a half hour or so later, we experienced our first exercise in hope as we decided that a few raindrops couldn't hurt, and so, in a semi-small-drizzle, we set out on our walk. We did make sure to tell our boys our route, just in case this small drizzle would get worse.

Well, I guess we are a bit daft, for we decided that as the drizzle turned into a bit bigger drizzle that this couldn't last for long, and we might as well keep on walking. Now came my second lesson in hope on that walk, for I so positively pointed out to my beloved that of course the rain was going to stop—didn't he see the bright sky off in the distance? So, we continued on our walk, finally deciding to choose a street with a bit more leaf cover as the drizzle simply continued. Sure, the sky was even getting brighter, but the drizzle continued. As cars passed us, people probably considered us a bit crazy, but isn't everyone in love a bit crazy??

Soon I was heard commenting that maybe we better not push our luck too far, and perhaps we should turn toward home. That was a sensible thing to do, we discovered, as at about three blocks from home the drizzle turned to rain. Now the rain was cool, but not cold. There was no thunder and lightning, just a bit of rain. I noticed, but not point out to my beloved, that as it was raining we were under a bright sky. Now, I experienced a third lesson in hope, for if you remember, bright sunny skies and rain usually produce rainbows. So, I looked for a rainbow.

My last lesson in hope on this walk was as we turned the corner to head home, there in front of us was our car and one of our sons looking for his parents. Wow, I thought, they listened to the old folks!!

I learned about hope on this walk, and I also learned about the end results of hope. I hoped for no rain under the bright sky, but it was there I found more rain. I hoped for a rainbow, but found none. I hoped for a ride from my son, but found that even though we saw him—and waived at him, he turned the other way—still looking for us!

Hope is indeed important. I would not have gone for a walk without hope to walk without rain. I had the pleasure of looking for a rainbow, even though I did not find one. I had the pleasure of knowing that our sons cared for and listened to their parents, even if they let us continue to get soaked. Without hope, I would not have had a lovely walk, in spite of the rain.

The actual result of what we hope for may be indeed disappointing—or, it may be foreign to our desires. But, hope is what keeps us going. Without hope we could not exist. Without hope, the rains in all of our lives would perhaps be overwhelming. Give hope a place in your life.

Fifth grade teacher Diane Peterson of Thief River Falls, and Orvis Haugen of Grygla were chosen as one of 27 educators in the state whose skills and talents merit the respect and admiration of students, colleagues and community members.

On July 16, Peterson and Haugen were named as one of the state's 27 Teachers of Excellence in the 1993 Minnesota Teacher of the Year program.

Peterson was named as Thief River Falls' educator of the year earlier this year. She is a fifth grade teacher at Washington elementary school.

"All Minnesotans owe a debt of gratitude to dedicated teachers such as these who strive to give our state's students the best education and the best possible opportunities for successful lives," said Robert E. The program receives support from the MEA Credit Union, Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc., and McDonald's Restaurants of Minnesota.

Chris Twomey, chief executive officer, and Bill Ness, chairman of the board at Arctco, sit atop the one-millionth snowmobile produced at Arctco in Thief River Falls. The unveiling was held Friday during the grand opening ceremonies for Cat Fest in the Arctco lot.

THANKS A Million!

couldn't be made was the Saturday morning parade which had more than 80 entries. Cash prizes of $100 for first place and $25 for honorable mention in each of five divisions were provided by Arctco.

Winners in the various divisions were as follows:

Best Non-Commercial Entry—Silverton 4-H club's 50th anniversary float, $100; St. Hilaire Community Club, $25;

Best Commercial Entry—Genereux Realty, $100; Digi-Key, $25;

Classic Car—Wayne Lenhart, $100; Class of '73, $25;

Custom Car—Cliff Mattson, $100; and Gary Tveiten, $25; and

Crowd Favorite—Lincoln high school marching band, $100.

Special events included the Minnesota to Moscow shows and autograph signing sessions by Team Arctic racing members Kirk Hibbert, Keith Young, Jim Herzig and Brian Sturgeon. The four shows regarding the Minnesota to Moscow trip by snowmobile by two Minnesotans and one Russian were filled and the four racers signed "a ton" of color photos both days.

Kirk Hibbert, an Idaho racer who spends about half the year in Thief River Falls during the race season, was voted Racer of the Year and All-Star Man of the Year by the snowmobile media for the 1992-93 racing season. Considered the best Sno-Cross racer since the sport began, he entered 23 MRP races in 1992-93 and earned 16 first places, three seconds and two thirds. He also won the prestigious I-500 cross-country race this year.

Keith Young is an Arctic Cat racer from the East Coast whose specialty is ice oval racing. He was undefeated in the Mod I Class thruoughout the entire 1992-93 season and won the B Stock Class world championship at Eagle River, WI.

Jim Herzig of Fond du Lac, WI. won high point honors in the United States Snowmobile Association's Stock A, B, C and D classes in 1992-93.

Brian Sturgeon, a Thief River Falls racer who is a local favorite, won the Stock D Class world championship at Eagle River, the Dash for Cash at the Sno-Cross races held on the river in Thief River Falls this year and many other races during the year.

Demonstration of the Tigershark personal watercraft took place on the Red Lake river between the Third and Eighth street bridges Saturday morning with a number of interested spectators on the bridges and at Boy Scout Park and the Lafave Park swimming beach area. Spectators may not have been aware of it, but a sneak preview of the 1994 Tigershark line was included in the group of watercraft being demonstrated.

Harbott said that concession space was provided free of charge to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Kiwanis club, Sportsmen club and Boy Scouts and for a fee to five privately owned concessions. He said that concessionaires were pleased with the volume of food sold.

He noted that the dunking stand operated by the Arctic Lites gymnastics group was consistently busy with board sitters ranging from Arctco CEO Chris Twomey to a reincarnation of Elvis Presley. The Boy Scouts operated the parking and collected either a 50-cent fee or a food item for the Thief River Falls area food shelf.

Two Kitty Cat rides were available free of charge for youngsters—a pair of motor-driven units which children could drive by themselves inside a straw bale-lined course and a carnival ride having six non-motorized Kitty Cats which followed a circular track. The latter was created by an Oregon entrepreneur who obtained the motorless Kitty Cats for a special price from Arctco some time ago with the stipulation that he bring the ride to the Cat Fest celebration.

Weather was very nice on Saturday and good on Friday until a front moved in during the evening. Harbott said a good crowd was on hand but there was lightning in the area and for safety reasons the band was asked to stop playing about 10 p.m. Despite the absence of the band, about two-thirds of the crowd took shelter from the rain under the tents and stayed for the remainder of the evening.

Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters snowmobile club operated the beer garden and received compliments from local law enforcement for the manner in which it was conducted, including taking care to exclude underage persons.

Only direct income-providing part of the Cat Fest for Arctco was its retail Arctic Cat clothing booth and another booth selling specialty Arctic Cat clothing items. The company had another booth permitting people to sign up for the Cat's Pride Club.

All of the company's employees were issued blue T-shirts bearing the slogan that they helped build the one million Arctic Cat snowmobiles. The 700 to 800 employees at work Friday had their shift end a half hour early at 3 p.m. so they could bring the one millionth snowmobile out of the plant and participate in the Cat Fest's Thanks a Million program.

Employment at Arctco now numbers just a couple under the 1,000 mark.

"There were so many people involved in the many areas of the Cat Fest that deserve special thanks," Harbott said, "that it would be impossible to name them. But we really appreciate all those who participated in the parade and everyone in the community who showed support during this event. We hope they had an enjoyable time."

Bicyclists raise thousands for Habitat for Humanity

Seventy-five bicyclists from 11 states cruised through Thief River Falls last Friday. The group of biking enthusiasts combined their love of riding with a fund-raising campaign for Habitat for Humanity, an organization that is dedicated to building homes for individuals who would not otherwise be able to afford homes.

Their fund-raising efforts brought them to Thief River Falls Friday on their way to Winnipeg and the completion of a 500-mile bike ride which began on Monday in Minneapolis.

With a tail wind behind them the group arrived early Friday morning. The group quickly set about the task of drying out rain-soaked tents and sleeping bags. Although Friday was one of the nicest days the group had enjoyed, organizer Jeanne Baumann, said she hadn't heard any complaints about anything related to the bike ride or the weather. Baumann said the citizens of the many communities they stopped in had made the trip real enjoyable. In Thief River Falls the group stayed at Franklin Middle school and were provided breakfast at Redeemer Lutheran church.

Baumann said the trip had been real enjoyable. Many of the bicyclists had made what will probably turn out to be life-long friends. The cyclists participating in the first bicycle fund-raiser for the group, came from 11 different states and ranged in age from 14 to 74. The top fund-raiser in the group was a 17-year-old who raised $3,600. Overall, the group raised $59,352.

The money is used for the construction of homes for individuals who would not be able to have a home. Individuals who do get one of the homes must agree to participate in the construction of the homes, which is done by volunteer work, and agree to help in the construction of a home for another individual.

The destination of the bicyclists, Winnipeg, was chosen because that's where Jimmy Carter will be working with a chapter of Habitat for Humanity to build homes. Some of the bicyclists will have an opportunity to meet Carter and some will have an opportunity to work with him on the project once they arrive. Baumann said not many will have that opportunity because the number of people working on a project is limited and they have to apply far in advance.

Baumann said she isn't sure whether the Twin Cities Habitat for Humanity will have another fund-raiser like the bike ride to Winnipeg. She noted that it took about one year to organize the bike ride. Most of the work was done by a corp group of eight.

Saturday morning, the bicyclists received a police escort when the left town at about 6:30 a.m. They left earlier than anticipated because of the 104 mile journey to their next stop — Lancaster. The group was expected to arrive in Winnipeg the following day. From there many would take a bus back to the Twin Cities.

Duane McDonnell of Minneapolis demonstrates a recumbent bike. McDonnell was the mechanic for a group of about 75 bicyclists on a fund-raiser for Twin Cities Habitat for Humanity. The group passed through Thief River Falls Friday on their way to Winnipeg.

Tents of various sizes and shapes popped up behind Franklin Middle School Friday evening. A group of bicyclists on a 500-mile fund-raiser for Twin Cities Habitat for Humanity stopped in Thief River Falls on their way to Winnipeg. The group stayed inside the school but set up their tent city so that their equipment could dry out. The group left early the next morning on the next leg of their journey to Lancaster and then to Winnipeg.

Partnership proposed for solid waste plan

Proposal made to Pennington and Roseau counties

(Editor's Note: The following article was written by Dick Melvin, editor of the Roseau Times-Region, following a meeting of the Roseau county board of commissioners. It is reprinted here for its local interest.)

The Roseau and Pennington county boards of commissioners received a proposal last week on combining the best attributes of the refuse business from both counties into a cooperative garbage handling effort.

Officials from Solid Waste Integrated Systems (SWIS) Crop., from Eden Prairie, suggested that their private company take over Pennington county's solid waste processing facility in Thief River Falls, expand and update it and mine the Roseau county landfill.

"Pennington county does not have a landfill," said Don Brauer, president of SWIS Corp. to the Roseau county board last Wednesday. "You don't have a processing plant. We are proposing to be the private contractor to put this together."

Refuse produced from the two counties would go through SWIS Corp.'s future enhanced plant in Thief River Falls.

The Roseau county landfill would hopefully stay open, halting future closure, remediation and excavation costs of the landfill to the county.

More importantly, past and present refuse is utilized to its fullest, with 85 per cent of it either recycled, made into compost or pressed into a fuel.

And any toxic materials presently in the landfill will be removed, providing for a safer environment surrounding the landfill.

SWIS Corp., would benefit from the pairing, of course. Its revenues would come from processing the solid waste and selling recyclables, compost and a coal-like fuel made from burnables in the solid waste.

SWIS Corp. wants to increase the capacity of the Thief River Falls facility to handle 100 tons a day. It suggests other northwest Minnesota counties could also participate in the idea.

Brauer said about 15 per cent of the garbage put through its modern processing equipment would go back into a landfill.

Pennington county commissioner Ken Murphy, who was at the Roseau county board meeting Wednesday with the SWIS Corp. officials, said this 15 per cent would be "environmentally sound" material.

A number of important premises in order to make this operation work are yet to be addressed. One, pointed out by Roseau county environmental officer Jeff Pelowski, is whether the state would allow the continued operation of an unlined landfill, such as Roseau county's.

Pelowski said in checking the the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA), he learned that it is looking for new legislation to close unlined landfills in Minnesota.

"With this concept, we hope to convince the state to reduce some of its stringent requirements," Brauer said. "We hope we won't need a lined landfill."

Pelowski suggested Roseau county would need to spend about $1.1 million, not including capital expenditures for mining, to establish the program. He said the county currently pays for its solid waste handling from landfill tipping fees.

"Every county will have to have fees to pay for handling solid waste," Brauer said. "Tipping fees will no longer be able to pay for it all."

The SWIS Corp. president said county governments will spend astronomical figures of money when the state and federal governments require the clean-up of landfills. Brauer said mining the landfill will be 40 to 60 per cent of the cost of any other clean-up method.

"Whatever your alternatives, you'll have big capital expenses," Brauer said. "What we are trying to do is have you spend most effectively."

"But our people will have a coronary if we jump our solid waste budget up to $1 million," said Roseau county commissioner Glenn Darst.

"When you get there—and you will get there eventually," suggested Brauer.

He said SWIS Corp. recently got an approval from Winona county to mine its landfill. Brauer said Winona county will save $22 million in the long term by mining its landfill.

"Of that $22 million, we set aside $3 million for handling toxics, and that is much more than we think we need," Brauer said.

Pennington county board member Murphy stressed that this is not a case of Pennington country trying to dictate something to another county.

He said SWIS Corp., which was formed less than a year ago, came to the Pennington county board last week with the proposal. The Pennington board approved the idea of Brauer looking into the concept and coming back with a cost proposal.

"We recently committed $1 million to our plant," Murphy said. "Pennington county is very satisfied with how we handle our solid waste."

But Murphy said the idea of working together as a region makes more sense in the long run. He suggested forming a joint powers organization in which each county would have equal access to SWIS Corp.

"If we are to survive as a region, we need to help each other," suggested Murphy. "When you look at everything in northwest Minnesota, if we tie it all together, we're unique in Minnesota.

"No other area can so totally handle solid waste as we can. If we work together collectively, this might work. We should not just look at our political boundaries. We should work together as a region."

Brauer agreed that northwest Minnesota is unique. He said it is one of only two areas in the state where a solid waste processing plant already exists.

Most Roseau county commissioners expressed favorable opinions on the concept. Horner said what he liked about the plan was that the landfill, as it is today, would be done.

"What we have to worry about are the changes," said Roseau county commissioner Dick Jackson. "We thought we had a landfill for 20 years and that was just a year ago."

Brauer said that did not surprise him. He said MPCA is always changing its mind and that it is slow to change.

"We think MPCA will have to be dragged, kicking and screaming, to our way of thinking," Brauer said.

The consensus of the Roseau county board was to look at the proposal and think it over. Brauer asked for a commitment from Roseau county. No action was taken by the Roseau county board.

couldn't be made was the Saturday morning parade which had more than 80 entries. Cash prizes of $100 for first place and $25 for honorable mention in each of five divisions were provided by Arctco.

Winners in the various divisions were as follows:

Best Non-Commercial Entry—Silverton 4-H club's 50th anniversary float, $100; St. Hilaire Community Club, $25;

Best Commercial Entry—Genereux Realty, $100; Digi-Key, $25;

Classic Car—Wayne Lenhart, $100; Class of '73, $25;

Custom Car—Cliff Mattson, $100; and Gary Tveiten, $25; and

Crowd Favorite—Lincoln high school marching band, $100.

Special events included the Minnesota to Moscow shows and autograph signing sessions by Team Arctic racing members Kirk Hibbert, Keith Young, Jim Herzig and Brian Sturgeon. The four shows regarding the Minnesota to Moscow trip by snowmobile by two Minnesotans and one Russian were filled and the four racers signed "a ton" of color photos both days.

Kirk Hibbert, an Idaho racer who spends about half the year in Thief River Falls during the race season, was voted Racer of the Year and All-Star Man of the Year by the snowmobile media for the 1992-93 racing season. Considered the best Sno-Cross racer since the sport began, he entered 23 MRP races in 1992-93 and earned 16 first places, three seconds and two thirds. He also won the prestigious I-500 cross-country race this year.

Keith Young is an Arctic Cat racer from the East Coast whose specialty is ice oval racing. He was undefeated in the Mod I Class throughout the entire 1992-93 season and won the B Stock Class world championship at Eagle River, WI.

Jim Herzig of Fond du Lac, WI. won high point honors in the United States Snowmobile Association's Stock A, B, C and D classes in 1992-93.

Brian Sturgeon, a Thief River Falls racer who is a local favorite, won the Stock D Class world championship at Eagle River, the Dash for Cash at the Sno-Cross races held on the river in Thief River Falls this year and many other races during the year.

Demonstration of the Tigershark personal watercraft took place on the Red Lake river between the Third and Eighth street bridges Saturday morning with a number of interested spectators on the bridges and at Boy Scout Park and the Lafave Park swimming beach area. Spectators may not have been aware of it, but a sneak preview of the 1994 Tigershark line was included in the group of watercraft being demonstrated.

Harbott said that concession space was provided free of charge to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Kiwanis club, Sportsmen club and Boy Scouts and for a fee to five privately owned concessions. He said that concessionaires were pleased with the volume of food sold.

He noted that the dunking stand operated by the Arctic Lites gymnastics group was consistently busy with board sitters ranging from Arctco CEO Chris Twomey to a reincarnation of Elvis Presley. The Boy Scouts operated the parking and collected either a 50-cent fee or a food item for the Thief River Falls area food shelf.

Two Kitty Cat rides were available free of charge for youngsters—a pair of motor-driven units which children could drive by themselves inside a straw bale-lined course and a carnival ride having six non-motorized Kitty Cats which followed a circular track. The latter was created by an Oregon entrepreneur who obtained the motorless Kitty Cats for a special price from Arctco some time ago with the stipulation that he bring the ride to the Cat Fest celebration.

Weather was very nice on Saturday and good on Friday until a front moved in during the evening. Harbott said a good crowd was on hand but there was lightning in the area and for safety reasons the band was asked to stop playing about 10 p.m. Despite the absence of the band, about two-thirds of the crowd took shelter from the rain under the tents and stayed for the remainder of the evening.

Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters snowmobile club operated the beer garden and received compliments from local law enforcement for the manner in which it was conducted, including taking care to exclude underage persons.

Only direct income-providing part of the Cat Fest for Arctco was its retail Arctic Cat clothing booth and another booth selling specialty Arctic Cat clothing items. The company had another booth permitting people to sign up for the Cat's Pride Club.

All of the company's employees were issued blue T-shirts bearing the slogan that they helped build the one million Arctic Cat snowmobiles. The 700 to 800 employees at work Friday had their shift end a half hour early at 3 p.m. so they could bring the one millionth snowmobile out of the plant and participate in the Cat Fest's Thanks a Million program.

Employment at Arctco now numbers just a couple under the 1,000 mark.

"There were so many people involved in the many areas of the Cat Fest that deserve special thanks," Harbott said, "that it would be impossible to name them. But we really appreciate all those who participated in the parade and everyone in the community who showed support during this event. We hope they had an enjoyable time."

Bicyclists raise thousands for Habitat for Humanity

Seventy-five bicyclists from 11 states cruised through Thief River Falls last Friday. The group of biking enthusiasts combined their love of riding with a fund-raising campaign for Habitat for Humanity, an organization that is dedicated to building homes for individuals who would not otherwise be able to afford homes.

Their fund-raising efforts brought them to Thief River Falls Friday on their way to Winnipeg and the completion of a 500-mile bike ride which began on Monday in Minneapolis.

With a tail wind behind them the group arrived early Friday morning. The group quickly set about the task of drying out rain-soaked tents and sleeping bags. Although Friday was one of the nicest days the group had enjoyed, organizer Jeanne Baumann, said she hadn't heard any complaints about anything related to the bike ride or the weather. Baumann said the citizens of the many communities they stopped in had made the trip real enjoyable. In Thief River Falls the group stayed at Franklin Middle school and were provided breakfast at Redeemer Lutheran church.

Baumann said the trip had been real enjoyable. Many of the bicyclists had made what will probably turn out to be life-long friends. The cyclists participating in the first bicycle fund-raiser for the group, came from 11 different states and ranged in age from 14 to 74. The top fund-raiser in the group was a 17-year-old who raised $3,600. Overall, the group raised $59,352.

The money is used for the construction of homes for individuals who would not be able to have a home. Individuals who do get one of the homes must agree to participate in the construction of the homes, which is done by volunteer work, and agree to help in the construction of a home for another individual.

The destination of the bicyclists, Winnipeg, was chosen because that's where Jimmy Carter will be working with a chapter of Habitat for Humanity to build homes. Some of the bicyclists will have an opportunity to meet Carter and some will have an opportunity to work with him on the project once they arrive. Baumann said not many will have that opportunity because the number of people working on a project is limited and they have to apply far in advance.

Baumann said she isn't sure whether the Twin Cities Habitat for Humanity will have another fund-raiser like the bike ride to Winnipeg. She noted that it took about one year to organize the bike ride. Most of the work was done by a corp group of eight.

Saturday morning, the bicyclists received a police escort when the left town at about 6:30 a.m. They left earlier than anticipated because of the 104 mile journey to their next stop — Lancaster. The group was expected to arrive in Winnipeg the following day. From there many would take a bus back to the Twin Cities.

Duane McDonnell of Minneapolis demonstrates a recumbent bike. McDonnell was the mechanic for a group of about 75 bicyclists on a fund-raiser for Twin Cities Habitat for Humanity. The group passed through Thief River Falls Friday on their way to Winnipeg.

Tents of various sizes and shapes popped up behind Franklin Middle School Friday evening. A group of bicyclists on a 500-mile fund-raiser for Twin Cities Habitat for Humanity stopped in Thief River Falls on their way to Winnipeg. The group stayed inside the school but set up their tent city so that their equipment could dry out. The group left early the next morning on the next leg of their journey to Lancaster and then to Winnipeg.

Partnership proposed for solid waste plan

Proposal made to Pennington and Roseau counties

(Editor's Note: The following article was written by Dick Melvin, editor of the Roseau Times-Region, following a meeting of the Roseau county board of commissioners. It is reprinted here for its local interest.)

The Roseau and Pennington county boards of commissioners received a proposal last week on combining the best attributes of the refuse business from both counties into a cooperative garbage handling effort.

Officials from Solid Waste Integrated Systems (SWIS) Crop., from Eden Prairie, suggested that their private company take over Pennington county's solid waste processing facility in Thief River Falls, expand and update it and mine the Roseau county landfill.

"Pennington county does not have a landfill," said Don Brauer, president of SWIS Corp. to the Roseau county board last Wednesday. "You don't have a processing plant. We are proposing to be the private contractor to put this together."

Refuse produced from the two counties would go through SWIS Corp.'s future enhanced plant in Thief River Falls.

The Roseau county landfill would hopefully stay open, halting future closure, remediation and excavation costs of the landfill to the county.

More importantly, past and present refuse is utilized to its fullest, with 85 per cent of it either recycled, made into compost or pressed into a fuel.

And any toxic materials presently in the landfill will be removed, providing for a safer environment surrounding the landfill.

SWIS Corp., would benefit from the pairing, of course. Its revenues would come from processing the solid waste and selling recyclables, compost and a coal-like fuel made from burnables in the solid waste.

SWIS Corp. wants to increase the capacity of the Thief River Falls facility to handle 100 tons a day. It suggests other northwest Minnesota counties could also participate in the idea.

Brauer said about 15 per cent of the garbage put through its modern processing equipment would go back into a landfill.

Pennington county commissioner Ken Murphy, who was at the Roseau county board meeting Wednesday with the SWIS Corp. officials, said this 15 per cent would be "environmentally sound" material.

A number of important premises in order to make this operation work are yet to be addressed. One, pointed out by Roseau county environmental officer Jeff Pelowski, is whether the state would allow the continued operation of an unlined landfill, such as Roseau county's.

Pelowski said in checking the the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA), he learned that it is looking for new legislation to close unlined landfills in Minnesota.

"With this concept, we hope to convince the state to reduce some of its stringent requirements," Brauer said. "We hope we won't need a lined landfill."

Pelowski suggested Roseau county would need to spend about $1.1 million, not including capital expenditures for mining, to establish the program. He said the county currently pays for its solid waste handling from landfill tipping fees.

"Every county will have to have fees to pay for handling solid waste," Brauer said. "Tipping fees will no longer be able to pay for it all."

The SWIS Corp. president said county governments will spend astronomical figures of money when the state and federal governments require the clean-up of landfills. Brauer said mining the landfill will be 40 to 60 per cent of the cost of any other clean-up method.

"Whatever your alternatives, you'll have big capital expenses," Brauer said. "What we are trying to do is have you spend most effectively."

"But our people will have a coronary if we jump our solid waste budget up to $1 million," said Roseau county commissioner Glenn Darst.

"When you get there—and you will get there eventually," suggested Brauer.

He said SWIS Corp. recently got an approval from Winona county to mine its landfill. Brauer said Winona county will save $22 million in the long term by mining its landfill.

"Of that $22 million, we set aside $3 million for handling toxics, and that is much more than we think we need," Brauer said.

Pennington county board member Murphy stressed that this is not a case of Pennington country trying to dictate something to another county.

He said SWIS Corp., which was formed less than a year ago, came to the Pennington county board last week with the proposal. The Pennington board approved the idea of Brauer looking into the concept and coming back with a cost proposal.

"We recently committed $1 million to our plant," Murphy said. "Pennington county is very satisfied with how we handle our solid waste."

But Murphy said the idea of working together as a region makes more sense in the long run. He suggested forming a joint powers organization in which each county would have equal access to SWIS Corp.

"If we are to survive as a region, we need to help each other," suggested Murphy. "When you look at everything in northwest Minnesota, if we tie it all together, we're unique in Minnesota.

"No other area can so totally handle solid waste as we can. If we work together collectively, this might work. We should not just look at our political boundaries. We should work together as a region."

Brauer agreed that northwest Minnesota is unique. He said it is one of only two areas in the state where a solid waste processing plant already exists.

Most Roseau county commissioners expressed favorable opinions on the concept. Horner said what he liked about the plan was that the landfill, as it is today, would be done.

"What we have to worry about are the changes," said Roseau county commissioner Dick Jackson. "We thought we had a landfill for 20 years and that was just a year ago."

Brauer said that did not surprise him. He said MPCA is always changing its mind and that it is slow to change.

"We think MPCA will have to be dragged, kicking and screaming, to our way of thinking," Brauer said.

The consensus of the Roseau county board was to look at the proposal and think it over. Brauer asked for a commitment from Roseau county. No action was taken by the Roseau county board.

Park & Recreation Department offers Summer Hummer

Park & Recreation Department will sponsor its first Summer Hummer for participants in the Thief River Falls youth baseball, softball and tennis programs Wednesday, July 28, from 5 to 8 p.m. at Oakland Park.

The event, presented free of charge, will feature food, games and prizes.

Free youth fishing clinic will be held in TRF August 11

A free fishing clinic for kids ages 8-14 will be presented in Thief River Falls Wednesday, Aug. 11.

The event, sponsored by the Thief River Falls Park & Recreation Department and MinnAqua, a state-run aquatic education program, is an effort to expand and utilize fishing opportunities on the Thief/ Red Lake rivers in Thief River Falls.

Participants will learn to identify fish and fish habitat, and will have an opportunity to try their hand at catching a fish.

The clinic will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Red Lake River fishing pier located at Red Robe Park. Those taking part in the clinic should bring a sack lunch and a fishing pole. However, MinnAqua will provide a fishing rod, reel and tackle to those who do not have them, along with bait.

Trained instructors will conduct the program, which includes hands-on activities such as fish identification, pop can casting, food web tag, and fishing.

Participants will also learn sportsmanship, safety, the basis of water ecology, and techniques of fishing.

Pre-registration is required by contacting the Park & Recreation Department at 681-2519 or 681-1835. Registration deadline is Aug. 5. Class size may be limited. Parents are welcome and encouraged to attend.

Adults interested in helping with the training program during the clinic are asked to call Madelyn Vigen at 681-2519.

MinnAqua was created by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources in 1990 to teach the recreation, ecology, conservation, and ethics of angling. The program is run in cooperation with the Minnesota Extension Service 4-H program and is funded through LCMR, RIM and the Federal Aid in Sport Fish Restoration Act. Organizers of the program hope that as more Minnesotans learn to fish and understand aquatic environments, they will work to keep lakes and streams clean and healthy.

TRF Legion 3-2 at Duluth tournament

Thief River Falls beat Milaca, Proctor and Hibbing, but lost to Forest Lake and Rosetown while competing in the 30-team Duluth Lakeview Classic American Legion baseball tournament over the weekend.

Seeding was done after Friday's first round play when a 6-2 victory over Milaca drew a No. 7 position for Post 117.

Round-robin scheduling then determined bracket positions for Sunday's finals – the top four teams playing in the championship division and the 5-through-8 teams going into the runner-up division. There was also a consolation division.

Thief River Falls lost to highly-regarded Forest Lake 7-2 Friday afternoon, then got by Proctor 5-2 and Hibbing 4-3 Saturday to earn a spot in the runner-up division. Post 117 won the runner-up crown a year ago, but this time lost a tournament-ending semifinal decision to Rosetown 5-2.

Tri-City Reds, the No. 1 ranked team in the state Legion polls, beat No. 2-ranked Forest Lake 6-0 in the championship division title game. Excelsior stopped Rosetown 11-0 in the runner-up division finals.

The 3-2 Thief River Falls finish put Post 117 at 22-4 heading into a scheduled Tuesday doubleheader at Moorhead. The Howard Dalager-coached team will be in Detroit Lakes for a 6:15 p.m. doubleheader Friday before making a home appearance in a 5:30 p.m. twinbill against Roseau Monday.

"I was pretty pleased with the tournament (performance)," said Dalager. "We had some trouble getting people around the bases – we couldn't get some key hits when we needed them – and made a few mistakes here and there. But, overall the kids did a nice job. I was very proud of their efforts."

Remaining TRF Regular Season Schedule
Tuesday, July 20 - at Moorhead, 5:30/7:30 p.m.; Friday, July 23 - at Detroit Lakes, 6:15/8:15 p.m.; Monday, July 26 - Roseau, 6:30/7:30 p.m.; Thursday, July 29 - East Grand Forks, 5:30/7:30 p.m.; Monday, Aug. 2 - at Roseau, 6 p.m.

Top Thief River Falls outfielders Marc Haugen, David Blazek and Wade Evenson missed the Duluth trip because of other commitments.

Thief River Falls 6
Milaca 2

Left-handed pitcher Brian Minks gave up two first inning runs, but then racked up six shutout innings as Thief River Falls beat Milaca 6-2 to open the tournament.

An RBI triple by Joby Looker keyed a tie-breaking four-run Thief River Falls sixth. Nathan Knutson was 3-for-5 with three doubles and two RBI for the winners. Looker and Robert Nelson both had two hits.

Minks gave up just four hits, struck out four and walked only two.

Forest Lake turned a 3-1 edge into a 7-2 second round win over Thief River Falls by scoring four times in the top of the seventh – thanks in large part to a three run home run by Kansas State University-bound Scott Poepard.

Both teams had nine hits, with Jason Svir, Steve Burslie and Jayson Olson picking up two each for Post 117.

Losing pitcher Rick Ostby struck out five and walked three.

Tied at 2-2 going into the seventh, Post 117 scored three times for the win as Robert Nelson drew a walk, then Jason Svir and Knutson both singled. Carter Rogalla made it 4-2 with a suicide squeeze and an error plated yet another run.

Winning pitcher Jayson Olson gave up just two hits. He struck out three and walked three. Rogalla pitched the seventh.

A two-run bottom of the seventh inning rally netted Thief River Falls a come-from-behind 4-3 win over Hibbing to move Post 117 into Sunday's medal round.

Trailing 3-2, the final inning Thief River Falls rally began with a lead-off walk issued to Jayson Olson. The next two batters were retired before Nathan Knutson singled off the glove of the Hibbing third baseman. Carter Rogalla tied it with an RBI single and Rick Ostby won it with a looping single to right-center that eluded a diving attempt by a Hibbing outfielder.

Robert Nelson had two hits for the winners, who received a complete-game pitching performance from Jeremy Olson. The right hander struck out one and walked two.

Thief River Falls 2

After pulling out back-to-back late-game wins over Proctor and Hibbing Saturday, Post 117 watched Rosetown come up with a three-run sixth Sunday to beat Thief River Falls 5-2 in the runner-up division semifinals.

It was tied at 2-2 in the bottom of the sixth when Rosetown combined four hits with a Thief River Falls error to score the three game-winning runs.

Joby Looker gave up only two third inning runs, striking out one and walking just one, before being lifted in favor of Carter Rogalla after surrendering a lead-off triple to start the Rosetown sixth.

Rogalla had three of the four Thief River Falls hits, two of them going for triples.

Meanwhile, Thief River Falls I and Thief River Falls II will take part in the Lake Agassiz Invitational July 31-Aug. 1, in East Grand Forks.

District team beats Crookston

Thief River Falls District capitalized on 15 walks to beat Crookston 16-4 in the first half of a Monday doubleheader, then came up with a seven-run rally in the top of the seventh to complete the sweep with a 14-11 come-from-behind second game victory.

Playoffs begin Monday in TRF youth baseball

Playoff activity is just around the corner for the 1993 Thief River Falls Park & Recreation Department youth baseball program for 7-12-year-olds.

A record 380 boys and girls are involved in the summer program headed by Jeff Mumm.

"Things have been going real well," noted Mumm. "We've had a little too much rain, but otherwise it's been a good summer."

The program features three age groups: 7-8-year-olds, 9-10-year-olds and 11-12-year-olds. Players continuing with their summer baseball after leaving the Park & Recreation Department program move into the Thief River Falls Youth Baseball Association-sponsored Babe Ruth teams for 13-year-olds and 14-15-year-olds.

Absent from the Park & Recreation Department program are scores and standings for all three age groups – a staple in the Times sports pages in the past. The idea, according to Mumm, was to take the emphasis away from the results while stressing individual development and recreational fun.

Match-ups for the July 26-Aug. 4 double-elimination playoffs were made at random, pointed out Mumm.

'93 hunting seasons are set

Few changes are proposed for the 1993 Minnesota fall hunting seasons, except for a number of new options for deer hunters, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

"The overall outlook for most wildlife species hasn't changed much from last year," said DNR Commissioner Rod Sando. "Deer populations remain good in most areas, and the state's breeding waterfowl populations continue to be high. However, reduced breeding populations and cool, wet weather during the early nesting season will likely mean lower fall numbers of pheasants, ruffed grouse, sharp-tailed grouse, and gray partridge," he said.

More information about upland game and waterfowl populations will be available in late summer, when surveys to assess production have been completed. A species-by-species account of the general outlook and planned regulation changes follows.

Deer

Firearms deer season will open Nov. 6, archery deer Sept. 18, and muzzleloader deer Nov. 27. Deer populations are at or near goal levels in most areas of the state, and deer hunters can expect another very good season in 1993, according to the DNR. Antlerless permits will be up somewhat in agricultural and transition areas, but reduced from 1992 levels in the forests.

Major changes for deer hunters this fall are:

- All licensed resident deer hunters under age 16 will be allowed to take a deer of either-sex without a permit in areas where permits are available.
- Multi-zone buck licenses ($44) will be available over the counter and numbers will not be limited.
- Eligible landowners will receive preference for a free deer management permit in areas where management permits are offered.
- Deer bag limits will be as high as five per hunter in some urban areas.
- Additional special hunts will be offered in parks and urban areas.
- Additional muzzleloader areas are being added and muzzleloader hunters will have more areas where they can take two deer.
- Firearms for deer hunting can now be possessed and sighted-in outdoors up to five days before the deer season.
- Experimental two-deer area (one by archery, one by gun) in northwestern Minnesota has been extended for two more years and expanded to include Lake of the Woods County. In addition, the 1993 Legislature passed a law that will phase out the use of red clothing during deer season so that by 1994, only blaze orange or camouflage blaze orange will be allowed.

A total of 236,055 antlerless deer permits will be available in 1993, a 27 percent decline from the record 322,030 offered last year, but still the second highest number ever offered. The application deadline for antlerless permits and special hunts will be Thursday, Sept. 9. More detail on the 1993 deer seasons, along with licenses, applications and regulations, will be available in early August.

"A year ago we informed hunters that the large increase in permits for the 1992 season was intended to reduce or hold populations to goal levels. That objective was accomplished in most areas," Sando said. The biggest permit decrease was in east-central Minnesota, where high numbers of permits the past two years have quickly and successfully reduced a very high deer population. In that area, the high 1992 permit quota, combined with the effects of the 1991 Halloween blizzard, will result in some dramatic cuts in permits this year. "Populations of deer in east-central Minnesota and elsewhere on the forests are now at or near goal levels, and the reduced number of permits will result in stabilization of the population," Sando said.

In Zone 1 and Zone 2 (the northern forests and mixed agricultural/forest areas of the state) permits are down approximately 38 percent. In Zone 3 and Zone 4 (the southeastern wooded/agricultural areas and the southern and western agricultural areas) permits are up approximately 10 percent compared with 1992.

The 1993 Legislature enacted a new law that allows licensed resident hunters under the age of 16 to take an antlerless deer without an antlerless permit. However, the law prohibits other members of the youth hunter's party from shooting the antlerless deer for the young hunter.

"This law will encourage young deer hunters by improving their odds for success during their first few years of hunting, thus improving the likelihood that they will remain hunters," said Sando. The law was partially the result of information from Wisconsin and other states indicating that deer hunter numbers were declining proportional to the population overall, and that hunter numbers might be in sufficient to control deer populations in the future. "Hunters are the backbone of many conservation programs and, particularly in the case of deer, help manage populations," Sando said.

Resident youth hunters under age 16 as of Nov. 6 (The first day of the firearms deer season) will be allowed to hunt deer of either sex throughout the season anywhere in the state, except the Zone 3A (bucks only) season and the permit areas of Zone 1 and Zone 2 where no antlerless permits are authorized. They can not enter the antlerless drawing or gain preference, but they must apply if they wish to participate in special hunts.

The $44 multi-zone buck license authorizes a person to hunt for bucks only in any open zone except the late Zone 3B season in southeastern Minnesota. This year, the number of multi-zone buck licenses will not be limited. They may be purchased at license agents anytime prior to Nov. 6.

Owners or tenants of at least 10 acres of agricultural land who live on the land and allow public hunting will be eligible for free landowner deer management (second deer) permits in areas where such permits are available. They will also receive preference over other applicants for such permits. "In areas where the issuance of second-deer permits is necessary to meet harvest objectives, this provision will direct more taking of antlerless deer to private lands where deer damage to agricultural crops most often occurs," Sando said.

To be considered for one these free permits, eligible landowners must pick up an application at license agents and submit it with their antlerless permit application. Specific landowner permit areas will not be known until the October permit drawing.

The 1993 Legislature gave the DNR authority to offer increased deer bag limits. This fall, a hunter will be allowed to tag up to five deer per year in some Twin Cities metro permit areas and in selected special hunts. However, Sando said, hunters should be aware that hunting may be difficult in these areas because much of the land is privately owned or is closed to hunting by local ordinances. Hunters are encouraged by the DNR to locate an area open to hunting and to obtain permission before applying for these permits.

"The authority for a higher bag limit gives the DNR another tool to use in managing deer populations in areas where hunter access or numbers may be limited, a situation often encountered in urban environments," Sando said.

Forty special hunts will be held in 1993. These hunts are held each year to man age deer populations in areas such as parks that are either not normally open to hunting, or where hunter numbers must be limited for public safety or deer management reasons. Drawings are held to select successful applicants for these hunts.

Several new areas have been added for the Nov. 27-Dec. 12 muzzleloader season, including several permit areas north of the Twin Cities, along the Minnesota River in southwestern Minnesota, and additional state forests or wildlife management areas in central Minnesota. Muzzleloader hunters will be able to purchase management permits to take a second deer in some areas, as listed in the regulations.

The 1993 Legislature also directed the DNR to consider a statewide muzzleloader season. Proposals for such a season will be presented at the March 1994 public input meetings, with plans to implement some kind of statewide season in the fall of 1994.

The 1993 Legislature reduced the time before deer season that it is illegal to possess outdoors firearms and ammunition capable of taking deer. The reduction from 10 days to five days means that hunters will be able to sight-in deer rifles and shotguns through the weekend prior to the season without having to be at a licensed shootings range.

Experimental two-deer area in effect the past two years in Kittson, Marshall and Roseau counties has been extended for two more years by the Legislature, and Lake of the Woods County has been added to the open area. Hunters who want to participate in this hunt must obtain a free permit from the DNR.

Currently, all hunters and trappers afield in open firearms deer zones must wear bright red or blaze orange clothing for safety reasons. Because of the poorer visibility of red clothing, particularly in low light conditions, the 1993 Legislature passed a law that will phase out red as a legal color by 1994. During the 1994 deer season, only blaze orange or camouflage blaze orange clothing will be legal.

Small Game

Small game hunters will have more options available for legally transporting game birds this fall. The new options, passed by the Legislature, will be detailed in the hunting regulations handbook available in early August.

Information from southern Minnesota study areas indicates declines in breeding populations of approximately 30 percent for pheasants and 50 percent for gray (Hungarian) partridge compared with 1992. These declines were similar to those observed for both species in 1992, and were expected considering the lower populations last fall and the average winter conditions in 1992-93.

Cool, late spring and continuing very heavy rains and flooding are not helping a hoped for population recovery for either species, according to Sando. "Considering the weather conditions, the best case would be a fall population similar to 1992, and the more likely case is a 25-40 percent reduction this fall," Sando said. More details on fall pheasant numbers will be available following completion of the August roadside counts.

Although increases in the pheasant daily limit and possession limit were considered, there will be no change in 1993. Also, the season will remain the same length as last year, but will open and close nearly a week later than last year as the season shifts with the calendar. The pheasant season will be Oct. 16 - Dec. 19. The gray partridge season will be Sept. 18 - Dec. 31.

Sharp-tailed grouse declined for the third consecutive year, and continue their general decline of the past 20 years. "Sharp-tailed grouse need open brushlands," Sando said. "That type of habitat continues to shrink because of encroaching trees, maturing brush, and lack of controlled burning."

As sharptail populations and habitats shrink, isolated remnant populations in peripheral areas become more vulnerable to localized elimination. As a result, the closed area for sharp-tailed grouse is being extended in 1993 to protect some of these remnant populations in the hopes they can be maintained until habitat conditions improve. The season for sharptails will be Sept. 18 - Nov. 30.

Drumming counts of male ruffed grouse were down 12 percent statewide compared with 1992. The number of ruffed grouse drums was stable in the northeast survey area, down 10 percent in the northwest, down 20 percent in the northcentral, and down 17 percent in the southeast.

"Ruffed grouse appear to be near the bottom on their 10-year cycle," Sando said. There will be no ruffed grouse season changes. The season will be Sept. 18 - Dec. 31.

Low snowshoe hare counts continue. Additional information on cottontail and jack rabbits will be available following completion of the August roadside counts. Rabbit and squirrel seasons will be Sept. 18 - Feb. 28.

Furbearers

Many furbearer populations continued to increase in 1992, in part due to low fur prices and reduced trapping harvests. With additional season setting authority granted by the 1993 Legislature, several furbearer seasons will be extended to run concurrently with the fox season. Seasons for red and gray fox, raccoon, opossum and badger will be Sept. 18 - March 15. The mink, muskrat, beaver and otter seasons will again be split into north and south zones, opening Oct. 23 and Oct. 30, respectively. The closing date of the mink and muskrat season will be extended through Feb. 28.

Fisher limit will be increased from one to two in response to reduced harvest levels and stable fisher populations. Fisher and marten seasons open Dec. 4. Nonresident tagging and limits for raccoon and fox will be eliminated.

Trap tagging requirements will be simplified this fall, as outlined in the regulations. However, trap tags that were legal last year will still satisfy the new regulations.

Ducks/Geese

Waterfowl season dates and bag limits will not be set until the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announces the federal framework within which states must select their regulations. The framework includes the earliest opening date, bag limits, and the maximum number of days allowed for hunting. The proposed framework is announced in August, after the waterfowl population status has been evaluated. One state law change that will affect Minnesota waterfowl hunters this fall exempts them from the requirement to wear blaze orange or red during the deer season when they are on the water or in a stationary shooting location.

Total breeding mallards and blue-winged teal in Minnesota this year declined 15 percent and 27 percent, respectively, from the record population of 1992. Mallard populations were still 30 percent above the 10-year average and were the second highest reported since the current survey began in 1968.

Habitat conditions for breeding waterfowl were good to excellent in southern Minnesota, fair to good in central areas, and relatively dry in the northwest. Wetland numbers increased 22 percent from 1992, and were 20 percent above the 10-year average. Rainfall during May and June throughout much of the state may have caused some disruption of nesting, but should provide good wetland conditions for brood rearing.

Resident Canada goose breeding populations increased 29 percent from 1992 and were 38 percent above the 10-year average.

Early goose hunts in the Twin Cities, the Fergus Falls/Alexandria area, and southwestern Minnesota will be continued in 1993. The Southwest Zone will be expanded considerably this fall to better manage resident giant Canada geese breeding populations. Also, the opening date of the early goose season is being moved to the first Saturday in September (Sept. 4) to ensure that there are two weekends in the 10-day season. Applications for the early goose hunts will be available in early July.

Eastern Prairie Population (EEP) of Canada geese that breeds in northern Manitoba and migrates through western Minnesota declined substantially this year. Although the 1993 spring was early and production was good, a smaller breeding population will result in a smaller fall flight and possible harvest restrictions.

"We will know more about the status of ducks and geese and likely fall flights in late July when more population and production data are available," Sando said.

Other Species

Details on the bear, moose and fall turkey seasons were announced earlier.

More information on the fall seasons will be available in the hunting regulations handbook available in early August. Sando said hunters should check the actual regulations before going afield.

DNR Swan Project

Minnesota's trumpeter swan restoration project continued this spring with the release of four more pairs of birds in the Tamarac National Wildlife Refuge in northern Becker County.

A total of 175 swans have been released through the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Nongame Wildlife Program since the spring of 1987. It has become one of the most popular efforts among the nearly 130 projects under-taken since the nongame wildlife program began in 1981 through funds provided by voluntary contributions on Minnesota tax forms.

"The restoration continues to show signs of success," said Katie Haws, Regional Nongame Wildlife Specialist at Bemidji. "During the past five summers, program swans have successfully hatched and raised 91 cygnets in the wild.

Number of swans has steadily increased with the annual release of additional two-year-old birds raised in captivity and the successful nesting of program swans as they reach maturity – between four and six years of age.

"DNR swans have nested in nine Minnesota counties and have been sighted in a total of 20 counties, as of last fall," said Haws. "We have confirmed reports of sightings in ten other states, and during the winter migration, from as far away as Oklahoma and Virgina."

From the beginning, DNR officials have relied on reports from lake area residents, bird watchers, hunters and other conservation-minded citizens to report sightings of trumpeter swans.

"Their summer range continues to expand," explained Haws. "Cygnets hatched in Minnesota will spend the winter with their parents and often return with them to their home territory the following spring.

"However," continued Haws, "nesting swans will not usually tolerate another pair of swans occupying the same lake, unless it is a very large lake. As swans mature and begin to pair up, they pioneer new breeding areas. Every spring it's a new challenge to locate returning swans and new nesting sites. We need to hear from private citizens to help locate resident pairs and verify nesting sites."

Trumpeter swans are relatively easy to recognize. They are the largest waterfowl in North America – weighing from 20 to as much as 38 pounds, with a wingspan of six to eight feet. Cygnets have gray-colored feathers until they're about one year old.

DNR program swans are marked with numbered, orange plastic wing tags. Swans from other restoration programs, including the Wisconsin DNR and Hennepin County Parks may be marked with neck collars. It is not unusual to see marked and unmarked swans together.

Anyone sighting a trumpeter swan should record the date and location of the sighting, and, if possible, the tag or collar numbers of marked swans.

Phone the information to Katie Haws or Bruce Lenning at the DNR Nongame Wildlife office in Bemidji at 755-2976, or call DNR swan project officer Steve Kittelson toll-free at 1-800-766-6000.

Water Safety Tips

Minnesotans are heading to the beaches, lakes and pools for vacations; unfortunately, some won't return home.

As cool and refreshing as it may look, water can be a killer. "Drowning accidents have claimed about 60 lives per year for the last five years in Minnesota, but that is well below the record 180 deaths in 1944," said Tim Smalley, boat and water safety specialist for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Drowning, which claims about 5,200 lives annually in the United States, the fourth leading cause of accidental death in the country and second for children under 15.

But water safety efforts are paying dividends, according to Smalley, who said several factors are contributing to the reduction in drownings: More people are learning to swim and taking boating safety classes; most boats are now manufactured with built-in flotation so they won't sink if they fill with water; fewer people swim away from capsized boats, so are more likely to be rescued; life jackets are more comfortable and easier to wear; and there is better enforcement of the drunk boater law and the law requiring people to have life jackets available on their boats.

Drownings tend to occur in lakes and rivers, but pools, tubs and almost any other body of water have claimed lives. "There have been even drownings in a golf course water hazard, and farm manure pits," said Smalley.

Spinal injuries, caused by diving into too shallow water, often results in death or permanent paralysis. The victim is often a male, in his late teens or early 20s, who has been consuming beer or other alcoholic beverages.

Smalley said the typical case involves a group of young men who have been drinking, and one of them dives into the water. With alcohol clouded judgement, the victim forgets that the water is only three feet deep, hits his head on the bottom and suffers a serious spinal injury. If he doesn't drown, he has to live with paralysis for the rest of his life.

"The phrase to remember is 'first time, feet first,' meaning don't dive until you know how deep the water is," Smalley said. "And if you have been drinking, stay away from the water all together."

- Take swimming lessons. Many local parks and recreation departments have a local swimming instruction program for children and adults.
- Don't dive into water of unknown depth or any above-ground pool. Remember, first time, feet first.
- Don't use alcohol if you are going swimming or boating.
- Don't substitute flotation devices such as inner tubes, air mattresses or inflatable cuffs for swimming ability. The only reliable device is a U.S. Coast Guard approved life jacket. Life jackets should be worn whenever you are boating.
- Swim with a buddy.
- Watch your children at the beach; don't expect the lifeguard to be a babysitter. When your child is near the water, you should be near your child.
- Know your ability for rescuing a drowning swimmer. Extend another object to the person, throw a floating object to them, or row a boat out for them; only swim out for them if you are properly trained in lifesaving techniques.

Catch-and-Release

There was a time when the only walleyes released by anglers were those that broke the line or shook off the hook. To most anglers, the thought of letting a walleye go made about as much sense as throwing your lunch into the lake.

But times have changed. More and more Minnesotans are learning that catch-and-release is one of the best ways to improve a lake's walleye fishing. Traditionally practiced by trout, muskie and bass anglers who realized lakes and streams didn't hold unlimited amounts of fish, catch-and-release has been adopted by many individual anglers and sports groups that want to continue hooking good-sized walleyes.

On Rainy Lake and Lake of the Woods, for example, local anglers are spreading the word about catch-and-release with billboards, media advertisements, posters, videos, and school-room visits.

Many Anglers still believe it is best to release tiny walleyes and trophy-sized females, thinking the small ones will grow up to be big fish and the females are needed to produce eggs.

It is interesting to note, however, that what would help walleye lakes more than releasing the rarely caught trophy fish would be the release of the more medium-size fish – those from 16 to 20 inches.

Researchers have found that lakes usually have an ample supply of little fish. And if there is enough spawning habitat, the intermediate-size females produce more than enough eggs. In most cases, what helps a fishery most is maintaining a high enough number of medium-sized walleyes.

By practicing 'selective harvest,' anglers can increase a lake's potential to provide big fish while still enjoying meals of freshly-caught walleyes. Keep fish under 16 inches for eating. Many walleye lakes have plenty of those, and besides, they're the best tasting fish.

Tips for releasing walleye:

- ■ Play the fish quickly, and handle it gently.
- ■ Never hold it by the eyes.
- ■ Use a needlenose pliers to removed hooks.
- ■ Cut the line if hooked in the throat or gills; the fish's stomach acids will dissolve metal.
- ■ Ease the fish into the water.

Junior Park Naturalist Program

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Division of Parks and Recreation introduced a new Junior Park Naturalist program in all state parks this year. It's designed for children ages 7-14, but adults are also encouraged to participate in the summer-long project.

Participants earn achievement certificates and colorful patches as they complete special projects and activities in the programs, which focuses on Minnesota's natural resources.

Those taking part in the activities earn points by attending interpretive programs presented in state parks, locating and observing plants or animal activity, taking a pledge to protect park resources, and by completing various projects.

Junior Park Naturalist program materials and activities are free and available exclusively at Minnesota state parks. For information about the program, call toll-free, 1-800-766-6000.

Grouse numbers drop in DNR survey figures

Numbers of ruffed and sharp-tailed grouse have dropped since last year, according to spring population surveys conducted by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. Drumming counts of male ruffed grouse were down 12 percent statewide compared with those done in 1992.

The number of ruffed grouse drums was stable in the northeast range and central hardwoods survey zones compared with 1992, down 10 percent in the northwest range, down 20 percent in the north-central range, and down 17 percent in the southeast range.

"Ruffed grouse are likely near the bottom of their 10-year cycle," said Bill Berg, DNR wildlife research biologist in Grand Rapids. "Since the late 1940s, when we first began counting drums, ruffed grouse numbers have peaked near the end of each decade and hit a low near the middle of each decade. That's apparently what's happening now."

While the decline in the ruffed grouse population is attributed to the species' mysterious 10-year population cycle, the drop in sharp-tailed grouse numbers – the third in as many years – is due to habitat loss. Unlike the cyclic ruffed grouse population, sharptails have been in a general population decline for more than 20 years. The number of male sharp-tailed grouse counted on spring dancing grounds declined 23 percent in their east-central range and 26 percent in their northwest range from 1992. The current population is only one-third of its size in 1981.

"Sharptails need brushlands," said Berg. "That type of habitat is shrinking every year because of encroaching trees and maturing brush, and lack of controlled burning."

The DNR also has released preliminary figures on the 1992 grouse harvests. In 1992, 545,000 ruffed grouse were taken by hunters, down 60 percent from 1991, but only slightly lower than the 40-year average of 600,000. Hunters took approximately 20,000 sharptails in 1992, a decline of 33 percent from 1991.

The drumming and dancing ground counts are conducted each spring by DNR staff and other cooperators. This year the DNR completed a record 123 drumming routes with the help of the staffs at Chippewa and Superior national forests, Tamarac and Agassiz national wildlife refuges, White Earth Indian Reservation, Beltrami and Cass county land departments, Blandin Paper Co., and Brainerd Technical College.

Dancing ground counts were conducted by staff from the DNR, Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge and volunteers from the Minnesota Sharp-tailed Grouse Society.

"A Message From Your Local D.A.R.E. Officers."

The problem of drug abuse in the United States has reached crisis... proportions...and threatens to get worse.

Drug abuse has spread to every level of our society. From the 35-year-old surgeon, attorney or CPA who snorts cocaine...to the 11-year old ghetto kid who smokes marijuana joints laced with PCP...not one area of our nation has been unaffected.

Drugs have infiltrated our schools down to the elementary grades. Instead of playing baseball or jumprope at recess, ten-year olds are smoking pot.

Drugs have invaded the American workplace to the point where almost one in five workers use dangerous drugs regularly on the job. Instead of coffee breaks, employees are taking drug breaks. The results are lost productivity and higher prices in the marketplace.

Most alarming of all is the enormous increase in crime in the past decade. Law enforcement authorities estimate that two-thirds of all serious crime can be linked to drug abuse.

More than ever before, it is essential for parents, teachers, employers, law enforcement personnel and the general public to learn the facts about drug abuse...the possible short and long-term effects on people you care for...the common names for drugs and clues to drug abuse.

were 20 percent above the 10-year average. Rainfall during May and June throughout much of the state may have caused some disruption of nesting, but should provide good wetland conditions for brood rearing.

Resident Canada goose breeding populations increased 29 percent from 1992 and were 38 percent above the 10-year average.

Early goose hunts in the Twin Cities, the Fergus Falls/Alexandria area, and southwestern Minnesota will be continued in 1993. The Southwest Zone will be expanded considerably this fall to better manage resident giant Canada geese breeding populations. Also, the opening date of the early goose season is being moved to the first Saturday in September (Sept. 4) to ensure that there are two weekends in the 10-day season. Applications for the early goose hunts will be available in early July.

Eastern Prairie Population (EEP) of Canada geese that breeds in northern Manitoba and migrates through western Minnesota declined substantially this year. Although the 1993 spring was early and production was good, a smaller breeding population will result in a smaller fall flight and possible harvest restrictions.

"We will know more about the status of ducks and geese and likely fall flights in late July when more population and production data are available," Sando said.

Other Species

Details on the bear, moose and fall turkey seasons were announced earlier.

More information on the fall seasons will be available in the hunting regulations handbook available in early August. Sando said hunters should check the actual regulations before going afield.

DNR Swan Project

Minnesota's trumpeter swan restoration project continued this spring with the release of four more pairs of birds in the Tamarac National Wildlife Refuge in northern Becker County.

A total of 175 swans have been released through the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Nongame Wildlife Program since the spring of 1987. It has become one of the most popular efforts among the nearly 130 projects under-taken since the nongame wildlife program began in 1981 through funds provided by voluntary contributions on Minnesota tax forms.

"The restoration continues to show signs of success," said Katie Haws, Regional Nongame Wildlife Specialist at Bemidji. "During the past five summers, program swans have successfully hatched and raised 91 cygnets in the wild.

Number of swans has steadily increased with the annual release of additional two-year-old birds raised in captivity and the successful nesting of program swans as they reach maturity – between four and six years of age.

"DNR swans have nested in nine Minnesota counties and have been sighted in a total of 20 counties, as of last fall," said Haws. "We have confirmed reports of sightings in ten other states, and during the winter migration, from as far away as Oklahoma and Virgina."

From the beginning, DNR officials have relied on reports from lake area residents, bird watchers, hunters and other conservation-minded citizens to report sightings of trumpeter swans.

"Their summer range continues to expand," explained Haws. "Cygnets hatched in Minnesota will spend the winter with their parents and often return with them to their home territory the following spring.

"However," continued Haws, "nesting swans will not usually tolerate another pair of swans occupying the same lake, unless it is a very large lake. As swans mature and begin to pair up, they pioneer new breeding areas. Every spring it's a new challenge to locate returning swans and new nesting sites. We need to hear from private citizens to help locate resident pairs and verify nesting sites."

Trumpeter swans are relatively easy to recognize. They are the largest waterfowl in North America – weighing from 20 to as much as 38 pounds, with a wingspan of six to eight feet. Cygnets have gray-colored feathers until they're about one year old.

DNR program swans are marked with numbered, orange plastic wing tags. Swans from other restoration programs, including the Wisconsin DNR and Hennepin County Parks may be marked with neck collars. It is not unusual to see marked and unmarked swans together.

Anyone sighting a trumpeter swan should record the date and location of the sighting, and, if possible, the tag or collar numbers of marked swans.

Phone the information to Katie Haws or Bruce Lenning at the DNR Nongame Wildlife office in Bemidji at 755-2976, or call DNR swan project officer Steve Kittelson toll-free at 1-800-766-6000.

Water Safety Tips

Minnesotans are heading to the beaches, lakes and pools for vacations; unfortunately, some won't return home.

As cool and refreshing as it may look, water can be a killer. "Drowning accidents have claimed about 60 lives per year for the last five years in Minnesota, but that is well below the record 180 deaths in 1944," said Tim Smalley, boat and water safety specialist for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Drowning, which claims about 5,200 lives annually in the United States, the fourth leading cause of accidental death in the country and second for children under 15.

But water safety efforts are paying dividends, according to Smalley, who said several factors are contributing to the reduction in drownings: More people are learning to swim and taking boating safety classes; most boats are now manufactured with built-in flotation so they won't sink if they fill with water; fewer people swim away from capsized boats, so are more likely to be rescued; life jackets are more comfortable and easier to wear; and there is better enforcement of the drunk boater law and the law requiring people to have life jackets available on their boats.

Drownings tend to occur in lakes and rivers, but pools, tubs and almost any other body of water have claimed lives. "There have been even drownings in a golf course water hazard, and farm manure pits," said Smalley.

Spinal injuries, caused by diving into too shallow water, often results in death or permanent paralysis. The victim is often a male, in his late teens or early 20s, who has been consuming beer or other alcoholic beverages.

Smalley said the typical case involves a group of young men who have been drinking, and one of them dives into the water. With alcohol clouded judgement, the victim forgets that the water is only three feet deep, hits his head on the bottom and suffers a serious spinal injury. If he doesn't drown, he has to live with paralysis for the rest of his life.

"The phrase to remember is 'first time, feet first,' meaning don't dive until you know how deep the water is," Smalley said. "And if you have been drinking, stay away from the water all together."

- Take swimming lessons. Many local parks and recreation departments have a local swimming instruction program for children and adults.
- Don't dive into water of unknown depth or any above-ground pool. Remember, first time, feet first.
- Don't use alcohol if you are going swimming or boating.
- Don't substitute flotation devices such as inner tubes, air mattresses or inflatable cuffs for swimming ability. The only reliable device is a U.S. Coast Guard approved life jacket. Life jackets should be worn whenever you are boating.
- Swim with a buddy.
- Watch your children at the beach; don't expect the lifeguard to be a babysitter. When your child is near the water, you should be near your child.
- Know your ability for rescuing a drowning swimmer. Extend another object to the person, throw a floating object to them, or row a boat out for them; only swim out for them if you are properly trained in lifesaving techniques.

Catch-and-Release

There was a time when the only walleyes released by anglers were those that broke the line or shook off the hook. To most anglers, the thought of letting a walleye go made about as much sense as throwing your lunch into the lake.

But times have changed. More and more Minnesotans are learning that catch-and-release is one of the best ways to improve a lake's walleye fishing. Traditionally practiced by trout, muskie and bass anglers who realized lakes and streams didn't hold unlimited amounts of fish, catch-and-release has been adopted by many individual anglers and sports groups that want to continue hooking good-sized walleyes.

On Rainy Lake and Lake of the Woods, for example, local anglers are spreading the word about catch-and-release with billboards, media advertisements, posters, videos, and school-room visits.

Many Anglers still believe it is best to release tiny walleyes and trophy-sized females, thinking the small ones will grow up to be big fish and the females are needed to produce eggs.

It is interesting to note, however, that what would help walleye lakes more than releasing the rarely caught trophy fish would be the release of the more medium-size fish – those from 16 to 20 inches.

Researchers have found that lakes usually have an ample supply of little fish. And if there is enough spawning habitat, the intermediate-size females produce more than enough eggs. In most cases, what helps a fishery most is maintaining a high enough number of medium-sized walleyes.

By practicing 'selective harvest,' anglers can increase a lake's potential to provide big fish while still enjoying meals of freshly-caught walleyes. Keep fish under 16 inches for eating. Many walleye lakes have plenty of those, and besides, they're the best tasting fish.

Tips for releasing walleye:

- ■ Play the fish quickly, and handle it gently.
- ■ Never hold it by the eyes.
- ■ Use a needlenose pliers to removed hooks.
- ■ Cut the line if hooked in the throat or gills; the fish's stomach acids will dissolve metal.
- ■ Ease the fish into the water.

Junior Park Naturalist Program

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Division of Parks and Recreation introduced a new Junior Park Naturalist program in all state parks this year. It's designed for children ages 7-14, but adults are also encouraged to participate in the summer-long project.

Participants earn achievement certificates and colorful patches as they complete special projects and activities in the programs, which focuses on Minnesota's natural resources.

Those taking part in the activities earn points by attending interpretive programs presented in state parks, locating and observing plants or animal activity, taking a pledge to protect park resources, and by completing various projects.

Junior Park Naturalist program materials and activities are free and available exclusively at Minnesota state parks. For information about the program, call toll free, 1-800-766-6000.

Grouse numbers drop in DNR survey figures

Numbers of ruffed and sharp-tailed grouse have dropped since last year, according to spring population surveys conducted by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. Drumming counts of male ruffed grouse were down 12 percent statewide compared with those done in 1992.

The number of ruffed grouse drums was stable in the northeast range and central hardwoods survey zones compared with 1992, down 10 percent in the northwest range, down 20 percent in the north-central range, and down 17 percent in the southeast range.

"Ruffed grouse are likely near the bottom of their 10-year cycle," said Bill Berg, DNR wildlife research biologist in Grand Rapids. "Since the late 1940s, when we first began counting drums, ruffed grouse numbers have peaked near the end of each decade and hit a low near the middle of each decade. That's apparently what's happening now."

While the decline in the ruffed grouse population is attributed to the species' mysterious 10-year population cycle, the drop in sharp-tailed grouse numbers – the third in as many years – is due to habitat loss. Unlike the cyclic ruffed grouse population, sharptails have been in a general population decline for more than 20 years. The number of male sharp-tailed grouse counted on spring dancing grounds declined 23 percent in their east-central range and 26 percent in their northwest range from 1992. The current population is only one-third of its size in 1981.

"Sharptails need brushlands," said Berg. "That type of habitat is shrinking every year because of encroaching trees and maturing brush, and lack of controlled burning."

The DNR also has released preliminary figures on the 1992 grouse harvests. In 1992, 545,000 ruffed grouse were taken by hunters, down 60 percent from 1991, but only slightly lower than the 40-year average of 600,000. Hunters took approximately 20,000 sharptails in 1992, a decline of 33 percent from 1991.

The drumming and dancing ground counts are conducted each spring by DNR staff and other cooperators. This year the DNR completed a record 123 drumming routes with the help of the staffs at Chippewa and Superior national forests, Tamarac and Agassiz national wildlife refuges, White Earth Indian Reservation, Beltrami and Cass county land departments, Blandin Paper Co., and Brainerd Technical College.

Dancing ground counts were conducted by staff from the DNR, Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge and volunteers from the Minnesota Sharp-tailed Grouse Society.

"A Message From Your Local D.A.R.E. Officers."

The problem of drug abuse in the United States has reached crisis... proportions...and threatens to get worse.

Drug abuse has spread to every level of our society. From the 35-year-old surgeon, attorney or CPA who snorts cocaine...to the 11-year old ghetto kid who smokes marijuana joints laced with PCP...not one area of our nation has been unaffected.

Drugs have infiltrated our schools down to the elementary grades. Instead of playing baseball or jumprope at recess, ten-year olds are smoking pot.

Drugs have invaded the American workplace to the point where almost one in five workers use dangerous drugs regularly on the job. Instead of coffee breaks, employees are taking drug breaks. The results are lost productivity and higher prices in the marketplace.

Most alarming of all is the enormous increase in crime in the past decade. Law enforcement authorities estimate that two-thirds of all serious crime can be linked to drug abuse.

More than ever before, it is essential for parents, teachers, employers, law enforcement personnel and the general public to learn the facts about drug abuse...the possible short and long-term, effects on people you care for...the common names for drugs and clues to drug abuse.

Thief River Falls Fire Department showed off their 1934 FWD fire truck in the Cat Fest parade on Saturday. The truck was the first motorized fire truck the Thief River Falls fire department had. It was recently donated to the fire department by several local investors who purchased it from the Lake Bronson fire department. Barry Newton and Jerry Stenseth, full-time fire department personnel completed the restoration of the vehicle. The paint job was completed by high school students. The fire truck will eventually be displayed at the Historical Village in Thief River Falls along with a 1941 Ford fire truck and brass pole from the old fire station. Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman said according to their research the 1934 FWD was purchased for $9,025 from Oen's Mercantile which used to be located in the Bostwick's building. Bjorkman said they will continue to show off the fire truck in parades. The dalmatian dog on top of the fire truck belongs to Jerry Stenseth.

Mosquito control best achieved by dress, DEET

It's the mosquito swatting season and persons tempted to seek a quick fix should think twice before investing their money or time, notes Jeffrey Hahn, an entomologist with the University of Minnesota's extension service.

"Mosquito control for individuals is often limited to a few options that are usually temporary at best," Hahn says. "This fact often frustrates people who are looking for nonchemical controls.

One popular claim from nature is that purple martins and bats consume large numbers of mosquitoes. This may lead people to build bird and bat houses to encourage these insect-feeding creatures. In reality, mosquitoes make up less than three per cent of bats' diets, Hahn says. Purple martins and bats favor other flying insects such as butterflies, dragonflies, crane flies, beetles and moths.

Insect electrocuters, also known as bug zappers, are popular devices for killing mosquitoes. The claim is that mosquitoes are attracted to the black light and killed when they come in contact with the electrified grid.

"These traps do attract large numbers of insects," Hahn agreed, "but several researchers have shown that mosquitoes make up less than five per cent of all the flying insects killed. These devices have never demonstrated the ability to reduce the number of mosquito bites."

The Citrosa "Mosquito Fighter" plant has been genetically created by crossing an African geranium with the Grass of China, which has been known to contain citronella oil, a mild to moderate mosquito repellent. Hahn said the plant is pleasant smelling and will grow to a height of 12 feet if left unpruned.

People selling Citrosa plants claim that one plant will keep an area of up to 100 square feet mosquito-free. Hahn says that despite some anecdotes and claims from gardeners who have planted Citrosa, there is no scientific research to support these claims. At least one researcher has found that these plants are ineffective in repelling mosquitoes.

"In the long run, personal protection such as sprays and lotions containing DEET, and wearing pants and long-sleeved shirts rather than clothes with less coverage is probably the most effective way to protect yourself from mosquitoes," he says.

For more information contact the university's Dial-U Insect and Plant Information Clinic at 1-900-988-0500 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays for assistance.

Thief River Falls Fire Department showed off their 1934 FWD fire truck in the Cat Fest parade on Saturday. The truck was the first motorized fire truck the Thief River Falls fire department had. It was recently donated to the fire department by several local investors who purchased it from the Lake Bronson fire department. Barry Newton and Jerry Stenseth, full-time fire department personnel completed the restoration of the vehicle. The paint job was completed by high school students. The fire truck will eventually be displayed at the Historical Village in Thief River Falls along with a 1941 Ford fire truck and brass pole from the old fire station. Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman said according to their research the 1934 FWD was purchased for $9,025 from Oen's Mercantile which used to be located in the Bostwick's building. Bjorkman said they will continue to show off the fire truck in parades. The dalmatian dog on top of the fire truck belongs to Jerry Stenseth.

Mosquito control best achieved by dress, DEET

It's the mosquito swatting season and persons tempted to seek a quick fix should think twice before investing their money or time, notes Jeffrey Hahn, an entomologist with the University of Minnesota's extension service.

"Mosquito control for individuals is often limited to a few options that are usually temporary at best," Hahn says. "This fact often frustrates people who are looking for nonchemical controls.

One popular claim from nature is that purple martins and bats consume large numbers of mosquitoes. This may lead people to build bird and bat houses to encourage these insect-feeding creatures. In reality, mosquitoes make up less than three per cent of bats' diets, Hahn says. Purple martins and bats favor other flying insects such as butterflies, dragonflies, crane flies, beetles and moths.

Insect electrocuters, also known as bug zappers, are popular devices for killing mosquitoes. The claim is that mosquitoes are attracted to the black light and killed when they come in contact with the electrified grid.

"These traps do attract large numbers of insects," Hahn agreed, "but several researchers have shown that mosquitoes make up less than five per cent of all the flying insects killed. These devices have never demonstrated the ability to reduce the number of mosquito bites."

The Citrosa "Mosquito Fighter" plant has been genetically created by crossing an African geranium with the Grass of China, which has been known to contain citronella oil, a mild to moderate mosquito repellent. Hahn said the plant is pleasant smelling and will grow to a height of 12 feet if left unpruned.

People selling Citrosa plants claim that one plant will keep an area of up to 100 square feet mosquito-free. Hahn says that despite some anecdotes and claims from gardeners who have planted Citrosa, there is no scientific research to support these claims. At least one researcher has found that these plants are ineffective in repelling mosquitoes.

"In the long run, personal protection such as sprays and lotions containing DEET, and wearing pants and long-sleeved shirts rather than clothes with less coverage is probably the most effective way to protect yourself from mosquitoes," he says.

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

A life free from fear

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

When your life is pleasing to God, He protects you from your enemies and even makes them be at peace with you (2 Sam. 22:18; Psalm 18:3, 17; Prov. 16:7). Jesus told you not to fear men or what they can do to the body. Instead, you are to fear God, who has the power to kill both the body and the soul (Matt. 10:28). Yes, God can destroy the soul of a man!

When you obey God by walking the holy Way He walks, you are doing the Will of God on this earth daily as it is being done in heaven (Matt. 6:10). When you obey God, you become eligible for all the benefits that come from serving the Creator of heaven and earth. God protects you in famine and war, from violence, wild beasts and theft (Job 5:20-27; Psalm 10:5; 91:7; 34:7; 33:19; Prov. 3:25-26). He gives you long life and healthy children. The Lord will protect you from all evil and sickness if you are keeping His Ways (Psalm 121:7; 91:3; 103:3). You do this by practicing righteousness and honesty in all your dealings with man, just as Abraham did (Gen. 18:19). God will protect you if you learn and practice what pleases Him and bring up your children in the Ways of the Lord (Eph. 5:10; 6:4; Col. 3:20).

God has told you in His word what is good and how to love Him (Micah 6:8; Zech: 7:9-10; Matt. 25:33-40; Prov. 8:17). You seek God by doing good for Him (Psalm 14:1-3; 1 Peter 3:11). Doing good for God is how you please Him and how you serve Him. You please your heavenly Father in the same way that you would please your earthly father—by doing everything you can to obey and please Him. Just get busy serving Him by serving others in kindness and charity.

You are walking in the commandments and fulfilling the royal law when you practice righteousness toward your fellow man daily to please God (2 John 6; 1 John 3:7; James 2:8). The Law is not made for the righteous, but for sinners, because the righteous are already abiding by its principles (1 Tim. 1:8-10). When you practice righteousness daily by not swearing and lying, you are living according to the Law (Col. 3:8-9; Prov. 8:13). You are using your body as an instrument of righteousness (Rom. 6:12-13, 19). You are putting to death the deeds of the body by doing good for God, and you are no longer carrying out the desires of the flesh (Rom. 8:12-13; Gal. 5:16, 19-21). Then, you are no longer under the Law but under grace (Gal. 5:18; Rom. 6:14). Then, and only then, can you have a life free from fear and guilt—a life filled with God's peace which surpasses all comprehension (Phil. 4:7).

Minnesota Road Story Is Good News, Bad News

The good news about Minnesota roads is that the rural road network in the state ranks third in the nation. Minnesota roads are the fourth safest roads in the nation and the state ranks number one in the nation for its low percentage of poor roads.

That's the good news.

The bad news about Minnesota's roads is that 77.4 per cent are in no better than fair condition! That places us in ninth place in the nation, and since Minnesota has the fifth largest road system in the U.S. with 129,438 miles of streets and highways, it means that there could be big trouble ahead.

"The state will have to spend some money maintaining those roads in the next few years or risk facing very costly reconstruction of thousands of roadway miles in the future," says Minnesota Senator Roger Moe.

Moe says there is a good reason why Minnesota has such a large road system. "The state has more farms than all but four states," he said, "and the rural routes are necessary for bringing agricultural products to market. Other states with a large number of farms also tend to have large, costly road systems."

Minnesota has made and is making a large investment in its roads, paying for the quality we expect. Based on 1990 statistics, Minnesota invests $468 per person in its roads—fourth highest among all the states. The sad fact is that it isn't enough. Our road quality is slipping away from us, and if we don't start accelerating our maintenance program soon, the generally good roads we have come to expect will become the fair and poor roads of tomorrow.

"We're already in a bind," Sen. Moe said. "Based on current funding levels, the state has already begun delaying scheduled highway projects. Due to a lack of state matching funds, some of the designated federal funds will be lost starting in mid-1995. Meager transit budgets across the state will be reduced starting in mid-1994."

Minnesota's greatest source of highway funding is the state gas tax. For many years this proved reasonably adequate, for the greater the number of vehicles on the road the greater the amount of money generated to build the roads and keep them in repair. It's not so simple any more.

Although the number of vehicles on the roads has increased and more miles are being driven, newer vehicles are more fuel-efficient and gas consumption hasn't increased accordingly. The state gas tax per gallon was last increased in 1988.

Minnesota has been proud of its highways for many years, and justifiably so. It has given high priority to establishing and maintaining a quality system, made the investment necessary to attain it and now can ill afford to let it deteriorate.

Not only are high quality roads necessary for movement of goods and people, they are necessary from a safety standpoint as well. Minnesota has the safest roads in the Midwest at 1.19 fatalities per 100 million miles of travel—down from 2.64 as recently as 1980. Although much of this decrease is due to seatbelts, airbags, stricter drunk driving laws and other programs and safety features; road improvements such as wider travel lanes, passing and turn lanes and four-lane roadways contribute greatly to safer travel.

We don't object much to user fees such as gas taxes which are put to dedicated use. Nobody likes to pay more taxes, but no one likes to drive on poor roads or cross unsafe bridges, either. If higher gas taxes are needed, bring 'em on before road damage becomes too great to repair. Paying later usually means paying more.

Congratulations To Our New Miss Thief River Falls—Marcia Erickson

This year's Miss Thief River Falls pageant was an especially interesting one for spectators since it provided suspense right up until the final announcement of Marcia Erickson as Miss Thief River Falls 1993-94. The five candidates seemed so closely matched that selection of any one of them to wear the crown would not have been a surprise.

We congratulate Marcia on her selection and hope she enjoys her reign as well as gains from it. Not much was said in advance, but we can imagine the fact that her older sister Debbie had worn the Miss Thief River Falls crown several years ago put a little extra pressure on her participation. If so, it should be relieved by her selection.

We can't remember a pageant in the more than 30 years we have been involved with covering them for The Times when all of the contestants seemed to have such a good chance to win. All possess good talent and personality and Thief River Falls would have been well represented by any of them.

Marcia didn't take long to get right to work at her duties. With her title acquired Saturday night, she was out on Sunday to add her royal presence to the in-line skating races. She is a willing winner and will continue to make her presence known at public events during the coming year. In the process she will gain poise and confidence as the winners always do. Have a great year, Marcia. Your royal subjects are behind you all the way.

To The Editor:

The Centennial celebration at Trinity Lutheran church is history....but the memories will linger on. What a wonderful celebration, and it took many dedicated people to pool their time, talents and resources to make this happen.

The pastors, Rev. Josh Nelson and Rev. Ron Calvert, spent so much time and it was wonderful that so many of the past ministers could be a part of the celebration.

The co-chairmen—Roger and Ardy Tunberg and Frank and Jeanette Hamerlinck—did an incredible job. The historians devoted so much time and should be recognized—Russ and Fern Williams and Howard and Avis Hoium. We mustn't take their work for granted.

Wally and Bonnie Tunberg coordinated a very special banquet with the help of the staff at the Best Western. The turnout was fabulous.

The mass choir was wonderful under the able direction of Les Torgerson and accompaniment by Cathy Hagen....plus the other special effects, the readings and musical presentations including the brass accompaniment and vocal presentation by Phil and Lynda Jorgenson.

It was heartwarming to see so many former members come back to honor Trinity's Centennial celebration. People of all ages traveled from far and near. We saw people in wheelchairs, with walkers and on crutches who made the extra effort to be in attendance, as well as the smiling faces of many, many young people. It was fun to see so many we knew and they know there is always a place for them at Trinity.

It's impossible to list everyone who made this happen, but we want them all to know that we appreciate their efforts.

Fondly,
Bob and Annette Bergan

Coffee Rationing May End in August

"Office of price administration officals in Washington predicted Thursday that coffee rationing will end on or before August 11 and supplies of coffee will be ample to provide all the aromatic brew that Americans can drink. Coffee supplies appear to justify cancellation of all restrictions, they said, and only some totally unpredictable event, such as a new outbreak of submarine warfare in the Caribbean, could block dropping of rationing."

"Saturday is tag day, the tags, this time representing donations of cigarettes to the men in the service. A nickel, contributed in this way, will send a package of twenty cigarettes to a man in the armed forces serving in the most remote corners of the world. A dollar donation will send a package each to twenty of our soldiers or sailors. Here is an opportunity to make a few dimes go a long way."

"We observe that the Republican press are again waking up from their recent defeat and are unanimous in the opinion that Democratic free trade is ruining the country. They cite the recent failings, the fact that mills and factories are shutting down and thousands of men are being thrown out of employment. They all say 'we told you so — it's the tariff.' If the cholera should happen to reach our shores [from Europe] this year, you may expect they will say 'it's all on account of the tariff.' No Republican is expected to know or talk of any political question except, of course, the tariff."

Minnesota Road Story Is Good News, Bad News

The good news about Minnesota roads is that the rural road network in the state ranks third in the nation. Minnesota roads are the fourth safest roads in the nation and the state ranks number one in the nation for its low percentage of poor roads.

That's the good news.

The bad news about Minnesota's roads is that 77.4 per cent are in no better than fair condition! That places us in ninth place in the nation, and since Minnesota has the fifth largest road system in the U.S. with 129,438 miles of streets and highways, it means that there could be big trouble ahead.

"The state will have to spend some money maintaining those roads in the next few years or risk facing very costly reconstruction of thousands of roadway miles in the future," says Minnesota Senator Roger Moe.

Moe says there is a good reason why Minnesota has such a large road system. "The state has more farms than all but four states," he said, "and the rural routes are necessary for bringing agricultural products to market. Other states with a large number of farms also tend to have large, costly road systems."

Minnesota has made and is making a large investment in its roads, paying for the quality we expect. Based on 1990 statistics, Minnesota invests $468 per person in its roads—fourth highest among all the states. The sad fact is that it isn't enough. Our road quality is slipping away from us, and if we don't start accelerating our maintenance program soon, the generally good roads we have come to expect will become the fair and poor roads of tomorrow.

"We're already in a bind," Sen. Moe said. "Based on current funding levels, the state has already begun delaying scheduled highway projects. Due to a lack of state matching funds, some of the designated federal funds will be lost starting in mid-1995. Meager transit budgets across the state will be reduced starting in mid-1994."

Minnesota's greatest source of highway funding is the state gas tax. For many years this proved reasonably adequate, for the greater the number of vehicles on the road the greater the amount of money generated to build the roads and keep them in repair. It's not so simple any more.

Although the number of vehicles on the roads has increased and more miles are being driven, newer vehicles are more fuel-efficient and gas consumption hasn't increased accordingly. The state gas tax per gallon was last increased in 1988.

Minnesota has been proud of its highways for many years, and justifiably so. It has given high priority to establishing and maintaining a quality system, made the investment necessary to attain it and now can ill afford to let it deteriorate.

Not only are high quality roads necessary for movement of goods and people, they are necessary from a safety standpoint as well. Minnesota has the safest roads in the Midwest at 1.49 fatalities per 100 million miles of travel—down from 2.64 as recently as 1980. Although much of this decrease is due to seatbelts, airbags, stricter drunk driving laws and other programs and safety features, road improvements such as wider travel lanes, passing and turn lanes and four-lane roadways contribute greatly to safer travel.

We don't object much to user fees such as gas taxes which are put to dedicated use. Nobody likes to pay more taxes, but no one likes to drive on poor roads or cross unsafe bridges, either. If higher gas taxes are needed, bring 'em on before road damage becomes too great to repair. Paying later usually means paying more.

Congratulations To Our New Miss Thief River Falls—Marcia Erickson

This year's Miss Thief River Falls pageant was an especially interesting one for spectators since it provided suspense right up until the final announcement of Marcia Erickson as Miss Thief River Falls 1993-94. The five candidates seemed so closely matched that selection of any one of them to wear the crown would not have been a surprise.

We congratulate Marcia on her selection and hope she enjoys her reign as well as gains from it. Not much was said in advance, but we can imagine the fact that her older sister Debbie had worn the Miss Thief River Falls crown several years ago put a little extra pressure on her participation. If so, it should be relieved by her selection.

We can't remember a pageant in the more than 30 years we have been involved with covering them for The Times when all of the contestants seemed to have such a good chance to win. All possess good talent and personality and Thief River Falls would have been well represented by any of them.

Marcia didn't take long to get right to work at her duties. With her title acquired Saturday night, she was out on Sunday to add her royal presence to the in-line skating races. She is a willing winner and will continue to make her presence known at public events during the coming year. In the process she will gain poise and confidence as the winners always do. Have a great year, Marcia. Your royal subjects are behind you all the way.

To The Editor:

The Centennial celebration at Trinity Lutheran church is history....but the memories will linger on. What a wonderful celebration, and it took many dedicated people to pool their time, talents and resources to make this happen.

The pastors, Rev. Josh Nelson and Rev. Ron Calvert, spent so much time and it was wonderful that so many of the past ministers could be a part of the celebration.

The co-chairmen—Roger and Ardy Tunberg and Frank and Jeanette Hamerlinck—did an incredible job. The historians devoted so much time and should be recognized—Russ and Fern Williams and Howard and Avis Hoium. We mustn't take their work for granted.

Wally and Bonnie Tunberg coordinated a very special banquet with the help of the staff at the Best Western. The turnout was fabulous.

The mass choir was wonderful under the able direction of Les Torgerson and accompaniment by Cathy Hagen....plus the other special effects, the readings and musical presentations including the brass accompaniment and vocal presentation by Phil and Lynda Jorgenson.

It was heartwarming to see so many former members come back to honor Trinity's Centennial celebration. People of all ages traveled from far and near. We saw people in wheelchairs, with walkers and on crutches who made the extra effort to be in attendance, as well as the smiling faces of many, many young people. It was fun to see so many we knew and they know there is always a place for them at Trinity.

It's impossible to list everyone who made this happen, but we want them all to know that we appreciate their efforts.

Fondly,
Bob and Annette Bergan

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota July 22, 1943

From The Times Files of Fifty Years Ago

Must Depend On Local People To Aid In Farm Work

"E. H. Pomerenke, chairman of the county emergency farm help committee, this week was asked by Paul E. Miller, agricultural extension director, to take all possible steps locally in preparation for the heavy demand of farm help that will develop as quickly as the harvest season gets under way. Farmers are asked to make use of their local placement officers."

Women Making Surgical Dressings Get Vacation

"After completing its current quota, the surgical dressings project being conducted in the auditorium was closed Tuesday evening for the time being, the workers, who have been turning out in highly satisfactory numbers this summer, will enjoy a well-earned vacation. Announcement as to the date when operations will be resumed will be made after the next consignment of material has been received."

Coffee Rationing May End in August

"Office of price administration officals in Washington predicted Thursday that coffee rationing will end on or before August 11 and supplies of coffee will be ample to provide all the aromatic brew that Americans can drink. Coffee supplies appear to justify cancellation of all restrictions, they said, and only some totally unpredictable event, such as a new outbreak of submarine warfare in the Caribbean, could block dropping of rationing."

—That strange calm in Washington must be due to the fact that congress is taking a vacation.

—A southern Minnesota editor thinks, properly enough, that in reporting social events, not only should be listed those who poured tea, but also those who peeled the potatoes and washed the dishes.

—Times advertising is like a woman's dress. It gives adequate coverage and excellent display.

—Several years ago Jack Dempsey announced that he was through fighting, but, comments the Baudette Region, his recent divorce court activities suggest that he was only fooling.

—Speaking of the question of priorities, we hear of a North Dakota girl who is engaged to three sailors.

—The automobile industry, which in pre-Pearl Harbor days produced four billion dollars worth of cars annually, this year is turning out about twenty billion dollars worth of airplanes. That we suppose, is progress.

—Laments Les Nelson in the Mahnomen Pioneer: It has changed from the high cost of living to the high cost of existence.

—Pennington county cows, we read, produced 2,173,652 lbs. of butterfat in 1942. That sounds like a million dollars in any man's language.

—The government may have derived the inspiration for its food subsidy plan from the picture of an ostrich hiding its head in the sand.

—Cifvilian defense leaders who are telling a skeptical public that Minnesota offers a likely target for enemy bombers, may yet have the last laugh.

—City folks seeking a change of scene during their summer vacations, might well show up at a Minnesota farm and try to make themselves useful.

—If today's children are getting a lopsided version of current events, it may be due to the fact that pupils soon will be graduated from high school without having ever attended school under any president other than Mr. Roosevelt.

—It will be our own fault if we have clothes rationing, says the War Production Board, which advises the public not to buy more than they need.

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

St. Hilaire, Polk County, Minnesota July 26, 1893

From Newspaper Files Of One Hundred Years Ago

From the Editorial Page

"We observe that the Republican press are again waking up from their recent defeat and are unanimous in the opinion that Democratic free trade is ruining the country. They cite the recent failings, the fact that mills and factories are shutting down and thousands of men are being thrown out of employment. They all say 'we told you so — it's the tariff.' If the cholera should happen to reach our shores [from Europe] this year, you may expect they will say 'it's all on account of the tariff.' No Republican is expected to know or talk of any political question except, of course, the tariff."

Country Western singing star Tanya Tucker was expressive as she performed Saturday at the Pennington County Fair

Rain dampens grounds but not enthusiasm

92nd annual Pennington County Fair successful despite rainy weather, concert change and cancelations

More rain fell on the 92nd annual Pennington County Fair than on any Pennington fair in recent memory but officials of the exposition had no reservations about declaring the event a success. And they had several reasons for their optimistic outlook.

Two events did have to be canceled Sunday, July 25, the last day of the fair when the rainfall finally made the grounds too soft. The regular concluding event of the fair—the Jaycee Demolition Derby —was canceled after a city truck became mired in the demo area grounds Sunday morning. And the open horse show was called off because of a soupy horse show arena.

The only other major change from the regular schedule of events was the necessity to move the Tanya Tucker shows Saturday night inside the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. Rainfall and the most fierce lightning of the year moved in about noon and fair board members and hired workers scrambled along with the professional sound and light crew to fabricate a stage and get things ready for the indoor show.

Before that set-up could take place, however, the 4-H exhibits and a number of commercial booths had to be removed from the area. Floyd Erickson, chairman of the entertainment for the fair board, has placed an advertisement in today's issue of The Times to thank people who helped and those who were inconvenienced and showed understanding.

"We would have preferred the outdoor show we had planned for," Erickson said, "but the lightning, rain and threat of it continuing did not give us a choice. It takes about eight hours to set up for the show, and we had to make our final decision by mid-morning."

> "All things considered I think we can be satisfied that it was a pretty good fair . . . . : But it does leave us wondering if conditions had been perfect how great a fair it really could have been."
> – Norris Thune, Fair Board President

The move indoors disrupted the reserved seating plan and that disappointed many people who had purchased their tickets early to get the best seats. Lines of ticket holders formed early for both shows and by the time the doors opened the lines extended from the civic center doors east to Brooks Avenue, a block south on Brooks and started west along highway 59.

Paid attendance for the two shows totaled 3,707 and with tickets traded for promotional consideration the total attendance was estimated at about 4,000. While acoustics in the civic center are terrible, the sound crew did a remarkable job of making the best of a bad situation and the crowd did stay dry and get to see performances by a contemporary country music legend.

Openly critical of local area support of the "big name" entertainment last year when Mike Reid and Mark Chesnutt drew only 1,077 in attendance for four performances, the fair board was lavish in its praise for the support received this year, not only for the Tanya Tucker shows but for the fair in general.

"I think it shows that the community responded to our sense of disappointment last year and showed that it really wants the fair and the big name entertainment to continue," stated treasurer Terry Nelson."

To almost everyone's surprise, despite the rain and soggy grounds the Murphy Bros. carnival set an all-time record for Pennington County Fair receipts with an increase of $8,000 over last year, according to Nelson. The $20 megapass which was good for unlimited rides throughout the entire fair was very popular, but the on-site sales at the carnival also held up on a par with a year ago.

Exhibits were up in a number of areas as total premiums paid totaled $10,351.84—an increase of nearly $1,000 from the $9,389.50 paid in 1992 and continuing the growth pattern from $8,871 in 1991 and $8,423 in 1990.

Open class premiums totaled

Finseth takes office

Rep. Tim Finseth, IR-Angus, who was elected July 13 to replace former Rep. Wally Sparby in District 1B, took his oath of office in the Minnesota House of Representatives chambers last Thursday.

"I am honored to be the newest member of the Minnesota Legislature," Finseth said, "and promise to work as hard as I can to represent the best interests of all the people who live in Northwestern Minnesota."

Finseth also said he would use the time between now and the next session in February to address issues of concern in the district, consider committee assignments and get acquainted with colleagues.

Attending the ceremony and reception were Finseth's wife, Ruth, his parents and numerous family members.

Finseth expressed his thanks to those who turned out to vote in the special election and said he was looking forward to representing Northwest Minnesota.

Finseth defeated Joel Swanson, a DFLer from Thief River Falls, for the house seat by a margin of 54.3 to 45.7 per cent. The final vote was 3,309 to 2,790.

It was Finseth's third attempt to become a House member. He tried to unseat Rep. Edgar Olson (DFL-Fosston) in 1986 and lost to Sparby in the 1992 general election.

Items Finseth said were on his legislative agenda included workers' compensation costs, controlling property taxes in rural areas and curtailing state spending.

Ribbon cutting to officially open the machinery building at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village in Thief River Falls took place at a dedication program in the building Sunday afternoon. Sheriff prohibits use of river because of flood

Tuesday morning, Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe closed the Thief and Red Lake rivers to boat traffic of any kind, and to swimming because of flooding conditions. Sheriff Moe said the river currents are too fast and strong and there is a substantial amount of floating debris, which includes large dead heads.

He made the decision, after receiving complaints from worried citizens, observing the river and discussing conditions with reservoir dam operators in Thief River Falls. He said he is asking citizens not to use the rivers until further notice, which might only be a couple of days—depending on the weather.

Over 7,000 acres of forest lands administered by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources were seeded or planted this year, according to Robert Wennerstrand, area forest supervisor for the DNR forestry division in Warroad.

"This would be equivalent to an area one-quarter of a mile wide by more than 40 miles long," Wennerstrand said.

With one of the largest state forest systems in the United States, Minnesota has one of the largest state forest tree planting programs in the nation.

"In the last 10 years," says state forester Jerry Rose, "the DNR has planted or seeded an area of state forest land equivalent to a one-quarter mile wide strip stretching from Minneapolis to Memphis, TN."

Pines (particularly Norway Pine, the state tree) are the major species planted. This includes the planting of 166,000 white pine on state land. Many other native tree species are used as well. For instance, oak and other hardwoods are widely planted in the state forests of southeastern Minnesota.

Trees are planted on state lands to reforest harvested area, provide wildlife habitat, protect watershed value and maintain the quality of state forests. Professional foresters determine the tree species appropriate for the site. The actual planting is done by private contractors hired by the DNR.

"Local DNR foresters coordinated the planting of 1,046,000 trees on state forests during the past year," says John Stanton, forest management specialist at Warroad. "The trees, predominantly jack pine, Norway pine and white spruce were hand planted on sites prepared last summer, fall and even this spring."

Local foresters also work with private land owners through government programs and independently. These private land owners planted a million trees, bringing the total for this area to approximately two million trees.

7,000 acres of trees planted

Over 7,000 acres of forest lands administered by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources were seeded or planted this year, according to Robert Wennerstrand, area forest supervisor for the DNR forestry division in Warroad.

"This would be equivalent to an area one-quarter of a mile wide by more than 40 miles long," Wennerstrand said.

With one of the largest state forest systems in the United States, Minnesota has one of the largest state forest tree planting programs in the nation.

"In the last 10 years," says state forester Jerry Rose, "the DNR has planted or seeded an area of state forest land equivalent to a one-quarter mile wide strip stretching from Minneapolis to Memphis, TN."

Pines (particularly Norway Pine, the state tree) are the major species planted. This includes the planting of 166,000 white pine on state land. Many other native tree species are used as well. For instance, oak and other hardwoods are widely planted in the state forests of southeastern Minnesota.

Trees are planted on state lands to reforest harvested area, provide wildlife habitat, protect watershed value and maintain the quality of state forests. Professional foresters determine the tree species appropriate for the site. The actual planting is done by private contractors hired by the DNR.

"Local DNR foresters coordinated the planting of 1,046,000 trees on state forests during the past year," says John Stanton, forest management specialist at Warroad. "The trees, predominantly jack pine, Norway pine and white spruce were hand planted on sites prepared last summer, fall and even this spring."

Local foresters also work with private land owners through government programs and independently. These private land owners planted a million trees, bringing the total for this area to approximately two million trees.

7,000 acres of trees planted

Over 7,000 acres of forest lands administered by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources were seeded or planted this year, according to Robert Wennerstrand, area forest supervisor for the DNR forestry division in Warroad.

"This would be equivalent to an area one-quarter of a mile wide by more than 40 miles long," Wennerstrand said.

With one of the largest state forest systems in the United States, Minnesota has one of the largest state forest tree planting programs in the nation.

"In the last 10 years," says state forester Jerry Rose, "the DNR has planted or seeded an area of state forest land equivalent to a one-quarter mile wide strip stretching from Minneapolis to Memphis, TN."

Pines (particularly Norway Pine, the state tree) are the major species planted. This includes the planting of 166,000 white pine on state land. Many other native tree species are used as well. For instance, oak and other hardwoods are widely planted in the state forests of southeastern Minnesota.

Trees are planted on state lands to reforest harvested area, provide wildlife habitat, protect watershed value and maintain the quality of state forests. Professional foresters determine the tree species appropriate for the site. The actual planting is done by private contractors hired by the DNR.

"Local DNR foresters coordinated the planting of 1,046,000 trees on state forests during the past year," says John Stanton, forest management specialist at Warroad. "The trees, predominantly jack pine, Norway pine and white spruce were hand planted on sites prepared last summer, fall and even this spring."

Local foresters also work with private land owners through government programs and independently. These private land owners planted a million trees, bringing the total for this area to approximately two million trees.

TRF Education Foundation elects officers

Thief River Falls Education Foundation held a meeting in which they elected new officers and directors July 13 in Thief River Falls at the District Service Center.

Roger Tunberg will remain the president and Tom Kays the secretary/treasurer. Paul Ihle, has been elected as the new vice chair. Thief River Falls Education Foundation, formed in 1990, has created a scholarship fund, a fund for special educational equipment, and a newsletter designed to keep alumni of Lincoln high school in touch with one another. The Foundation mounted a major fund-raising and membership drive earlier this year. At its recent meeting, it was noted that assets had increased in the past year from $34,000 to $66,000. Tunberg said there are a total of 41 members in the Founder's club. To become a member of the Founder's club the member must contribute $500 or more. There are a total of four members in the President's club. Membership in the President's club is reserved to individuals who contribute $10,000 or more.

General membership in the Foundation has also increased in the past year. Tunberg said membership increased by 130 to 140 new members.

Two directors also had to be elected. Dick Bjorkman and Dr. John Seaverson retired as members of the board of directors. Elected to the board to replace the retiring directors were Ed Sisler and Heidi Hoks.

Correction:

A news story on The Guy Doud/Roy Hope Crusade failed to mention that the crusade will also perform on July 30 in the Newfolden High school gymnasium at 7:30. The story in the last issue of the Northern Watch did state that the crusade will be held July 31 and August 1.

New directors on the Thief River Falls Education Foundation include Ed Sisler and Heidi Hoks. The two were chosen to serve on the board at a meeting July 13.

Dr. John Seaverson was presented a plaque in appreciation of his service as a member of the board of directors for the Thief River Falls Education Foundation. He received the plaque at a meeting of the board on July 13. Also retiring as a member of the board, but not present at the meeting, was Dick Bjorkman. The plaque was presented by Board President Roger Tunberg (left).

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Art on the Sidewalk

It is summer and most of us want to spend lots of time outside, children included. An activity that you can do this summer is to draw on the sidewalks.

You will need chalk or water color paints and brushes and a sidewalk. Simply let the children be as creative as they wish and draw or paint. Colored chalk adds a great dimension to this activity.

Clean up is extremely easy. Just wait for the next rain shower and you can do it all over again!

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need empty plastic shampoo bottles, water and swim suits.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through their new selection of children's books including the following:

Brown, Marc. D.W. Thinks Big. D.W. is attending her first wedding and feels bad because she has nothing special to do. After a strange turn of events she gets to walk down the aisle and save the day.

Asbjornsen, P.C. and J. E. Moe. The Man Who Kept House. Follow one catastrophe after another when a man, thinking his wife doesn't work hard enough at home, decides to change jobs with her for a day.

VIDEO VARIETY

"The Selfish Giant. A lonely orge keeps his gates locked and forbids the town's children to play in his beautiful garden. A little boy comes to the rescue by showing the giant the joy of sharing and caring for others.

REMEMBER!

Special after work storytime on Thursday, from 5 to 5:30 p.m.

PARENTING TIPS

Food as a Reward

Have you ever found yourself doing or being tempted to do the following?

♥ Your child falls down and gets hurt, but not seriously and you say "It doesn't look too bad," and then to distract your child you say "Let's go find something to eat."

♥ Whenever your baby cries you give him a bottle or a pacifier without first trying to determine why he is crying.

♥ When two children are misbehaving, you offer food or candy in exchange for their good behavior?

Often a favority food is a quick way to get children to calm down and change their behavior.

But it is not the best way.

Children who are continually given food to pacify them or reward them or coax them to do something can come to regard food as comfort in times of stress. They may begin to eat whenever they feel anxious and consequently may develop weight problems since they are eating for a reason other than hunger.

Help your child learn to use food to satisfy physical hunger rather than his/her emotional needs. Be sensitive to what you are encouraging by being aware of when you offer food to your child and for what reason. Remember you are helping them to establish lifelong eating patterns.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

The next time your child comes to you and says, "I'm hungry," ask him or her "are you hungry for a hug or for food?"

Lesa Mooney and Ken Hagman wed July 10

Lesa Mooney and Ken Hagman were united in marriage July 10 at the home the bride's parents in Thief River Falls. Rev. Tom Wilson of the United Methodist church officiated at the 4:30 p.m. double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Ed and Lynnae Mooney of Thief River Falls. The groom is the son of Katherine Hagman of Thief River Falls and the late Emil Hagman.

Special music was provided by Lydell Kuskowski, aunt of the bride, and May Sikorski, friend of the bride, who sang "Each for the Other," "May God Bless You" and "More." Tawni and Sara, friends of the bride, played the flute.

The couple were married in a tent under an arch made by Collin Mooney, brother of the bride. The arch was decorated with red and white balloons.

The bride chose a white satin gown heavily beaded with sequins, and pearls, featuring short sleeves, a V-shaped neckline with pearl drops and a medium train with a diamond shape design and sequins. The bride complemented her gown with a veil accented with sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of red and white silk flowers, strings of pearls and white lace. It was made by the mother of the bride.

Geri Anenson of Thief River Falls, friend of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a red silky long dress with off-the-shoulder design and short sleeves.

Flower girl was Roxanna Mooney of Thief River Falls, daughter of the bride. She wore a white ruffled mid-length dress with a white hat featuring ribbons at the back. She carried a white lace basket with silk flowers.

Ushering the guests were Collin Mooney of Thief River Falls, brother of the bride, and Steve Engstrom of Thief River Falls, nephew of the groom.

A reception was held for the couple following the ceremony. April Hagman, niece of the groom, presided over the guest book.

The serving table was highlighted by a three-tier white cake with pillars trimmed with red hearts. Coffee was served by Tami Mooney and Lynette Mooney, both cousins of the bride. WIC & EPS Hold August Clinics

Women, infants and children supplemental nutritional educational program (WIC) is being held during the month of August.

Infants and children up to the age of five and women who are pregnant or breastfeeding may be eligible for the program. Prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is considered important to apply for WIC early in pregnancy; no proof of pregnancy is needed.

All potential clients must write to the WIC service and complete an application.

The schedule for WIC and EPS clinics for August includes August 2, 9, 19 and 20, all at the Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Immunizations will now be given by county nurses. Please contact Inter-County Nursing service in Thief River Falls at 681-5950 for dates and times.

For further information concerning the WIC and EPS programs, call or write: WIC/EPS, Quin County, Park Place Mall, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750 or telephone (218) 253-2125 or 1-800-223-1591 (toll free).
